Manners MAKE FRIENDS

Make sure that the hospital patient who has undergone surgery is ready to see visitors before you barge into his hospital room. You can always check with hospital authorities or a member of the family to make sure that your visit will do the patient good, instead of merely tiring him. Never ignore a "No Visitors" sign on a hospital room.

If your TV set is in the same room with your telephone, turn it down or off before you answer the telephone. It is confusing and annoying in such cases to try to make someone understand over the telephone. A television set should never compete against a phone caller's voice.

When you go to a cocktail party, reception or tea—don't get off in a corner and talk to one person the whole time. At such gatherings you are expected to move around and talk to a number of persons. Your cocktail party hostess will consider you a dead weight — if you don't circulate.

If you accept an invitation to a party you should try to go in a "party frame of mind." The guest who sits back tiredly waiting to be entertained, the one who is annoyed with his wife and shows it or the one who just happens to feel argumentative is no asset to any party. So put on a good party mood when you put on your party clothes.

If a friend gets a promotion, wins an award, is elected to an office or receives any other kind of honor or advancement, be sure to drop him a note of congratulations. Such thoughtful little gestures are always appreciated. Everyone likes to know that his friends are pleased over his good fortune.

Even if your escort is your husband, don't discuss the price of the food, or glance at the check when it is presented. A woman can avoid ordering the most expensive things on a menu without making any point of it or seeming to be concerned about the cost.

The woman who accepts a man's small courtesies without visible appreciation is not only being ungracious but she is also discouraging him from similar courtesies toward other women. If a man goes unthanked he would be only human if he thought, "Why bother?"

If you accept a blind date you shouldn't show any disappointment if the date doesn't come up to your expectations. You need never accept another date with the person. For the one evening, be pleasant and try to make the best of a poor situation.

A thank-you note can be very brief. But it should be prompt. And it should express real appreciation. A lukewarm thank-you note or one sounding as though written merely from a sense of duty is a poor thing indeed.

Mardahl-Desbiens Nuptials In St. Vincent de Paul's

WEED — Of wide interest to friends in the Weed area is the marriage of Bernadette Desbiens of Quebec, Province of Canada, and Jerome (Jerry) Mardahl, member of a family long identified with this community... the son of Mrs. Thomas Mardahl Sr., and the late Mr. Mardahl.

The couple was married in San Francisco where the bridegroom is an employee of Crown-Zellerbach Company and the new bride is a practicing registered nurse.

They exchanged vows in St. Vincent de Paul's Church at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, May 31, the Rev. T. Murphy officiating. Only members of the immediate family attended.

Following their wedding trip to Mexico City, they will be at home in San Francisco.

Mrs. Mardahl Sr., and another son, Thomas Mardahl Jr., both of Weed, were in San Francisco for the nuptials.

The new Mrs. Mardahl received her RN degree in Canada. Mardahl was graduated from the Weed Elementary School and from Bellarmine Prep School in San Jose. He served four years with the United States Air Force and later was graduated from Santa Clara University with a bachelor of science degree.

This summer, every woman will have at least one pair of colored shoes in her wardrobe. They may be flowered or printed or striped or in solid color but they'll set off black linen beautifully.

Mauve linen has a cool look for summer, particularly when it's done in a slim, unadorned dress. If the mauve is sufficiently deep, it will take well to pale pink or blue accessories.

No one can wear a sweater like an American woman. You'll see lots of cotton or linen dresses with matching sweaters this summer.
