

97th Birthday To Be Marked

BONANZA — Mrs. Annie Cline, Box 1040, Alturas, California will celebrate her 97th birthday Thursday, June 19. She is the aunt of Mrs. Florence Horn of Bonanza and spends every winter here. She has a nephew, Lester Boggs, in Klamath Falls.

Mrs. Cline always has a garden and many beautiful flowers, does lots of canning and bakes her own bread. She says she keeps busy 13 hours a day with housekeeping and sewing and the gardening. One of her many hobbies is letter writing and she still writes a beautiful hand.

Each fall Mrs. Cline and Mrs. Horn and Jack attend the annual family reunion at Woodburn and it is one of the highlights of her year. Mrs. Cline has lived in Alturas since 1922. Her husband, George Cline, died in 1944, ending 54 years of married life. They had no children but raised several. Mrs. Cline has never missed voting, even if it meant walking to the polls.

She has many friends in Klamath County and a shower of birthday cards would really please her.

Farm Judging Tour Held

LAKEVIEW—The 29-40 Farmers fourth and last instructional judging tour was held June 5 at Alturas with Dr. Vic Hill in charge and making arrangements for the use of market and breeding swine that were on exhibit at the junior livestock show there.

Top judge for the day was Delores Heavilin with 377.3 out of a possible 400 points. Second was Linda Moran with 364.3; third, Ron Hotchkiss with 341.0; fourth, Ann Weir with 321.8; and fifth, Susan Hotchkiss with 309.5. Top judge for the FFA group was Andy Vandergaw with 315.2.

This concludes the instructional program. The 20-40 group will put on a judging contest sometimes in July and this, as well as the County Fair judging contest, will count toward picking the county livestock judging team.

So far, on the instructional tours there have been 1,100 possible points. The two contests to follow will have 800 possible points each. This would give a total possible score of 2,700 points. The 20-40's wish to emphasize that with this number of possible points those who may have missed some of the instructional tours could still come out on top by doing well in these contests.

AL Auxiliary Installs

MERRILL—Newly elected officers of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 89 were installed in office during a brief ceremony Tuesday evening, June 10, at the home of Mrs. Bessie West.

Succeeding Mrs. West as president of the auxiliary is Mrs. Audrey Lewis. Other installed officers were Mrs. Bessie West, first vice president; Mrs. Lena Buck, second vice president; Mrs. Ruth Harris, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Virginia Lampkins, historian; Mrs. Anne Fruits, chaplain and sergeant at arms.

It was also announced that the Merrill unit has recently been presented two citations. From Camp White was a citation for gifts and miscellaneous items sent throughout the year for distribution at the camp.

Also received was a citation from national headquarters. The award stated that the Merrill auxiliary unit merited special commendation and recognition for service in carrying forward the national program of the American Legion Auxiliary by enrolling a 1958 membership equal to or exceeding its 1957 membership. This citation was presented to the auxiliary during district caucus proceedings at Klamath Falls on June 6.

Fetsch Named Grand Knight

LAKEVIEW—Carter Fetsch was named grand knight of Lake County Council, 2417 Knights of Columbus, at the election meeting Monday night, June 9. He succeeds Martin McGrath.

Other officers elected were Don Waters, deputy grand knight; Ed Zarosinski, chancellor; Ervin Toney, warden; Wallace Sweeney, recording secretary; F. Carl Fetsch, treasurer; Arthur Kaley, advocate; Ray Michaelson, inside guard; Gene Tracy, outside guard; Martin McGrath, three-year trustee. Holdover trustees are Tom J. Flynn, two-year, and Charles Sullaway, one-year. Installation will be in July.

During the evening, announcements were made of awards made at the state convention to the local council. These included first place for the 70-page scrapbook, which is the fifth consecutive time for the Lake County group to place first in this division.

A membership trophy was also won by the council for admission of 25 new members last year, which was 10 over the quota.

Lake County was also one of two in the 44 councils in the state to be granted a Star Council certificate from the National Supreme Council.

Mount Shasta Water Plan To Assure Longtime Supply

NEW WATER SUPPLY for the city of Mount Shasta will feature the use of concrete and metal conduits to assure adequate anti-contamination control of the water supply. Shown here is a concrete structure at one of the 15 big springs that will supply Mount Shasta.—Photo by McKinney

By J. O. MCKINNEY
MOUNT SHASTA — Water shortage, bugaboo to many localities, will come to Mount Shasta only if its population exceeds 20,000. Enough for that many people is now being built into the city's mains.

Besides an adequate amount, the purity is as high as water can be. Springs are being piped into storage tanks and into the big 16-inch main without ever coming in contact with any outside conditions. The only way pollution could be effected is for contaminating factors to penetrate metal or concrete. No more assurance than that can be expected.

The city's supply comes from 15 big springs that burst from the southwestern slope of Mt. Shasta. The water emerges from the ground into pipes that carry it to where it is needed with no other waters entering the system.

These springs were once owned by several private companies and individuals. It was then thought that there was enough water for every need.

A steady growth dissipated that belief. By 1912 the city council saw that there would come a day when a water supply must be assured. A bond issue was floated, and all but a few holders sold their interests.

The McCloud River Railway held some of the rights, and H. D. (Curley) Brown and a few other purchasers held some more. Later purchases eliminated most of these, and today the Ralph L. Smith Lumber Company is the only holder of rights aside from the town. If the town ever needs more water, they have an artesian well inside the city limits that flows more than 1,000 gallons of water per minute. It is being inducted into the system to supply any emergency need that may arise.

A problem of excessive pressure in the water mains caused some concern until it was eliminated. The source of the water is several hundred feet higher than town, and pressure rose to as high as 220 pounds per square inch. Reducing valves have taken care of that problem, but these may be opened if fire fighting would require a higher pressure than normal.

The town's water supply fluctuates somewhat, but in inverse seasons to most communities. During winter and chilly, freezing weather, water flow drops somewhat. It is only when hot weather hits, and other localities suffer a water shortage, that the snow fields send down their greatest volume.

The town's water is distributed without the use of meters. A flat monthly rate for all outlets is charged, and the amount a family may use is the amount they need for all purposes.

Mount Shasta has plenty of good water.
