Lions Hear Local AF Man

Maj. Richard T. Mallon, Kingsley Field executive officer, was the guest speaker at the Lions Club luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Willard Hotel.

Speaking before more than 40 members on the "Impact Kingsley Field" he stated that after the field becomes fully operational, "the estimated monthly military payroll of the airmen at Kingsley Field will be $300,000 a month, or six million dollars a year. This amount does not include the money that the Air Force will spend for goods and services in the construction and maintenance of the base."

Major Mallon also pointed out that there would be a need for over twice as many family housing units as will be provided by the recently authorized Capehart housing, presently being built at Kingsley. The challenging problem of providing the kind of housing suitable for Air Force personnel occupancy must be solved in the very near future.

Major Mallon is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles. He was adjutant of the 701st Tactical Missile Wing at Hahn Air Base in Germany prior to being assigned to Kingsley Field.

JAMES MALLORY, right, was installed as president of the Weed Chamber of Commerce at a recent dinner meeting in the Savoy Hotel. Congratulating him is out-going president David Sbarbaro, who presented the gavel to Mallory, winding up two terms as head of the group. Nearly 100 persons attended the installation ceremonies.

Auto Man Elected To Lead Chamber Of Commerce

WEED — James Mallory, Weed auto man, was elected president of the Weed Chamber of Commerce at a recent dinner meeting in the Savoy Hotel.

He succeeds David Sbarbaro, who headed the organization for two terms.

GOP Does Not Overrate Chances Of Demo Brown

338 GOP DOES — Editor's Note: California's primary set the stage for a vital November election race for governor between Republican Sen. William F. Knowland and the Democratic dates.

By MORRIS LANDSBERG SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If you didn't know him, you might think twice before picking out Edmund G. (Pat) Brown as anyone likely to become governor of California.

In politics and in personality, the cheery, round-faced attorney general is the complete opposite of his Republican opponent, Sen. William F. Knowland.

But Republicans don't underestimate the 53-year-old Democrat.

Blood Drive Nears Quota

Blood donors of Klamath Falls and surrounding suburbs turned out Wednesday to contribute 251 pints of blood toward the 400-pint goal set for the June visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile. This month's operation is being sponsored by the Masonic bodies of Klamath County.

Eighteen registered nurses attending a medical history class being taught here by Mrs. Dorothy Johansen, chief nurse, Northwest Regional Blood Center, Portland, assisted with yesterday's operation.

Virginia Dixon, executive director of the Klamath Basin Red Cross Chapter, today expressed appreciation of the cooperation from this group, from the blood donors, those who contribute consistently to requirements of the canteen and to others who assisted.

She especially commended officers, enlisted men and civilian personnel of Kingsley Field, who came to the Masonic Temple in buses to make their contributions. The Kingsley Field recruitment was headed by Capt. E. A. Valentine and M.Sgt. Robert Long.

The second day of the bloodmobile visit will be from 4-8 p.m. today at the recreation hall in Merrill. Some 200 pledge cards have been turned in from prospective donors of Merrill and Tulelake. Others are expected from Malin which also is included in the tri-city program.

BIG TIPPER

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — James Dwyer found a brief case in the bus he operates. In it were $40 in cash and bank books with deposits totaling $70,000. One of the books showed $50,000 was deposited last month. The owner, a woman, claimed it, gave Dwyer $10. Her name was not disclosed.

He's a hustler and a vote-getter. For eight years he has been the only Democrat holding statewide office. Tuesday's primary results confirmed his two-party popularity.

Brown, a self-styled moderate, has an average-man look. He's plain and informal, with an air of sincerity. Once a Republican, he has helped unify his present party after years of disputes.

Brown both worked and joshed his way through an intensive pre-primary campaign. "I have a hard name to remember but I hope you'll try," the plumpish candidate told one audience.

Shaking hands through a Northern California town, he advised a barber: "Give 'em a campaign talk when you've got 'em collared with that thing around their necks."

A labor supporter cautioned, "We think you've got it made, but don't take it easy."

"I'm developing a killer instinct," Brown replied.

He combined this type of personal campaigning with sharply worded attacks against Knowland and Knowland's injection of the so-called right-to-work (anti-union shop) issue.

At various times, Brown called the Senate Republican leader "a foolish modern McKinley," "a grasping reactionary with eyes fixed on the White House," and central figure in "a cynical deal" to push Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight out of the gubernatorial race. Knight is running for the U.S. Senate.

Brown said the election gave the voters — 7 to 5 Democratic — a choice between what he termed balanced progressiveness and the backward look.

"The forces of reaction think that if they can take a big and strategic state like California in 1958," he said, "they can take the nation in 1960."

He and Mrs. Brown have five children, including a 18-year-old son who is studying for the Catholic priesthood.

If he's elected, Brown will be California's first Democratic governor since 1938, its second in this century.

CAMPAIGN APPEALS

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — They're dragging out the paraphernalia in Anne Arundel County, priming the political pump for the May 29 primary election. A county commissioner candidate has yo-yos for the small fry too young to vote. A sheriff aspirant has hand mirrors labeled on the back. "The lady in the bus he operates. In it were $40 in cash and bank books with deposits totaling $70,000. One of the books showed $50,000 was deposited last month. The owner, a woman, claimed it, gave Dwyer $10. Her name was not disclosed."
