

Tears Are Shed For Plight Of Beauty Contest Winners

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As the season for beauty contests approaches, we are asked to shed a tear for the plight of the poor winners.

Don't do it! Judging from a local survey, the contest winners are doing all right.

It is often claimed that nothing remains for beauty queens after their victory except oblivion. True, few of them have set the world afire as actresses. But they can still make good livings on the basis of their prize-winning assets.

This is the conclusion reached after surveying a team of lovelies assembled as moon maidens in "Missile to the Moon." That's not had surveying. Not when the girls include Reneta Hoy (Miss Florida), Tania Vella (Miss Yugoslavia), Mary Ford (Miss Minnesota), Marianna Gaba (Miss Illinois), Lisa Simone (Miss France) and Sanita Pelkey (Miss New York).

None of the girls has exactly hit it big in Hollywood. Yet they claim they are able to support themselves on earnings from movies, TV, modeling and night clubs.

Do beauty titles help their acting careers?

No, says Miss Germany. They are labeled as beauties without talent.

Yes, says Miss Minnesota. "Beauty contests can be stepping stones to a career if a girl keeps her head."

But all agree that beauty must be accompanied by talent. If a girl has both, she can have a chance in Hollywood, the beauties declared, but they recommended that she come here with no less than $500 as a nest egg to tide her over.

Among the other results of the survey:

Beauty winners do not rival Jayne Mansfield in the chest department. The girls averaged 35 1/2 inches in the bosom.

Most of them don't think the Hollywood wolves are more virulent than those elsewhere. "But there are more of them here," said Miss Germany.

They must keep strict discipline to maintain their beauty. Regular hours, careful diet, exercise. "Skip the desserts and stick to salads, fruits and steaks," said Miss Minnesota.

Torment Of Lebanon May Bring Crisis To Nasser

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
 AP Foreign News Analyst
 BEIRUT (AP) — Gamaal Abdel Nasser, the evidence indicates, is frightened.

The torment of Lebanon may mean a big general crisis is yet to come. Nasser cannot afford such a crisis.

I have just completed a swing through virtually all the Arab East. One impression stands out. Among young intellectuals, from whom Nasser has drawn much of his strength, doubt is setting in.

But his biggest concern must be for the Egyptian economy.

Sooner or later Egypt will need help to get out of her progressively worsening economic situation.

Nasser and the Russians seem to be sizing up one another carefully—neither willing to trust the other too far. The Soviet treatment of Yugoslavia, execution of Hungarian revolution leaders, had a noticeable effect among Egypt's thinking population.

If the Lebanese fighting ends clear victory for elements he supports, Nasser will have to pursue the advantage elsewhere or surrender the momentum gained by extreme Arab nationalism. Failure to follow up a victory would disillusion Arab extremists who expect him to perform miracles in their behalf.

However, if the Lebanese affair ends in palpable Nasser defeat, it will spell political peril for him and might require desperate responses.

The Lebanese affair has frightened other Arab leaders. If the Lebanese government survives, supported by Western power, then Nasser finds his United Arab Republic truly isolated in the world of Arabs. If the Beirut regime fails, more of Nasser's bridges to the West are burned and he must push on in spite of himself with his own brand of liberation.

To Egypt's middle class, Nasser is no hero. The small Egyptian middle class in the cities has felt a progressively tightening pinch ever since the 1956 Suez crisis. Impatient young men, thrown into the business of running an economy without knowledge or experience, have wasted money at a frightful rate. Millions of pounds disappeared in well-meaning but poorly planned and executed social experiments.

Eventually Nasser will need help to get out of his financial mess, now complicated by union with Syria. He shows signs of being wary of leaning on the Communist bloc.

Those who know Nasser well say that given any period of Middle East calm, it is highly likely that he will turn voluntarily to the United States for help.

Little Old Lady Enjoys Living In The Doghouse

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Martha Hinrichsen, a gray-haired little lady, lives in a doghouse and likes it.

The doghouse, actually a 17-room brownstone house in upper Manhattan, is populated by Mrs. Hinrichsen and 46 dogs.

By tonight, the canine population will have dropped to two or Mrs. Hinrichsen will face another round in court.

That's what Magistrate Walter Bayer told her yesterday.

She and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have been squabbling over the dogs for some time. The society, acting on numerous complaints from neighbors, claims she is keeping all those dogs without enough food and drink.

Mrs. Hinrichsen told Bayer that many of her dogs are pedigreed and that they are a nice, friendly lot. She said she needs the dogs for protection.

ASPCA agent Joseph Schlesinger said there isn't one pedigreed dog in the lot.

Mrs. Hinrichsen went home to her beloved menagerie after promising to comply with Bayer's order.

Schlesinger wasn't so sure she would.

"I know her," he said. "She won't give up a single one of them. To her, they're like kids."

Actor Has Hopes Of Being Discovered For Third Time

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
 NEW YORK (AP)—Robert Alda, who has already been discovered twice, hopes to be found for a third time Friday night.

Dark, good-looking Alda who started in show business as a night club singer, was discovered by the producers of the musical "Guys and Dolls" saw him work and cast him as gambler Sky Masterson.

"Then Broadway discovered me," he continues, "and while Sky was the hero, he was a gambler. Gambler and racketeers are sort of the same. So Broadway producers started thinking of me as a heavy."

Friday night Alda appears on a CBS Playhouse of Stars film show, "Curfew at Midnight," playing a parole officer deeply concerned with the rehabilitation of adult offenders under his supervision a good guy.

"I'm due to be discovered by television," says Alda half-jokingly. "Seriously, however, if this one gets a good reception it might be a starting point for a series. The parole officer character is one you could build a good show around."

The forthcoming show is by no means the first time Alda has been seen on TV. He has done innumerable guest spots, and was the star of a wartime cloak and dagger series made for the American syndication market in Holland. There was nothing the matter with the series that a stronger selling organization couldn't have remedied but it never really got rolling.

For the past three years Alda has spent most of his time in Europe.

"You go where you can get work," he says.

Youthful Financial Whiz Seeking Job As Treasurer

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Youthful financial wizard Leonard Ross, winner of $164,000 on television quiz shows last year, tries his hand at winning an election today.

The 12-year-old high school junior from Tujunga captured his party's nomination for treasurer at the California Boys State yesterday. His specialty is stocks and bonds.

The American Legion, sponsors of the week-long exercise in politics and government for the youngsters, has designated the two parties Whigs and Federalists.

Leonard is running on the Whig ticket against 16-year-old Federalist Charles Hanson of Covina.

Robert M. Uhl, 17, of San Francisco, leads the Federalist slate as candidate for governor against Tim Orr, 15, of Lancaster, the Whig nominee.

Dan Avey of Whittier, Whig, opposes Daniel Lund of Culver City for the lieutenant governor post.

Other candidates for state offices include:

Secretary of State—Gary Little, Redondo Beach, and James Shanklin, Vallejo.

Controller — Stanley Sanders, Perris, and Makoto Nakayama, Los Angeles.

Atty. Gen. — Horace McNally, Beverly Hills, and Alfred T. Smith, San Diego.

Elected to the Supreme Court yesterday were: Bill Bush, Fullerton; Gerald Crawford, Canyon Dam; Tom Means, Woodland; Michael Newman, Los Angeles; Clifford Surko, Roseville; Bob Wynn, Temple City.

One will be named chief justice in a runoff vote today.

Gary North of Manhattan Beach and Ken Posey of Redlands are seeking the nonpartisan job of superintendent of public instruction.

Cats Found In Wash Machine

CHULA VISTA, (AP) — "Safe but dizzy" was the way police patrolman Mark Crossier described two kittens he found in a washing machine where they had been tossed by two small boys.

He rescued the kittens, damp but unharmed, from the automatic washer in a garage.

Crossier had one good thing to say for the boys. They had pushed a button, which provides a gentle, slow-spin agitation. The boys fled when he arrived.

Bubbles United With Playmate

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — Bubbles, the lonesome whale, has a new playmate.

Bubbles is the star performer at Marineland of the Pacific, a big oceanarium near here. For months the owners have been trying to find a mate for Bubbles.

Recently a whale was caught and brought to Marineland to join Bubbles in the aquatic show. But whale experts found that the new whale, alas, is another female.

She is a 10-foot 1,000-pounder, much smaller than Bubbles.

30-Cent Bank Account Killed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State Treasurer Jesse James received an okay from the attorney general yesterday to do away with a 30-cent bank account that hadn't been touched in more than 25 years.

The account in an Austin bank was from the administration of Comptroller S. S. Terrell, no left office in 1931.

The opinion said the situation fulfilled the legal requirements of a "dormant."

Singer Ill

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Alberta Linn is ill of pneumonia, complicated by an acute upper respiratory infection. Her condition was described as fair at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.
