Donations Still Coming In For Truck Driver's Family

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Six weeks ago the brakes on Russel C. Moore's truck failed at the top of a grade in this seaside city.

He could have jumped. But instead he stuck with it, shepherding the runaway through eight street crossings. Almost miraculously, he avoided pedestrians and autos. The truck crashed into a creek. Moore was killed.

Moore, 31, left a wife and four children. A fifth is on the way.

An account of the tragedy in the News-Press started a spontaneous flow of dollars. The total is nearing $13,000.

As one contributor put it: "If he had tried to save himself and jumped, leaving the truck uncontrolled, who knows how many might have been killed or maimed? There are lots of children in that neighborhood. He must have been thinking of that when he decided to stay at the wheel."

Moore must have known, indeed, for he lived but a mile away.

Most of the money has come in small amounts, a dollar or two. There have been hundreds of donors. Many were anonymous. The smallest amount was 28 cents, a gift from a little boy. The largest, $420, was anonymous.

Sums came from a semipro baseball team which staged a benefit game . . . from a visitor from Worcester, Mass. . . . from schools, from churches, service clubs, small businesses, government workers, hospital patients.

Along Olivos Street tots collected nickels and dimes in a pickle jar from passers-by.

The YMCA arranged for Vernon, 11, Linda, 9, and Charlotte, 8, to attend summer camps. Terry, the baby, is too young.

Says Mrs. Moore: "How can I thank them all?

"I don't even know how to express what I feel. . . . Please tell them—all those who have kept their names secret, and everyone who has thought of us, thank you.

"I tell the children how nice everyone has been to console them. Vernon says, 'Yes, I know, but I wish I had my daddy.'"

Court Gets Racial Plea

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals here has received a motion to stay a District Court order delaying racial integration of Central High School at Little Rock, Ark., for 2½ years.

The motion arrived by mail and was accompanied by a notice of appeal from the ruling by U. S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley at Little Rock.

If Judge Lemley's order is affirmed, Negro children who attended Central this past school year won't be back next fall.

Attorneys for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People are fighting the judge's order. They claim that just because the city is "psychologically unready" for racial integration there is no basis for noncompliance with the "constitutional law of the United States."

Robert Tucker, clerk of the appellate court here, said he would send the motion for a stay to Chief Judge Archibald K. Gardner at his Huron, S. D., home.

Dulles Says Party Will Not Ease Trade Program Slate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has told senators the administration has no intention of compromising in its right for a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements program.

Dulles reaffirmed his position to individual senators as indications mounted that proposals to cut the life of the program to three years are gaining headway in the Senate.

Senators William F. Knowland of California, Senate Republican leader, and Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, already have announced they will seek to reduce the period to three years. The House voted a five-year extension when it passed the administration bill.

The measure would permit the President to cut tariffs as much as 25 per cent during the five-year period. Opponents contend it would further damage industries already hurt by imports.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) one of those who has conferred with Dulles on the program, said he will be deeply disappointed if a majority of Republicans don't vote with the administration on the issue.

He said Dulles made a good case in arguing that a three-year extension would bring the issue before Congress again at a time when the United States may be deeply involved in tariff negotiations with the European Common Market countries.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senate Democratic leader, is backing the five-year extension but some of his Democratic colleagues who are supporting the trade legislation apparently are wavering.

Sen. Russell Long (D-La), a member of the Finance Committee, which is considering the bill, predicted that the Senate will approve no more than a three-year extension.

South Carolina Lawyer To Be State's Next Governor

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—Ernest F. Hollings, a handsome Charleston lawyer and tireless campaigner, was named South Carolina's next governor yesterday by a thumping 45,000-vote margin over Donald S. Russell.

At 36, he will be the state's youngest governor in modern times.

Hollings, named one of the 10 Outstanding Young Men of the Year in 1953 by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, won the Democratic primary nomination in a runoff election against Russell, 52-year-old former president of the University of South Carolina.

With nearly all precincts unofficially tabulated, Hollings had 190,163 votes to 145,263 for Russell.

The party designation in this traditionally Democratic state is tantamount to election. Republicans have not filed a slate for the November general election.

Hollings, lieutenant governor the last four years and a state legislator for six years before that, campaigned on a platform that included, as did Russell's, a promise to attract new business to the state. His victory statement said he would start work at once on his program.

The runoff followed a three-way first primary two weeks ago in which Hollings led Russell by some 26,000 votes but lacked a majority. The third candidate was Mayor William C. Johnston of Anderson.

Hollings will take over from Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr., who could not run under a state law barring self-succession.

The Russell-Hollings campaign was one of personalities rather than issues and it was marked by sometimes bitter political in-fighting.

Russell is a former law partner of James F. Byrnes, onetime U.S. secretary of state.

Girl Awakens Under Knife

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A teenager with her heart opened was awakened on the operating table to demonstrate the value of hypnotism in surgery, a Beverly Hills doctor reported today.

While her heart was out of commission and her blood was being pumped by a machine, the 14-year-old girl opened her eyes and responded repeatedly to the doctor's instructions, he said.

She then was put to sleep again by suggestion and came through the operation in good shape. Twenty days later she left the hospital.

An account of the operation was given in a paper before the American Medical Assn. by Dr. Milton Marmer, who handled the anaesthesia and did the hypnotizing.

A return to consciousness while under open heart surgery is a good idea because it allows the doctors to check on whether patient's brain is being damaged while the machine is taking over the job of the heart.

With hypnosis, a smaller amount of anaesthetic was needed to put the patient to sleep and it enabled the doctor to restore her to slumber after once awakening her.

Youngsters between the ages of 7 and 14 are good hypnosis subjects because of their heightened powers of imagination and their ability to play a role or create a fantasy, Dr. Marmer asserted.

FRONSPORT, Ky. (AP)—Lewis Aldridge, 65, was hit three times by his own car as he was backing it from his farm yard he fell out. The car, he said, kept going in circles, and each time he tried to get up, it hit him again. Witnesses dragged Aldridge out of the way and stopped the auto. He suffered four broken ribs.

Long Alaska Debate Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate manager of the Alaska statehood bill said today he saw "some evidence we may be in for long sessions of extended debate" before completing action on the House-passed bill.

With some preliminary voting possible today, Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) said he was confident there were votes in the Senate to pass the bill, but added: "We may not achieve that goal until some long drawn out sessions have come and gone."

He said he felt opponents were seeking to delay final action beyond a July 3 deadline provided in the bill for the President to notify the Alaska governor of the bill's enactment.

Any amendment would force return of the bill to the House, where a parliamentary tangle might further delay or prevent passage. Its sponsors are seeking Senate passage without change to avoid that possibility.
