—fertilize with ORTHO-GRO

Tests conducted by noted garden author and lecturer, John Paul Edwards

In just 3 weeks, ORTHO-GRO made this difference!

Plant on left was fed 1 teaspoon ORTHO-GRO Liquid Plant Food each week; plant on right was watered but given no additional feeding. At start of test both plants, in same soil, had equal growth and bloom.

HERE'S WHAT HAPPENED! ORTHO-GRO supplied the plant with all essential nutrients for growth—nitrogen, potash, phosphoric acid—and because this rich organic fish formula is liquid, the plant absorbed them quickly. At the same time, the new chelating agent in ORTHO-GRO helped the soil provide iron and other important elements.

RESULTS: a flourishing plant with magnificent blooms while untreated plant shows only ordinary growth.

"Pushbutton" fertilizing!—apply ORTHO-GRO with the ORTHO Lawn Sprayer attached to your hose. 1 pt. concentrated makes 48 gallons of fertilizer.

As You Were Saying...

The Two Mourners. I was traveling in a funeral procession and, because the cemetery was 20 miles away and we were driving very slowly, I had lots of time for reflection.

I noticed some of the oncoming cars pulled to the side of the road and waited courteously for us to pass, but most of them just zoomed by indifferently. It made me wonder whether respect for the dead was dying, too.

Then, as we rounded a curve, I saw two boys—about 12 or 13—standing by their fallen bicycles, caps held across their breasts, motionless and solemn as the procession drove by.

I decided that, though the old virtues may die in some of us, they will always be born again in others.—Mrs. Cordelia Jessee, Eugene, Ore.

The Helpful Passenger. During World War II, I made a plane trip to Chungking, China. Besides the military passengers, some high-ranking Chinese civilians were aboard. One of them had his 10-year-old son along and, because the boy wasn't used to flying, he became ill. The Chinese, though they love their children, don't show emotion in public and weren't able to cope with the situation.

Finally, one passenger told them to lay the boy down beside him and rest the child's head in his lap. They did so and the boy calmed down, finishing the trip with his head in the lap of Gen. Claire Chennault—Chief Warrant Officer John T. Lawlor (U.S.A., Retired), Lake Charles, La.

Two Ways to Pray. I've never been a very religious person, but during a recent financial crisis I began praying. I asked God to solve our problem, but I became discouraged and bitter as things grew worse.

Then I read a story about two girls who were worried about being late for school. One suggested they stop and pray that God get them there on time. The other said, "No, let's keep going as fast as we can and pray while we're running."

I suddenly realized my only effort had been prayer. I began to work on our problem, and the next few weeks brought not only a change in my attitude but an improvement in our situation.

All is well now, but I don't think I'll ever forget how to "pray while running."—Mrs. D. S., Burlington, Vt.

A Yard with Green Stuff. My husband is in service and we move around a lot. As a result, we've been living mostly in apartments. I never realized how this affects children until just before our last move.

We discussed buying a house at our next station and casually asked the children what they thought of the idea. They were all enthusiastic, but made only one definite request: "Please buy one with some of that real green stuff in the yard, like other people have around their house."

They didn't even know how to say the word for grass.—Mrs. Joseph P. Prukop, Wichita Falls, Tex.
