Yreka Rebekahs Receive Two Transfer Members

YREKA—Mrs. Kathleen Parshall of Hornbrook and Mrs. Joanne Wendland of Yreka were elected to membership by transfer in Hope Rebekah Lodge No. 33 at the recent meeting of the organization in the Odd Fellows Hall. Mrs. June Ager, noble grand, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Parshall formerly resided in Washington, and Mrs. Wendland recently moved from Oregon. During the business session, a letter was read from Bonnie Martin, state godfellowship chairman, which informed the lodge that a "Traveling Cabin" would be in Yreka soon to solicit aid for President Frassie Speckart to raise needed funds to establish a youth camp in the Sierra Recreation Association in Tuolumne County. Dates for the arrival of the "Traveling Cabin" will be set and announced by the area Godfellowship chairman, Juanita Evans, of Fort Jones. Directors of the Youth Camp representing the Rebekah Assembly were named as follows: Ruth Akers, past president, three-year term; Agnes Altnordhoff, past president, two-year term; Kathleen Miller, Fresno, one-year term. Introduced during the meeting was Mrs. Louis Ludwick, vice grand of Golden Glow Rebekah Lodge, Mineral Ridge, Ohio, who was visiting her niece, Mrs. Bernice Meek, member of the local lodge. On June 28 a reception was held in honor of Mrs. Frassie Speckart, president of the Rebekah Assembly, at the Friendship Hall at Marysville, California. Members of the Yreka Lodge were invited. Yreka members were also invited to attend an Italian dinner prior to the regular meeting of the Shasta Lily Lodge, McCloud, June 26. Mrs. Speckart was present making her official visit. An announcement was made relative to the Odd Fellow and Rebekah float for the Tournament of Roses Parade, which the organization voted as a permanent project at the Rebekah Assembly. It was announced that the theme for this coming year's float was "Adventures in Flowers."

Alturas Rebekahs Celebrate Golden Anniversary June 19

ALTURAS — Cedar Rebekah Lodge No. 306, Cedarville, celebrated its golden anniversary in Odd Fellowship in its temple June 19 with Mrs. Charlotte Daschner, vice grand, presiding in the absence of Mrs. Lucille Sugden, noble grand. The lodge was instituted on Thursday, June 19, 1908. There was a potluck dinner at 6:30 in the banquet room which was decorated with pink roses, the flower and color of the lodge. Napkins were inscribed in gold with the insignia of the order, name of the lodge and dates 1908-1958. Mrs. Alice Criss, Adin, deputy president of District No. 49, occupied a seat of honor at the head table. She was accompanied by Mrs. Helen Walter, Mrs. Laura Walker, Mrs. Addie Yowell and Mrs. Gracie Vogt of Mystic Jewel Rebekah Lodge No. 82, Adin. Seated with distinguished members was Mrs. Nora Bennett, mother-in-law of Lieut. Gov. Harold J. Poff. The officers wore dresses made after the fashions of 1908 and at their stations were the golden figures "50" accompanied by symbols of the order. A cloudburst in Surprise Valley prevented some of the officers

Surprise Shower

DUNSMUIR — A shower for Mrs. Dorothy Hill was a surprise feature of the June meeting of the Castle Grange Home Economics Club at the grange hall. Gaily wrapped packages in a pink and blue trimmed basket were presented to Mrs. Hill at the close of the meeting. Mr. Stork's helper and other appropriate table decorations added to the festive affair. Secret pal gifts were also exchanged. Hanna Humphrey and Pearl Freeman served refreshments to the 37 guests present.

Ramblings

By RUTH KING
The chance to see a state a-borning, the excitement of accomplishment and the sober reflection of its people, is a once in a lifetime experience, and a lucky gal from our town was at the right place at the right time. Marilou O'Connor, who knows books from "Kiver to Kiver" up at the high school library, never dreaming that Congress would say "I Do" this summer, on Alaska's statehood, chose the University of Alaska to brush up a bit (after her masters from the University of Denver.) on journalism and anthropology. She flew into Fairbanks right on the nose, in time to be a spectator on the day of days, excitement plus. Writing home, the KUHS librarian relates that the combination of a Norwegian professor's accent, the spelling of Eskimo names and a sun that stays aloft until 11 p.m. is making a dent in her equilibrium.

rived in our town to make their home. Mr. T. is brother of Mrs. Ed Dittich (known to her Soroptimist sisters as Turkey). Both have found spots in business world. Mrs. T. at Whytal's, her husband with the W. D. Miller Construction Company. Greetings!

Round the clock business of visiting was order of routine for Mrs. Lewis Erbes Jr., San Bruno, former Pat Taylor, '34 valedictorian at KUHS and recent graduate of San Francisco State College with BA with honors in how to make a house a home. With her was her mother, Mrs. Mark D. Taylor, Waukegan, Washington, both here to attend recent Custer-Pedersen nuptials.

Goodbyes to Fern and Joe Peak, homelinks here for many years, included fun hours at Dr. and Mrs. Ivan (Nita) Thompson with Kathleen and Bob Thompson helping pass the hors d'oeuvres. Peaks will live near sound of surf pounding Pacific shores at Harbor, and beginning from foundation will build home to their liking. Son Jim will finish stint with 4th Infantry. Guests at Thompson home later went afield for hot-hat dinner.

Montague Pair Home For July 4 Holiday

MONTAGUE—Mr. and Mrs. Les Barlow of Montague, Dolores and Robert spent the Fourth of July weekend at their old home in Ruth, Trinity County. They were accompanied by a guest, Barbara Betts of Montague. While at Ruth, the two young Barlows participated in the Ruth Rodeo, where Dolores captured first prize in the cow dashing contest. Later Dolores and Robert won first prize in the baton race. Dolores is a member of the Montague Lancers. Robert was the first prize winner in the calf riding contest held during the recent Montague Junior Rodeo held in June.
