

Brigitte Bardot Sexiest Item In The Films Today

By VERNON SCOTT
 United Press International
 PARIS (UPI)—Anybody for curves? Beauty? Sex? Brigitte Bardot, sexiest item in movies today, furnishes all three and then some.

The blonde French bombshell is by turns purring kitten and hellcat who lives as movie queens did in the era of Theda Bara and Nita Naldi.

Locked in her dressing room the other day, the pouting beauty was tongue-lashing her hair-dresser when an assistant director summoned enough courage to knock on the door. He was greeted by a frightened-looking maid and ushered into Brigitte's presence.

There followed a one-sided harangue ending when the chastened director fled the arena a defeated man. He clapped his hand to his brow and ran off muttering a string of French epithets.

Then it was my turn, Brigitte was sitting at a dressing table applying makeup. The maid, hair-dresser and wardrobe mistress stood by resembling nothing more than a trio of refugees from a recent bombing.

"That stupid man," Brigitte said in surprisingly good English. "I am only an hour late to the set and he is complaining."

Europe's answer to Jayne Mansfield was wearing a peek-a-boo negligee, a frown and little else. Then she turned on the charm and even her ladies-in-waiting relaxed a fraction.

"No I do not plan to go to Hollywood to make movies," she stated. "Why should I?"

"I'm making lots and lots of money over here, and every time I turn around there is another picture waiting to be filmed. Then I love Paris very much, too."

Brigitte's pictures—notably "And God Created Women"—are as popular in the United States as they are in Europe, principally because La Bardot is not adverse to taking off her clothes before the camera. But the curvaceous cutie maintains that her talent transcends disrobing.

"My performances depend on my scripts," she said lightly. "If the story calls for me to remove my dress, I remove my dress—or anything else that is necessary."

Her hair-dresser made a half-hearted attempt to brush Brigitte's blonde tresses. The actress grew stormy again and it was time to leave.

Out in the hall the assistant director was slumped against a wall conversing with himself, obviously contemplating another try at rushing Brigitte off to the waiting set.

He rapped on the door once more, and again was admitted. Another explosion followed, and for the second time the unhappy man rushed out. Beret askew, he returned to the stage in defeat, only to receive a blast from his director for failing to produce the star.

Then with gaelic resignation, crew, technicians and extras took a break for wine and salami sandwiches.

Jobless Pay Claims Jump

Unemployment claims in this area jumped last week, as those who had drawn all their benefits on 1956 earnings filed claims on 1957 earnings in Oregon.

A total of 194 new claims on Oregon earnings were filed last week at the Klamath Falls office of the Oregon State Employment Service, Guy Barker, manager, reports. Twenty new interstate claims were also filed.

Barker said that employment and payrolls in Klamath County are normal for this time of year, with unemployment over 20 per cent above normal, adding that there are over seven hundred workers looking for jobs.

"Employers are swamped with applicants seeking work," Barker said, "yet they have a difficult time selecting efficient workers in some lines."

One bright spot in last week's employment news was that Weyerhaeuser Timber Company had hired 35 new workers in anticipation of resuming its full force operations June 30, after their annual two-week vacation shut down.

J. Edgar Hoover Refutes Gestapo Slurs Against FBI

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said recently American law enforcement has a magnificent record of accomplishment which refutes charges that it functions as a Gestapo.

In a signed editorial in the July issue of FBI's Law Enforcement Bulletin, Hoover expressed resentment that "an unscrupulous few, through studied insults and calculated distortions, would besmirch and disgrace this world-renowned record of democratic achievement."

Hoover mentioned no names. However, his editorial followed a recent TV interview in which Cleveland industrialist Cyrus S. Eaton said that Adolf Hitler at the height of his power "never had such spy organizations as we have in this country today."

Eaton described the FBI as one of a number of agencies engaged in "snooping, in informing, in creeping up on people." After the broadcast, Hoover said Eaton's statements about the FBI were "vicious and completely untrue."

The FBI director wrote in the bulletin that law enforcement has constantly improved in efficiency. "Yet, all the time, it has remained undeviatingly loyal to the principles of freedom and justice."

"Recently," he said, "loud and

School Facts

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of informative articles dealing with the Klamath Union High School and the forthcoming proposed budget which will be voted on July 7. The material is presented as a public service by members of the KUHS School Board and Budget Committee.

What are the major categories of the budget and why are they necessary?

The largest single component of the budget is the instructional portion. This includes teacher, principal and supervisory salaries, and represents 63 per cent of the budget.

The bulk of the 63 per cent is in teacher salaries. It is necessary that the district pay these salaries if our current high standards of education are to be maintained and advanced. The KUHS district has to compete with other districts for teachers, and with the proposed salary schedule our starting salaries are comparable with those in other first class districts. At the same time, our top salary stations are in the upper third when compared with other districts.

The second largest portion of the budget is "operational" and represents 11 per cent. These costs include janitor service, and supplies, fuel, light and power, water, telephone and other such fixed operation and other minor items.

The auxiliary portion, representing seven per cent of the budget, takes care of transporting pupils, health service, cafeteria operation and other minor items. KUHS is a union high school district and is, therefore, required to provide bus transportation for the students.

Some nonunion high school districts, such as Medford was until last year, are not required to furnish the student transportation.

The cost of maintaining the school buildings and grounds represents five per cent of the budget. The district has a building investment, and maintenance is just good business.

Another five per cent of the budget is for fixed charges such as fire and liability insurance, social security, retirement and other similar items.

The capital outlay portion of the budget represents five per cent, which is mainly governed by the purchase of new equipment and supplies to accommodate increased enrollments.

The remaining portion of the budget is composed of two per cent for general control, and two per cent for emergency allowances.

This is a sound operational budget to be voted on July 7 to maintain our high standards of education.

Immigration Man Smarts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The immigration agent who got headlines for an abortive attempt to deport a Finnish ex-Communist was smarting again today, this time under a federal judge's ruling which called his action "nauseous and futile."

U. S. District Judge Edward P. Murphy said Tuesday a "more patent example of bad judgment is difficult to conjure" than San Francisco Immigration Director Bruce Barber's cloak-and-dagger hustling of William Heikkila off to Finland last April 18.

However, Murphy refused to hold Barber in contempt of court for the action. He said that at the time there was nothing in the letter of the law preventing Heikkila's expulsion.

Heikkila, an admitted former Communist, had been fighting deportation for more than 10 years. The government sought to expel him as an undesirable alien because he had never renounced his former Communist beliefs and, although living in the country 50 years, had never applied for citizenship.

The Finn was seized by immigration agents as he left his draftsman's job here and was flown to Helsinki without baggage or funds. After a storm of adverse criticism, Heikkila was returned for further deportation hearings.

The hasty deportation took place shortly after Murphy had rejected an appeal by Heikkila against a deportation order and before the ex-Communist had filed a new appeal. While the Immigration Service was thus technically free to deport the alien, Judge Murphy said:

"In our scheme of law, rights of man are inalienable. They come from the Creator. They do not come from a President, legislature or a court, much less a director of immigration."

Pair Of Ex-Gold Miners To Dominate Political Scene

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A pair of ex-gold miners will dominate the political scene in the new state of Alaska.

One likely will be the first elected governor of the 49th state of the Union. The other is expected to be one of the first two U.S. senators elected by Alaskans.

The two are Edward Lewis Bartlett, a Democrat, and Michael Anthony Stepovich, a Republican.

Bartlett, 54, has been a non-voting member of Congress 14 years — serving seven terms in the House of Representatives as territorial delegate.

Stepovich, 39, has realized his wish to be the last appointed governor of Alaska — a post he assumed a year ago when President Eisenhower picked him as the territory's chief executive.

Neither has indicated what political post he will seek under Statehood. In the land of the Midnight Sun, however, it's considered a virtual certainty that one will run for governor and one will run for the Senate.

Both have deep roots in Fairbanks, Alaska's most northern metropolis and the birthplace of Stepovich.

Bartlett is apologetic that he was born in Seattle, instead of Fairbanks, even though his parents in 1904 were working gold mine prospects along creeks in the Fairbanks area.

His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bartlett, were among the early settlers of Fairbanks.

Stepovich worked as a youth at the mine properties of his father, who was known as "Wise Mike"

Barbers Ordered To Raise Poles

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI)—The barbers in Columbus have their orders: Raise those candy-striped poles to at least 10 feet above the sidewalk.

This command came down Tuesday from the city commission, which had given audience to a man with a complaint.

Harold Rose, a bookkeeper, appeared before the governing body bearing evidence of a collision.

He was walking along Broadway reading a catalogue, he explained, when his head banged into a low-hanging barber pole. Twelve stitches were required to repair the damage.

Star Has Woe With The Law

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tempestuous actress Betsy Von Furstenberg was in trouble with the law today as a result of her husband's arrest on a drunk driving charge.

Police said the 26-year-old performer tried to argue a patrolman out of arresting her husband, Guy Vincent, 39, and in turn was charged with disorderly conduct and interfering with an officer.

Patrolman David Pritsker said the actress became loud and belligerent, causing a crowd to gather. Vincent was released in $500 bail for a hearing July 15. Miss Von Furstenberg was released in her own recognizance for a hearing July 15.

Doctor Loves Fatman Best

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The old bromide that everybody loves a fat man may be true, but the physician should love him best.

These words about the bulgy set were sounded to the State Pharmaceutical Convention by John F. Bester, a University of Southern California professor.

Bester said a definite ratio exists between obesity and illness. He added there was only one way to reduce: "By decreasing food intake—in other words, eat less."

He had a reputation to live up to... and a name to live down!
