

Home Extension

The food preservation season is here for some fruits and vegetables and will be here later for others. Here are some pointers to remember when canning your produce.

Choose fresh, firm fruits and young tender vegetables. Can them quickly before they lose their freshness. If they must be held for any length of time, keep them in a cool airy place. If fruits and vegetables are purchased to can, try to get them from a nearby garden or orchard.

For best quality in the canned product, use only perfect fruits and vegetables. Sort them for size and ripeness; they cook more evenly that way.

Wash all fruits and vegetables thoroughly. Dirt contains some of the bacteria hardest to kill. Wash small lots at a time under running water or through several changes of water. Lift the food out of the water each time so dirt that has been washed off won't go back on the food. Rinse pan thoroughly between washings. Don't let fruit or vegetables soak; they may lose flavor and food value. Handle them gently to avoid bruising.

Fruit and vegetables may be packed raw into glass jars or tin cans, or preheated and packed hot. Raw food should be packed into the container tightly because it shrinks during processing. Hot food should be packed fairly loosely; it should be at or near boiling temperature when it is packed. There should be enough syrup, water or juice to fill around the solid food in the container and to cover the food. Remove the bubbles by working the blade of a table knife down the sides of the containers. Add more liquid if needed. Cover the food; however, be sure to leave space at the top.

Process according to the time tables for the specified fruit or vegetable. Home and Garden Bulletin No. 8 "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables" is available from the County Extension Office by calling TU 4-8151 or asking for it in Room 217, post office building. When processing vegetables in a pressure canner, increase the pressure one pound for every 2,000 feet in elevation.

OVER THE GARDEN GATE

NORTHSIDE GARDEN CLUB
By Fern Dolan

A busy May meeting of the Northside Garden Club was held in the clubhouse on Bismark Street. Margaret Valk and her committee reported on work being done at the Shippington Park which club members are helping care for. Flower beds have been weeded and husbands of members helped seed a lawn. The club is now raising money to buy a power lawn mower.

Bob Bonney, director of parks and recreation in Klamath Falls, spoke on city parks and asked cooperation of Northside members in maintaining a small flower bed at Moore Park where few flowers can be grown due to manpower shortage. The project need not be a burden to garden clubbers, Bonney said, because even a few plants will add beauty to the grounds. Northside members are to meet with Bonney June 12 to get a bird's-eye view of his proposed plan. He will contact other garden clubs within the city soon.

Opal Ferguson has been appointed delegate to the district convention. Edna Kiser and Fern Dolan will chairmen a baked food sale to be held this month. Margaret Valk and Gard Krauss will be in charge of a rummage sale to be held in the fall.

New officers, Kathleen Deen, president; Opal Ferguson, vice president; Christine Thomason, second vice president; Sue LaSalle, secretary; Nina Price, treasurer, and Margaret Valk, director for three years, were installed by Mrs. Earl Redmond.

Mrs. John Guidi and Mrs. Edward Charas served lunch to 17 members.

ANSWER

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atlantans have long been used to mothers-in-law talking back, but they had been scarcely prepared for back-talk from houses. The latest wrinkle in the Georgia capital is a housing development equipped with hidden speakers which give answers to prospective buyers' questions.
