

Sue Ramsby, Robert Ede Wed In St. Paul's Episcopal Church

Sue Jeannette Ramsby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin E. Ramsby of 521 North Fifth Street, became Mrs. Robert Milton Ede in rites solemnized Saturday, June 28, in St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert Greene.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen M. Ede of Portland. Sue was given in marriage by her father, well known Basin rancher and member of pioneer family. Her mother has for several years been society editor of the Herald and News.

Maid of honor for her sister-in-law to be was Mary Ellen Ede. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Stevens of Salem, the former Margaret Scholer of Klamath Falls;

Mrs. John Eskildsen, Portland, the former Linda Pope of Fort Klamath; Mrs. William Morris of Oswego, the former Marjorie Wilson of Klamath Falls and Mrs. Jack Prock, the former Diane Oidenburg of Klamath Falls.

Serving as best man was Wesley McMullen, Portland. Guests were escorted to their seats by Ronald Hershberger, Portland, formerly of Klamath Falls; Dale DeHarport and Charles (Chuck) Dunning, Portland, and Gene Helm, Portland and Medford.

The tall white tapers which accented the artistic aqua, blue and white color motif of the wedding were lighted by Mrs. James Gilmore, Portland, and Sue Thompson, Klamath Falls.

The bride was gowned in Chantilly lace and pleated tulle. Alternate tiers of lace and tulle cascaded down the back into a chapel train. Her shoulder length hand finished veil was held in place with a small headpiece of seed pearl-outlined leaves. She carried a small white prayer book topped with a large white orchid surrounded with Stephanotis. The small flowers were knotted into narrow satin streamers. She wore the traditional blue garter, an engagement present from Leila Lemmon, Portland, and carried a pure silk and handmade lace handkerchief. The heirloom handkerchief was brought from England by Mrs. Thomas Martin, the bride's great-grandmother, and given to Mrs. Fred Shallock many years ago who presented it to Sue.

Preceding the exchange of vows, Mrs. Walter Badorek, Klamath Falls, sang appropriate selections accompanied by Mrs. Nevarde Smith, also of Klamath Falls, who played the traditional organ procession and recessional.

The bride's attendants wore all-white bell-sheaths of Cluny lace over taffeta with crushed taffeta cummerbunds ending in back interest streamers. On their heads were seed pearl bands with eyelash length veils sprinkled with seed pearls. They each carried a bouquet of shaded turquoise and blue carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ramsby chose a sheath of light turquoise cotton lace over taffeta styled with a crushed chiffon cummerbund of the same color which ended in hem length panels in the back. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. The senior Mrs. Ede wore a sheath of blue and turquoise imported cotton print with matching accessories. She also had a gardenia corsage pinned at her shoulder.

Following the ceremony, the some 400 guests were invited to a garden reception at the John Martin home at 1111 Pacific Terrace. The tables were decorated with cloths of white eyelet with organdy flourishes. Turquoise and blue carnations surrounded the tiered wedding cake, and on the buffet table deeper toned larkspur flanked a gilded cage in which two love birds set the mood of the event. Silver and crystal serving pieces completed the several table arrangements.

Assisting at the reception were Sue's four great-aunts, Mrs. S. E. Martin, Oakland, California; Mrs. R. H. Anderson, Mrs. E. N. Hosley and Mrs. Charles J. Martin of Klamath Falls who presided at the coffee service; Sandra Hubbard, Medford; Mrs. Gene Helm, Portland; Mrs. James Gilmore, Portland and Sue Thompson, Klamath Falls, who cut and served the wedding cake; Barbara Diddle, Oakland, California; Meride Brolier, Sacramento; Mrs. James Jochi, Ann Henderson, Pati O'Connor, Elbert Stiles, Laurence Brown, Jack Prock, George Clark, Lee Stoner, Melvin Howie and Bob Thompson, all of Klamath Falls, who served punch. Mrs. Alton Chamberlain of Salem, the former Ann Gillenwaters, and Jayne Gillenwaters of Los Angeles, cousins of the bride, registered the guests. Thirza Goeckner, another cousin of the bride of Klamath Falls, distributed rice filled favors. Asked to assist about the garden were Mrs. Robert A. Thompson, Mrs. Louis Serruys, Mrs. O. L. Stoner, Mrs. George Clark, Mrs. Elbert Stiles, Mrs. J. A. Dutcher, Mrs. Laurence Brown, Mrs. Richard Curran, Mrs. Walter Lassett, Mrs. A. D. Addison, Nora Alice Rinker, Mrs. Melvin Howie, all of Klamath Falls, and Mrs. T. R. Gillenwaters of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. George Paris were responsible for the addition of the cage of love birds and for the refreshments.

For her honeymoon trip to the Oregon Coast, the new Mrs. Ede changed to a suit of cinnamon colored pure silk styled with a semi-cocoon back and trimmed with white linen. Her shoes and bag were a spice brown with white trim. She wore a white straw modified cloche, white gloves and the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Sue was the honoree at a series of pre-nuptial socials, including an appliance shower hosted by Mrs. Richard Curran and Mrs. Walter Lassett at the Lassett home at 505 Pacific Terrace on May 16. Mrs. O. L. Stoner, Mrs. Laurence Brown, Mrs. George Clark and Mrs. Elbert Stiles were hostesses at a linen shower at the Stoner River House on Conger Avenue on June 24.

The bride and her attendants were entertained at a day's outing at the Jack Prock cabin at Lake of the Woods June 26. The following day, Sue was hostess to her attendants at a luncheon at the Pelican Cafe.

Sue is a graduate of Klamath Union High School and attended University of Oregon. She was active in school organizations here and in college, including the rally squad, choral and athletic clubs, and was a finalist for Betty Coed and a member of the Junior Weekend queen's court, while in college. She is identified with Pi Beta Phi social sorority. Her husband is a graduate of Lincoln
