

Father Flies From Home In Sweden To Watch His Daughter's Graduation

DUNSMUIR — With commencement complications rife in many households last week, many fathers felt they have dealt with everything but a trip across the North Pole.

one of many groups who engage and compete in this sport. He said "orienting" is popular not only in the Scandinavian countries but in Switzerland also. He was taken fishing Friday afternoon by Jim Lockart as a sample of Dunsmuir's recreational attractions.

On Friday morning he attended the school award assembly where Ulla was the only feminine member of the senior class to receive a "Block D" as an honorary member of all athletic teams. Earlier this year Ulla was made an honorary member of the National Honorary Society for her top scholastic work.

Dunsmuir residents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Peterson, were guests of the Bernstons as part of a current European tour. Both Ulla and Bernston agree they will have much to tell mother and 14-year-old brother upon their return and Bernston like a true tourist is taking color pictures of the countryside and Ulla's classmates to show the people back home.

NORTH POLE FLIGHT was made by Rolf Bernston from Goteberg, Sweden, to witness the graduation of his daughter, Ulla, at Dunsmuir High School June 6. Ulla has been a foreign exchange student at the Dunsmuir school for the past year.

Mackinaw Says Its Bridge Best

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (AP) — The mayor of Mackinaw City has said to the mayor of San Francisco: "May I extend a personal invitation to visit our community and to see the world's newest and greatest bridge. We think that in many respects our bridge tops your Golden Gate. So please come and make your own comparison." Mackinaw City's Mayor Neal Downing wrote that note yesterday to San Francisco's Mayor George Christopher, inviting the latter to attend the dedication here June 25-28 of the $100,000,000 Straits of Mackinaw Bridge.

Leadership Classes Set For GS Units

Plans are now in progress to conduct leadership training sessions for the Klamath Area Girl Scout Day and Established camps, Mrs. Edward Brotherhood has announced. Mrs. Brotherhood, who is the executive director of the Klamath Area Girl Scout Council, said that three pre-camp training sessions for all the camp leaders are planned for Monday, June 23; Wednesday, June 25; and Friday, June 27.

All three training sessions will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The Monday and Wednesday sessions will be held at Moore Park in the picnic area and the Friday session will be held on campus at Camp Esther Applegate. Leaders are to furnish their own sack lunches for the first session and cook-outs are planned for the last two sessions.

The over-all training program will include orientation to the respective camps; emphasis on outdoor activities according to age groups; specialists who will conduct workshops on various subjects; program planning for both Day and Established camps; songs, games, and entertainment with demonstrations for group participation; and visual aids such as the film, "Adventuring in Day Camp."

Following these training sessions, the leaders will be ready to conduct the Girl Scout Day and Established camps. Day Camp will be a six day session of day camping at Moore Park on July 8, 9, 10, 15, 16 and 17 for all girls from 6 to 17 years of age. Established Camp will have two 10-day sessions from August 2 to 12 and from August 12 to 22 at Camp Esther Applegate for all girls who have completed the second grade.

The Klamath Area Girl Scout Council is a United Fund agency.

Welfare Has Busy Schedule

Two hundred seventy children and 873 other cases were on the books of the Klamath County Welfare Commission during the month of May, it was reported at Friday's regular monthly meeting of the welfare commissioners, presided over by Mrs. Richard M. Smith, chairman of the commission.

The figure for children includes all those receiving services through the child welfare department. This includes foster care and casework services, whether or not the commission contributes toward the financial support of the child. The other figure, which refers to cases, and not individuals, includes all instances of financial aid of some kind given under the public assistance program.

The commissioners approved a request to the state for one fourth of the $801,716 amount already certified to the commission as the 1958-1959 assistance budget. This sum, $200,429, will be used to cover assistance during the period July 1 to September 30. Costs of administration are met out of a separate budget.

than schools used to be?" There are several answers, all of which apply to some extent to our local situation.

First of all, it is well to bear in mind that the increase in expenditures looks much less startling when we allow for the depreciation in the value of the dollar. Our dollar today is worth only about 30 per cent of what it was in 1900.

Secondly, we are educating more people. The school population is more than half again as large as it was in 1900. One reason is that 86.1 per cent of the present school-age population is enrolled in the schools, as compared to 72.4 per cent of the 1900 school-age population. Child labor laws, compulsory attendance laws and a growing appreciation of the value of education have all conspired to bring about this change.

On top of this, the school year is longer today than it used to be. In 1900, schools were in session for an average of 144 days per year. Today every state has laws which vary slightly but which require the schools to be open roughly 180 days per year; Oregon's laws require 180.

There is better attendance today than there was in the earlier days. For example, today the average pupil attends school 89 per cent of the time whereas his counterpart at the turn of the century had only a 69 per cent record. Therefore today's pupils average 160 days in school while in 1900 they attended only 99 days.

These are the constant factors contributing to higher school expenditures. In addition, there are certain other factors affecting schools locally that account for the apparent rise in the cost of education.

Other factors more closely related to the local and state school programs will be discussed in the next issue of the Herald and News.
