Good Guess Is That Reds Own $7.5 Billion In Gold

NEW YORK (UPI) — If one translates the world's gold supply into the measurement that's used for wheat, the total is a mere 52,377 bushels—but that seemingly small "farm" load is worth $39,110,000,000 in U.S. money.

That total doesn't include the gold of the U.S.S.R. The Soviet just doesn't release gold figures. As a result there are all sorts of guesses on the amount the Russians own, ranging from 3 billion dollars to 10 billion dollars.

A good guess might be 7.5 billion dollars for the Russians. That is just about the amount the nations of the free world have on earmark in the vaults of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

If you add that guess to the world total, it raises the figure to $46,600,000,000 which on this department's crude translation would work out at 62,421 bushels. Just compare that with the three million bushels of wheat that are being received daily in Chicago and see how little gold there is.

The big gold owners of the world outside the U.S. and Russia are the United Kingdom with 2,903 bushels; Germany with 3,337; Switzerland with 2,370; Canada with 1,475; Belgium with 1,377; and the Netherlands with 1,154.

In South America, Venezuela is the big gold holder with 962 bushels and Brazil is second with 434. Peru has only 27 bushels and Chile 54. Mexico has 231 bushels. India holds 331 bushels of gold and South Africa, despite its gold mines, has only 240.

France holds 770 bushels; Italy 612; and Portugal 608. Norway has 43, Denmark 42 and Finland 47.

Since the end of 1956 only a few nations have been able to build up their gold holdings. Germany with a gain of 67 per cent made the best showing. The United Kingdom increased its supply by 37 per cent.

Accardo, Ill-Tempered Gang Lord, Lives Lavishly

CHICAGO (AP)—Tony Accardo, swarthy boss of the Chicago underworld, is a husky, ill-tempered gang lord who lives in lavish style in a huge, ornate home in one of Chicago's most exclusive suburbs.

Often termed the successor to the late gang leader Al Capone, for whom he served as bodyguard, the 52-year-old Accardo is under subpoena to appear before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington during current hearings into underworld activities.

It's not likely that the committee will get much information out of the tight-lipped gang boss. Another Senate committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) tried in 1951 but got nowhere. Accardo gave the committee little more than his name.

Always well tanned, Accardo is a solidly built man of about 5 feet 10 inches and weighs nearly 200 pounds. Dark complexioned, he has dark hair, graying at the temples. His right hand bears the tattoo of a dove.

With his wife and three children, he lives in a big stone mansion in suburban River Forest worth an estimated half-million dollars.

Handsome landscaped, the Accardo home is surrounded by a high wrought-iron fence. The home has 22 rooms, an indoor swimming pool, two bowling alleys, a pipe organ, six master bedrooms.

Three of the six bathrooms have gold-plated fixtures. One has a bathtub that reportedly cost $10,000, cut from a solid block of Mexican onyx.

Accardo frequently holds lavish garden parties for his gangland associates.

At one of these parties—held in 1955—reporters peering through the fence spotted Accardo in shorts carrying on an animated conversation with his cronies while standing at a silver fountain bubbling champagne.

Arrested many times, Accardo never has spent more than a few hours in jail. He was rejected for military service in 1944 by his draft board, which ruled he was morally unfit.

Several of Accardo's close gangland associates perished in the gang wars but Accardo emerged

Paper Charge End Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Trade Commission Examiner has recommended dismissal of charges that the Scott Paper Co. of Chester, Pa., violated antitrust laws by acquiring three other companies between 1951 and 1954.

Examiner William L. Pack, in findings announced Sunday, granted Scott's motion for dismissal after hearing evidence in support of the FTC complaint of June 1, 1956. Pack's order is not a final decision of the commission. It may be appealed, stayed or reviewed.

The examiner held that the evidence did not show a reasonable probability that the acquisition might result in substantial lessening of competition in the sanitary paper products industry.

Scott's acquisitions were Soundview Pulp Co., Everett, Wash., in 1951; Detroit Sulphite Pulp and Paper Co., Detroit, in 1954, and Hollingsworth & Whitney Co., Boston, also in 1954.

Exchange Student Tells Of Her Life In Germany

DUNSMUIR — A summer with a family in Germany is giving Susan Thom, Dunsmuir High School senior, a new insight into living. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reg Thom, report.

The Loeb family of Goettingen, who have adopted Susan for the summer as an exchange student under the American Field Service International Scholarship Foundation, is kind, hospitable and eager to see that Susan observes every phase of German life, her letters reveal.

Susan's main concerns are the cost of air mail stamps which cut into the small allowance stipulated as a part of her trip and not being able to take pictures. Susan's new camera was stolen while she was in New York City but it was covered by insurance and she hopes to replace it soon.

"They want to show me everything and we walk and walk," she writes.

She finds Goettingen a fascinating city over 1,000 years old, consisting primarily of narrow, cobble streets and red tiled - roof apartment houses.

"Everybody has a garden but not close to their houses," she comments.

Gun Leads To Charges

An anonymous tip was received by police last Friday night that one Charles Hood Jr. was brandishing a pistol around in a downtown pub.

Officers in two squad cars responded immediately. Several minutes later, they observed Hood walking up Klamath Avenue between Seventh and Eighth. The policemen said Hood tried to hide the gun on another man with him. They arrested Hood on charges of drunk and disorderly and hauled him off to jail.

There it was learned that the man still must settle up for a $100 fine and 30 days for a previous drunk charge. In case he doesn't pay the $100, 50 more days will be added onto the 30.

For Friday's occurrence, Hood forfeited $100 in bail.

Inquest In Deaths Set

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (AP) — An inquest will be held here Monday night or Tuesday into the truck-car crash that took the lives of three Whitman College students a week ago.

Coroner Art Smith said Saturday he expected John Warren, 64, driver of a Bureau of Land Management fire truck involved in the wreck would be able to testify.

The truck and a carload of five college students collided early the morning of July 7, killing Gordon Murray Draper, Bremerton, Wash., driver of the car; Dick Amundson, Snohomish, Wash., and Jan Borseth, Seattle. All three were 20 years old.

Another occupant of the car, Laurel Boniface, 18, Berkeley, Calif., is recovering at a Boise hospital. She is in fair condition and is not expected to testify at the inquest. The rider in the car, Victor E. Langdon, 21, Waukegan, Wash., was released from a hospital here last week.

Another important witness at the inquest is expected to be Devere Sloan of Glenns Ferry, Idaho. He was driving a car full of fire fighters following the truck when the accident occurred.

Vandals Strike At School Sites

Vandals believed juveniles struck twice last Thursday at two of the city's schools.

Authorities reported glass had been broken out of a door on the playground side of Roosevelt School, 1125 North Eldorado. A B-B or pellet gun could have caused the damage, police report.

A newly planted tree was broken off and destroyed last Thursday at Mills School, East Main and Orchard, school authorities told police.

Nervous Bandit Flubs Two Trys At Quick Riches

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A nervous bandit explained today he staged two clumsy holdups that netted him $500 because he wanted to buy furniture and get married.

Matthew Cantrell, 35, Sunday night while he was fleeing from the scene of his second holdup, the H & W Market.

Earlier, Cantrell entered the Mission Dolores Motel and robbed Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thibault of $180. While the holdup was taking place, Mrs. Thibault began crying.

"It made me nervous and my gun went off by accident," Cantrell said.

Then he entered the H & W Market and herded two clerks and several customers into a back room. While escaping with $140, a customer ran out after him, shouting, "Holdup! Holdup!"

Motocycle officers John Kelleghan and Thomas Walsh closed in on him despite his drawn revolver and took him prisoner as he covered behind a truck.

Cantrell's holdups were the third and fourth of the day. The first two occurred simultaneously on opposite sides of Market St. Sunday morning.

One pair of handits got more than $1,000 from the Funland Amusement Parlor just as owner Joseph B. Knoll arrived to open up.

Across the street, two armed men entered the back door of the Palm Garden Grill as it was opening for business. They ordered manager John Post and three employees to lie on the floor. However, the chef, Maurice Turpin, fled when they were not looking and ran out the street shouting, "Holdup!"

The bandits fled out the front door and disappeared.

Nine-Days-Late Fourth Of July Leads To Law Trouble

Celebrating the Fourth of July nine days late has landed a 14-year-old Klamath Falls lad into trouble with the law.

The boy was a passenger in a car driven by another youth and in the company of two girls Sunday afternoon when he allegedly lit a firecracker and threw it out of the car window.

It just happened that a police car was right behind and the cracker exploded to the side of it. Police, mindful of the city ordinance against setting off firecrackers, immediately halted the car.

At first the boy denied any knowledge of throwing a firecracker out of the car.

When officers found about a half a package of crackers under the front seat, the youth said further he had no idea of how they got there.

Fire Chars 4,000 Acres

FORD, Wash. (AP) — A timber and brush blaze that at one time threatened Ford and the nearby community of Uranium City was brought under control Sunday evening by 400 weary fire fighters who took advantage of a shifting wind.

Volunteers were on duty Monday to watch smoldering stumps and guard against another outbreak of the fire that blackened some 4,000 acres of timber, grass and brush. Some wheat fields were also burned.

"Barring new winds, I think we have it licked," the head of the small army of fire fighters was able to report Sunday night, about 26 hours after the fire began about 35 miles northwest of Spokane. Wayne Reiser of Spokane, an official of the State Department of Natural Resources, said trouble-shooting teams of seasoned foresters were being shifted to each threatened outbreak.

The blaze was pushed rapidly along by wind Saturday and for a time seemed a threat to the large Spokane County town of Deer Park. Flames came within a few hundred yards of both Ford and Uranium City.

Then a sudden wind shift about midnight Sunday started the fire blowing back towards itself. Fire crews immediately threw up fire lines.

The blaze was cresting through the tops of trees at an estimated 40 miles an hour at one time Saturday night.

More than 300 airmen joined the fire fighting crews.

Migrant Christian Center Plans At Malin Developed

Plans for a Migrant Christian Center to be built at the migrant camp near Malin were developed at a luncheon meeting of the Klamath Basin Council of Churches recently, according to Ross Ragland, president of the council.

Ragland reported to the meeting that a group of 20 young people from the churches of Fresno have asked permission to come to Klamath Falls next month to build a building to be used by migrant harvest workers.

The young people come to the Basin in what is known as a "work camp." Ragland said. Arrange- ments for their food and lodging will be taken care of by the young people themselves, but materials for the building must be supplied by individuals, firms and organizations of the area. The program is being duplicated in many places in the United States this summer, Ragland said.

Residents of the Klamath Basin are invited to participate in this project by contributions of materials and money. It is expected that the group of young church people will arrive about August 1 and that the building project will require about 30 days. The building will provide many needed facilities of the migrant center including a nursery for the children of workers.

Contributions may be made through any of the churches in the Klamath Basin. For further information, call Ragland at TU 4-8307 or the Rev. H. E. Hamme at Hope Lutheran Church, Klamath Falls.

Grant Made For Research

John I. Mathews, Klamath County Chapter chairman of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc., has announced that Dr. Ruth D. Patterson, associate professor of biochemistry, University of Oregon Medical School, Portland, has been awarded a research grant by the national association in the amount of $8,270.91.

This grant is to support the research project: "The Biochemistry of Muscle in Muscle Diseases" for the period June 1, 1958 to May 31, 1959. It is possible that a request for renewal of this grant for next year will be approved by the association if their scientific department feels that sufficient progress is being made.

This is the first research grant that has been made by the association to any institution in the state of Oregon. Eighty seven similar grants have been approved in fifty nine institutions throughout the United States, including eight research grants to foreign countries. In 1957 these eighty seven research grants totaled $4,928,889. Research grants awarded since 1950, the year the national association was organized, total over $10,500,000.

Seventy five per cent of all funds raised each year are devoted to research in hopes that a cause and cure of the dread disease will soon be found. Twenty five per cent is spent locally by chapters in their patient service programs providing therapy and mechanical devices to patients, such as wheelchairs, hospital hydraulic beds, lifts and braces.

Noisy Party Held On Lake

Two Klamath Falls residents were lodged in the county jail last night, charged with vagrancy after state police officers arrested them at the shore of Klamath Lake.

Officers went to the Lakeshore Drive area after persons living there had complained that loud, unseemly language, issuing from some point off shore, was keeping them awake.

The police claim that several private parties had shouted to Thomas J. Skeins, 22, 4623 Cannon Avenue, and Wesley E. Sine, 22, 4319 Altamont Drive, to shut up, but had only verbal abuse for their pains. They further report that officers received the same treatment.

However, the police waited on the shore of the lake until the pair brought their boat ashore, when they were taken into custody.

Cars Banged In Accidents

Two Sunday accidents resulted only in vehicle damage and citations, local state police report.

The first accident occurred Sunday afternoon at the intersection of Almont Drive and the Great Northern Railway tracks. A vehicle driven by Bobby Joe Lewis, 24, 3250 Union Avenue, which stopped at the crossing, was rammed from the rear by the vehicle driven by Lewis Dudley, R. Route 2, Box 562A, Duffley, was cited for following too closely.

The second accident took place in the evening on South Sixth Street, near its intersection with Arthur Street. A vehicle driven by Talmadge B. Sarr, 33, 3254 Cortez Street, was reportedly sideswiped by a vehicle driven by Halley Q. Lawrence, 48, 3136 Cannon Avenue. Both vehicles were going west on Sixth Street. Officers charged Lawrence with being drunk on a public highway, and lodged him in Klamath County Jail.
