The picture above was one that the photographer couldn't resist. It was taken in an upstairs bedroom at the home of Mrs. Elmer Balsiger on Watson Drive, during the reception.

The bride and bridegroom left the festivities to change into travel clothes, and Tom was assigned to Mrs. Balsiger's young son Randy's room. He noticed the mask . . . tried it on for size and decided to have some fun. When he joined his bride to escort her downstairs, her response brought others up the stairs and someone hurried after the photographer. What he saw — you see.

Campus Romance At U Of Nevada Leads Karen Totton-E. M. Randall To Altar In Sacred Heart Church

Yellow and white gladioli with green foliage decorated Sacred Heart Catholic Church for the wedding of Karen Myrtle Totton to Edward Marvin Randall on May 31, at 2 p.m.

Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John David Totton, 1218 Crescent Avenue, longtime residents of Klamath Falls, prominently identified with civic and social life in the community. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Randall, Reno.

Monsignor T. P. Casey officiated at the Sunday afternoon nuptial ceremony in the presence of approximately 100 guests.

Karen, escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, wore her mother's wedding dress of white Chantilly lace over antique-white satin. The bodice was made with a lace-collared high neckline and long bridal-pointed sleeves.

Lace covered buttons fastened the dress' front from the collar to within about a foot from the hemline of the full, floor length skirt. Karen wore the dress unfastened from below the hipline leaving the lace overskirt open to show part of the heavy antique satin foundation skirt. A seed pearl encrusted Juliet cap held her waist length veil of illusion and she carried a small arrangement of white orchids and lilies-of-the-valley with white satin streamers atop a white prayer book. Her dress was the old; her veil, new; the prayer book was borrowed from Mrs. Robert Riggs; and the garter she wore was the "blue."

Mrs. Morris Friberg of Sacramento served as matron of honor; and Michael Ann Totton, Karen's sister, and Marilyn Lee Randall, Edward's sister, were junior bridesmaids.

Mrs. Friberg wore a floor length dress of dotted yellow nylon, made with a lace edged collar and lace edging on the cuffs of the short sleeves. Her nosegay was of yellow and white carnations and she wore a headband of white carnations and yellow daisies.

The junior bridesmaids wore similar dresses of the same dotted nylon in pale green and their flowers were the same as Mrs. Friberg's.

Best man was Daniel J. Hanley, Reno; and ushers were Dean Edward Greear, the bride's cousin from Chiloquin; and Martin H. Conlin, friend of the bride's family, Klamath Falls.

Acolytes were David Cortin and Glen Slowey.

Doris Hefley was organist for the wedding.

The reception was at the spacious suburban home of Mrs. Elmer Balsiger on Watson Drive. Guests were received in the living room which easily accommodated the 100 guests.

AS GOOD A PLACE AS ANY NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Four-year-old Mark Andrews caused an awkward silence when he asked his parents before some dinner guests: "Where did I come from to the hospital?" Getting no answer, he said, "Oh well, we'll look it up in the Book of Knowledge."
