

Late Rally Gives Giants 5-4 Win; Milwaukee Bows

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's Giants rallied for two runs in the ninth inning, paced by Ray Jablonski's triple Saturday, to beat St. Louis 5-4 and move ahead of the Cardinals into second place, just a game off Milwaukee's National League pace.

The heavy-hitting Jablonski earlier rapped a double and home run and figured in four of the Giants' runs.

While 22,679 watched Willie Mays singled with one out in the ninth inning off St. Louis' Lindy McDaniel.

Reliever Larry Jackson came on to be greeted by Jablonski's triple. The next two batters were walked purposely. Bob Schmidt fouled to the catcher, and with two out, pinch hitter Willie Kirk-

Professional baseball is not as gold as it is painted. It's a tough row to hoe and the job of managing in the big leagues is even tougher. If you don't think so ask one Bobby Bragan.

For two years now, Bragan has started a season as manager of a major league team. And for the second straight year he was fired before the season finished. That's adding insult to injury.

Last year, Bragan was directing the Pittsburgh Pirates until he was dropped in favor of Danny Murtaugh. Last week, Bragan was given the word by the Cleveland Indians who replaced him with Oregonian Joe Gordon. So far, Bragan is batting 0-for-2 against major league general managers.

The Gordon-for-Bragan change has an interesting side note with it that goes to show how unstable a baseball manager's life is.

It comes out now following the change, that Gordon, a former University of Oregon baseball star, was asked to take the Spokane (PCL) managerial position and he accepted. But one hour later, Gordon received another phone call, this one from Cleveland. General manager Frank Lane offered the Cleveland coaching job to Joe.

Gordon gave Spokane a quick call, who in turn gave Bragan a quick word and before the news reached the public that Bragan was out and Gordon was in, both jobs had been filled. Gordon thusly went from Sacramento to Spokane by phone, then from Sacramento to Cleveland by plane.

Bragan is back in the Pacific Coast League where he made his first big hit as a field general. Several years ago, Bragan led the Stars to the PCL pennant and had several very good ball clubs in the cinema capital, Bobby, who has calmed down greatly since his early Coast League manager days, may be the needed spark to ignite the Spokane Indians, a farm club of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Spokane is leading a 11 minor league teams across the nation in attendance this year with an average of about 4,000 per game. Spokane fans deserve a good club in return for their support and Bragan could be the one to help lift the Indians out of the PCL second division. Or at least he'll make a good effort at it.

With Gordon going to Cleveland, he'll be facing a few players whom he managed at San Francisco last year in the Pacific Coast League. These same players who helped him win the pennant from Vancouver in a red-hot down-to-the-wire finish last September.

Opposing Gordon's Indians are Washington Senator players Albie Pearson and Ken Aspromonte. Playing with the Boston Red Sox, Gordon's boss last season at San Francisco, are outfielder Marty Keough and pitcher Leo Kiely.

Pearson by the way, only 5 feet 6 and 3/4 inches tall, is answering the Washington need for a speedy centerfielder. The little flycatcher, who insists on being given credit for the extra three-quarters of an inch, could develop into one of the most popular players in the majors, especially with the youngsters.

At Seal Stadium last year while playing with San Francisco, Pearson had his own rooting section in the right field bleachers with little leaguers who came just to see and shout at Albie. He is picking up the same kind of support in Washington. Keep your eye on Pearson, who is presently hitting around the .275 mark. He won't be another Musial, Mays or Mantle, but he'll have his boosters, mainly in the young ages and the front office will probably overlook 25 points on his batting average if he keeps drawing in the fans.

Johnny Eggers, athletic news director at Oregon State College, reported this week that the 1958 football season ticket sale is in full swing and the early response to the Beaver Grid ticket offers has been very good. Tickets for the six OSC home games can be obtained by writing the athletic department at Gill Coliseum, Room 103.

Price of single game tickets is $1.50 for each game except the Oregon-OSC homecoming game at Corvallis which is priced at $5. The other home games are against Kansas, UCLA, Washington and California. The Kansas and Washington games will be played in Portland's Multnomah Stadium.

Eggers also reports that football coach Tommy Prothro is very optimistic about his club's prospects. Oregon State could come up with a better team than represented the Pacific Coast Conference in the Rose Bowl game two years ago against Iowa. The Beavers are "loaded" with veteran front-line

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bob Friend ended a personal five-game losing streak and extended Milwaukee's losing string to five Saturday as he pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-2 decision over the sputtering National League leaders.

Friend, a 28-year-old veteran of eight National League campaigns, notched his 10th victory against nine defeats with some ninth-inning relief help from Roy Face. Friend hadn't won a ball game since June 10 when he beat the Giants.

The slumping Braves, who have scored only 5 runs in their last 6 games, cashed both of their tallies on Wes Covington's 11th home run. It came in the second on the heels of Hank Aaron's infield hit. Aaron collected 3 of the Braves' 8 hits.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Red Sox and the New York Yankees played to a 3-3 tie when the 11:59 p.m. Saturday night curfew rule halted play in the top of the 11th inning after the Sox had scored two runs which were nullified by the curfew.

Under American League rules the score reverted back to the previous full inning and goes in the books as a tie game. All performances through the 10 innings will be replayed at a later date.

Mickey Mantle sent the game into extra innings when he led off the Yanks' half of the ninth with his 20th home run. Until then Boston's Dave Sisler had yielded only one hit—a seventh-inning single by Jerry Lumpe—after the second inning.

The Sox picked up their two 11th-inning runs off Zack Monroe and Tom Sturdivant as Manager Casey Stengel called on seven pitchers. There were two out and one strike and two balls on Gene Stephens when the curfew bell rang.

It was the first time in American League history that a night game at Yankee Stadium was halted by the curfew. American League rules do not provide for suspended games.

Until Mantle hit a 3-1 pitch into the upper right field stands in the ninth to tie the score, Sisler had the Yanks eating out of his hands.

Cubs 7, Bums 1
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Chicago Cubs floored Johnny Klippstein with a six-run punch in the seventh inning Saturday night and dropped the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-1 behind the labored but effective pitching of Moe Drabowski.

Drabowski, a 22-year-old right-hander whose record now is 8-7, extended his winning streak to four games. He went to the long count on many hitters and got the Dodgers out in order only twice. But he struck out nine while walking six and came close to picking up his second shutout of the year.

A crowd of 31,949 watched both teams go scoreless the first six innings.

Alvin Dark drove in the first two Chicago runs with a bloop double down the right field line in the seventh and Walt Moryn brought in three more with a whistling triple to right. The Cubs got another run on a wild pitch by Klippstein, who suffered his third defeat in six decisions.

Dale Long drove in the other Chicago run with a ninth-inning single.

Klippstein had come on after starter Sandy Koufax was spiked in the second by Jim Bolger while covering first base and may be out 10 to 14 days.

Seattle Boots Baseball Coach
SEATTLE (AP) — Joe Faccone was released Friday as Seattle University baseball coach in a move expected to clear the way for O'Brien as SU's new athletic director.

Faccone, an alumnus, was told that reorganization of the athletic department prompted the decision not to rehire him. He had coached three years.

O'Brien, one of the famed twins who helped lift Seattle in the early 50s to national recognition as a basketball power, is considered the likely choice to succeed John Castellini as athletic director. Castellini, also head basketball coach, resigned after the 1957-58 season.

O'Brien now is a pitcher with Salt Lake City of the Pacific Coast League.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., scored his third straight subpar round Saturday, a 68, for a 54-hole total of 209 and a three-stroke lead in the $22,000 Rubber City Open golf tournament.

Wall, the 34-year-old 6-foot graduate of Duke University, hasn't won a tournament this year but has finished second three times. He has held or been tied for the lead at the end of each 18-hole round in this 72-hole medal play test in which 45 of the 60 professionals hit the three-quarter mark under par.

Wall, who has scored 34 holes in one and grips his club as he would a baseball bat, has had rounds of 65-67-68 over Fircrest Country Club's 6,620-yard, par 71 course.

He had his fingers crossed about winning the $2,800 first prize despite his three-stroke lead. He recalled he had a five-stroke edge over the field at the end of three rounds in the Panama Open this year but was beaten out by a stroke by Bob Watson of Ardley-On-Hudson, N. Y.

Gibson Defends Crown

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Althea Gibson, the pride of Harlem, established herself more firmly as the queen of women's tennis Saturday by smashing Angela Mortimer of Britain 6-6, 6-2 and her second straight Wimbledon championship.

The 30-year-old Negro star teamed with Maria Bueno of Brazil to capture the women's doubles crown also but her bid for a rare Wimbledon "triple" was shattered when she and Kurt Nielsen of Denmark were beaten in mixed doubles by a pair of darkhorse Australians, Bob Howe and Lorraine Coghlan.

Nevertheless, it was Althea's day on the revered center court at Wimbledon and the crowd of 17,000, including the Duches of Kent, gave her a standing ovation when she left the Arena at the close of the long, hard day.

The Harlem miss who once had a reputation of becoming unnerved in critical spots showed her mettle by twice coming from behind to beat Miss Mortimer, a statuesque blonde who can thread the line with a backcourt drive from either side.

Suffering what she called "center court jitters," Miss Gibson fell behind 0-2, 2-4 and 3-5 in the first set and had one set point against her before her powerful, manlike service pulled her out of trouble. Eleven times in that first set a foulball was called against her and five times she served double-faults.

Miss Mortimer also jumped into the lead 2-0 in the second set, while the partisan British crowd cheered wildly, but Althea reversed the trend and, with a magnificent show of pluck and tennis stroking, reeled off six games in a row.

Sunday's Schedule
Grants Pass at Klamath Falls (2), 1:00

Grants Pass American Legion Junior Baseball team brings its league lead to Gem Stadium Sunday afternoon in a crucial Southern Oregon Legion League game against Hi Hatfield's Klamath Falls club.

The two teams will play a doubleheader with the first game counting in league standings. Time of the first game is 1 o'clock.

Leading the way for the Grants Pass entry as yet seeks to roll up its sixth straight victory will be pitcher Dick Hayes who has won all but one of his team's league nods this season. Hayes, who was 2-0 in high school competition this past spring also owns a no-hitter and one-hitter in league play.

His no-no came against Medford two weeks ago and the one-hitter was a shutout against Central Point's Cheney Studs last weekend. Hayes has faced all opponents in the league except for Klamath Falls.

Opposing Hayes on the mound will be Klamath's reliable Blake Griggs. So far this legion season, Griggs is 3-1. The two hurlers should battle on fairly even terms with the team making the most of what hits it gets coming out on top.

This will be the first action in over a week for Klamath Falls. Last Sunday's league doubleheader against Lakeview was forfeited to Klamath when the Lake team couldn't field a team. In the last outing, Klamath divided a twinbill with Prineville, a non-league opponent.

Hatfield said he would be starting Keith Farrell in the non-counting second game. Grants Pass coach Mel Ingram will probably counter with Dennis Barlow, who also threw a one-hitter in beating Central Point earlier this week.

Heading up the Grants Pass defenses will be second baseman Lee Holmes, Dennis Walker and Fred Sprinkle all played on Ingram's district championship high school team this spring. Another holdover is catcher Gary Hunneycutt who will probably be out of the Klamath series. Hunneycutt suffered a broken hand recently and is not expected to see action.
