Hardtops To Roll Saturday Night

A full card of local racing drivers who will conform to the Klamath Racing Association's recent ruling on limited engine modifications will join forces with cars and drivers from Northern California Saturday night at Klamath Speedway in the first of the 1958 season's night hardtop programs. Time trials are slated for 6:30 p.m.

The association readjusted specifications in order to do away with the possibility of any one car having a runaway chance, thus destroying a lot of thrills and spills which can ordinarily be expected when traffic is more closely bunched.
The KRA has taken every possible step to assure fans of an exciting enjoyable evening, asserted Buif Runnels, association president. "Last week we had very little dust, and that came from the infield, not the track. It will be a simple matter to stop that, also. We have been congratulated on the speed with which we have run off each event, and we intend to do all in our power to guarantee fans the kind of a race they like," Runnels added.

A number of local drivers who were unable to compete in the season opener on Memorial Day are scheduled to appear for Saturday's show.
Among the old faces to show this Saturday are Kenny Kime and Dale Hankins, both of whom have completely rebuilt their cars. Hankins blew up his engine in the season opener while running in second place, only four laps from the finish of the main event. A brand new Hudson engine will replace the old.
Another to join the ranks of the Hudson drivers is Bud Cook, champion of 1957, who will shift from a Ford to the rebuilt version of his last year's car, K4.
Another local favorite who will be gunning for a win is Wes Bishop, K10, who was second best in a trophy dash altercation with George Smith in car K7, the last time out. Bishop was forced off the track but not until he had inflicted enough damage to Smith's automobile that he was compelled to sit out three races while getting it repaired. Smith came back in time to win the main event despite the entanglement.

In addition to the regular slate of events, the Klamath Junior Racing Association will have 10 cars in readiness for their second outing. The KJRA is composed of high school students who build and race their own cars under the supervision of the senior association. The juniors will vie in events separate from the older, more experienced group.

Admission is 90 cents for adults, 50 cents for students and children under 12 with parents are admitted free.
