

Actor Enjoyed Working In London With Comic Play

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Barry Nelson thought he detected some sympathetic glances from his co-workers when he returned for a TV show recently.

"I could just feel them thinking, 'Poor Barry, he hasn't been working lately,'" he laughed.

As a matter of fact, Barry Nelson has been working steadily for 18 months and enjoying one of the biggest successes of his life. He drew raves for his performance as Will Stockdale in the London company of "No Time for Sergeants." Although he was signed for only six months, he extended his stay twice because the show was such a hit.

"But try and tell that to people in Hollywood!" he sighed. "They think because they haven't seen you on TV or in pictures that you've been out of work."

Barry is now back to repair his fences. He's up for some film roles and will take them only if they seem important.

"I'm doing too well in TV and on the stage," he explained. "If you allow yourself to get into a B-picture rut, you endanger your career in other mediums."

"For that reason, I've done only one picture in seven years."

[That was "The First Traveling Saleslady" with Ginger Rogers. It sounded like a good project the time. But it turned out to be the picture that opened and closed RKO. How are you to know?]

Still, he's not afraid to take chances, as he did with "No Time for Sergeants." He was playing a different kind of a role for him and in a strange country. What's more, the show seemed doomed at the start.

"We were sticking our necks out with an American play, star and director," Barry commented. "To top it off, the London papers were full of a blast that Helen Hayes had leveled at the British theater. They were highly indignant."

Further, he faced the raucous gallery first-nighters who have been known to hiss a play so badly that it couldn't continue. Barry said they often holler "Author!" so they can throw vegetables at him.

Despite these hazards, the play was a smash. Barry decided to stay with it even though he knew his Hollywood career might suffer.

"I couldn't miss the opportunity of living over there and doing a show," he said. "It is getting increasingly difficult for American actors to play London. I was the only American in the cast."

Hospital Case Suit Dropped

PORTLAND (AP)—Dist. Atty. Leo Smith of Multnomah County (Portland) said Morningside Hospital will not be prosecuted on congressional charges of mistreatment of Alaskan mental patients.

Smith said he had made an intensive investigation of the charges contained in a majority report by a subcommittee of the House Committee on Government Operations. The majority report listed a number of cases of what the congressmen said were mistreatment or improper treatment of the patients.

The Republican minority report accused Democrats on the committee of political partisanship and prejudice in the conduct of public hearings on the hospital.

Smith said that any accusation of mistreatment could not be prosecuted because the statute of limitations has run out. His office investigated only cases in which patients had died and found no basis for prosecution, he said.

The hospital has a contract with the government for caring for mental patients from Alaska.

Wayne Coe, who operates the hospital, has repeatedly denied that there has been any mistreatment of patients.

Hitchhiking Tar Crushed

PORTLAND (AP)—Two Norwegian seamen, hitchhiking a ride atop a big express truck, had no clearance room when the truck went under a pedestrian overpass here late Monday night. One was crushed to death and the other was swept onto the highway and injured.

The man killed was Tore Bjorn Olsen, 17, of Kongshamn Troms, Norway. His companion, Egil Hogstli, 25, of Kragero, Norway, was reported in fairly good condition Tuesday but with apparent loss of memory of the accident. Hospital attendants said that aside from the memory loss, possibly stemming from a head injury, he was alert.

The men were seamen on the freighter Lancelot. Why they were on the truck was not known, but the coroner's office said another seaman from the ship reported seeing them climb aboard when the truck stopped on Front Ave. for a traffic light.

They were knocked from it at the falling school overpass a few blocks south.

Driver of the truck was William Byers of Grants Pass.

More Anti-Canada Riots Seem Unlikely In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government stationed two additional militiamen in front of the Canadian Embassy today but it appeared unlikely so far that a demonstration was in the offing in retaliation for the attack on the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa.

Nor was there any indication that the U.S. Embassy would be the target of a Soviet crowd, as the West German Embassy was yesterday and the Danish Embassy was Friday.

Demonstrators have attacked Soviet embassies in Copenhagen, Bonn, Ottawa and New York with stones and ink in protest against the execution of Imre Nagy and three other leaders of the 1956 Hungarian revolution.

Only the Copenhagen and Bonn incidents have been reported by the Soviet press and radio, however.

The extra guards brought the total outside the Canadian Embassy to four. Their presence aroused some suspicion, since similar extra guards had arrived at the Danish and West German buildings a few hours in advance of the demonstrators.

The Canadians said they had not asked for the extra protection. The West German Embassy had, but the four guards there had little effect on the crowd of 1,500 which hurled sticks, stones and ink at the building for two hours. Police reinforcements finally dispersed the demonstrators after they broke all windows in the building.

West German Ambassador Hans Kroll said he delivered the "strongest possible protest" to Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister A. V. Zakharov. He asked an apology, damages and a guarantee that the attack would not be repeated.

The West German government had expressed its regrets promptly at the attack on the Soviet Embassy in Bonn and promised to repair the damage.

The continuing wave of recriminations in the wake of the Hungarian executions brought a strong protest from the Yugoslav government to Hungary and a charge by Pravda that the United States and Britain were whipping up an "hysterical hullabaloo" to renew the cold war and sabotage a summit conference.

Nagy, installed as premier by the Hungarian rebels, had taken refuge in the Yugoslav Embassy in Vienna after Soviet troops moved in to crush the revolt. The Russians arrested him when he left the embassy on a safe-conduct given by his successor, Premier Janos Kadar.

The Yugoslav note to the Hungarian Communist regime termed the executions a "gross and unprovoked attack" on President Tito's government.

The note called "untrue and fabricated from beginning to end" the Hungarian charge that Yugoslavians in effect had collaborated with Nagy in plotting to overthrow Kadar's government.

Pravda said protests to the executions have been made in the West "to complicate the international situation, rekindle the cold war, sabotage talks at the highest level and pass over to open military adventures as soon as this appears possible to them."

The Soviet Communist party newspaper's editorial said the West had adopted this policy as "salvation from its economic crisis."

Educators Start Talks

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Do prospective teachers spend too much time learning how to teach, and not enough learning about what they're going to teach?

The question of what to teach the teacher has become one of the thorniest problems in American education. It's going to get a long, hard look-see from some 1,000 educators and education officials who gathered here today for the opening of a five-day convention on teacher education and professional standards.

A report issued earlier this week by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund put the problem this way: "In some states, the requirements for (teacher) certification are so technical and trivial as to make it unlikely that individuals with a first class liberal education would even apply—or be eligible if they did apply."

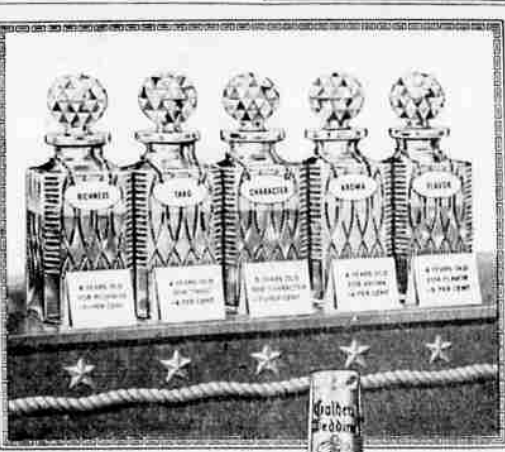

The nine sponsoring agencies hope some sort of agreement on teacher training and certification can be reached and put into effect nationwide.

The problem isn't strictly an American one. The Russians have been struggling with it too.

Dr. John B. Whitelaw of the U.S. Office of Education, who recently returned from a four-week tour of the Soviet Union, said the Soviets are trying to standardize teacher education and at the same time bring it up to a college or university degree level.

"If teachers were given the same status in this country as they are in Russia, we would have no teacher shortage," he said.

Girl Doesn't Recall Killing

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actress Lana Turner's tall, 14-year-old daughter, Cheryl, doesn't remember stabbing Johnny Stompanato or giving police a statement about it, attorney William Pollack said today.

The lawyer, who represents Stompanato's 10-year-old son, John III, Hammond, Ind., in a $750,000 damage action, questioned Cheryl about the April 4 slaying of her mother's lover Monday at a deposition hearing in his office.

After the session which left Cheryl in tears, Pollack said he had spotted "certain discrepancies" in Cheryl's story, told before her mother and their attorney, Jerry Giesler.

Cheryl said she did not remember the stabbing, Pollack said. "She also does not remember giving any statement to Chief Anderson," (Clinton H. Anderson, chief of the Beverly Hills police.)

Cheryl said she remembers going into the room with the knife and moving toward Stompanato, but does not remember the knife going in or coming out of his body.

Solons Seek Tax Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two major farm groups are working hard among members of Congress to get the House to go along with the Senate on legislation to repeal the 3 per cent tax on freight shipments.

They are the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The Senate voted late last week to drop the transportation tax in a bill to extend other excise levies, but reports indicated that there was strong opposition to the repeal in the House, which did not vote on the transportation levy.

The issue was tossed to a House-Senate conference committee.

The farm groups contend that farmers and farm products pay heavy assessments under the freight tax. They say that by the time some agricultural raw materials reach the consumer, the tax had been added eight or ten times—that is, they have been pyramided. That's because of the many different movements before they reach the consumer.

The effect of this piling on of this tax, the farm groups say, is to reduce the producer's return.

They said the tax also adds to farm costs, which already are at record high levels. The tax is added to the price of machinery, equipment and supplies bought by the farmer.

Actress Wins Court Order

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actress Faith Domergue has obtained a separate maintenance decree from the husband she says "gets restless being in one place too long."

Miss Domergue, 32, testified in Superior Court yesterday that she wanted to make a home in Southern California, but that film director Hugo Fregonese, 30, "wants to stay in Europe and be a free agent."

The court ordered Fregonese to pay $900 monthly support for Miss Domergue and their children, Diana, 9, and John, 6.
