

20 Years Ago Today, Doug Corrigan Flew To Ireland

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)—I flew the wrong way," Corrigan — with a twinkle in his eye — blantly told authorities who had mixed the hop.

An overnight sensation, Corrigan returned to a hero's welcome in the United States and ticker-tape receptions, banquets, a movie contract — and a lifetime membership in the Celebrated Liars Club of Burlington, Wis.

Corrigan, 31 now, lives the life of a country squire with his wife and three sons on his 20-acre orange grove. He's added a few pounds, but still has the toothy Irish grin and the unruly shock of hair so familiar to newspaper readers of 1933.

And he likes nothing better than to reminisce about his flight.

There's still the same twinkle in his blue eyes when he tells an interviewer that a compass error sent his 599 plane winging to Dublin instead of Long Beach, Calif.

"Instead of flying the right heading, I went the opposite way. The weather was foggy and I didn't see the ocean below me."

Corrigan drank a pint of water, ate big bars and "sang a bit to keep up my spirits" on the 23 hour 13-minute flight. His only instrument, other than the celebrated compass was a dollar wrist watch that stopped.

Corrigan earned about $45,000 from lectures, magazine articles, a book and a motion picture, "The Flying Irishman." He managed to keep about $50,000, he said, the most of what's left is invested in his orange grove.

Corrigan has flown a friend's light plane just enough to keep up his license. His famous plane is in storage, and the Texas-born pilot hopes someday to reassemble it and donate it to an aviation museum.

UAW Strike Deadline Due

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther says the United Auto Workers negotiators aren't going to mark time forever in their stalemated bargaining talks with the Big Three car makers.

The UAW president told a news conference that a strike deadline will be set unless progress is made.

"The timing of union strategy will obviously relate to the 1953 models," he said.

The union expects to complete this month strike authorization votes among workers.

Reuther said, "Does collections and strike votes have demonstrated beyond question the loyalty and support of the members."

The union has been collecting dues directly from members since June 1 when contracts with the Big Three expired. The companies continued wages and working conditions of the old contracts but quit deducting union dues from employees' paychecks.

Reuther expressed belief General Motors, Ford and Chrysler will have to offer the union acceptable contracts as the companies go into production of 1953 models in August and September.

Earlier, Reuther told a rally of retired workers that any agreements signed with the car makers will have to include cost of living allowances for workers on pensions and improved benefits for unemployed workers.

Wyatt Earps, Mavericks Slated For Woe This Fall

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Wyatt Earps and the Mavericks are heading for trouble this fall—and not with gunslingers.

A new film TV network is slinging young sex appeal at the adult cowboys, currently riding high on TV's rating ranks.

Comics fell by the laughtrack in a futile attempt to knock off the Western series. But no one until National Television Associates ever thought of throwing three pretty girls in front of the stampeding mustangs.

The new series, which will be seen on 115 independent stations throughout the land, is "How to Marry a Millionaire." The same title once was used for a successful movie.

The movie starred Lauren Bacall, Marilyn Monroe and Betty Grable, three New York career girls looking for millionaire husbands. It was made by 20th Century-Fox, the same company that has made the television series.

Presuming that the TV series may have a long run, three younger girls have been cast. In the Bacall role is red-haired Merry Anders, a shapely actress who was believably cast as a beauty contest winner in her last movie. The Monroe role goes to Barbara Eden and the Grable part is played by Lori Nelson, once one of Universal-International's most promising young actresses.

Merry had a bit part in the original movie. She got into the movies when she asked Bob Hope for his autograph. Hope, who has a good eye, told Merry that she should be giving autographs instead of asking for them.

Barbara Eden, the youngest of the trio, is also the only married

One Jailed, One Free; Or One Free, One Jailed

A case of mistaken identity (on purpose) has resulted in freedom from custody for one man but incarceration for another on charges of forgery.

The sheriff's office reported Wednesday that last Saturday night Don R. Harris and Leslie B. Hatch were in the mood for food.

But they didn't have any so it was suggested Harris go down to the Salvation Army and see about getting free grub. Harris told his friend he would need identification to do this and he didn't have any.

So Hatch loaned him his wallet. It contained a driver's license, Social Security card, Air Force discharge and other papers.

But instead of going to the Salvation Army, Harris wound up at a South Sixth Street food store.

Here, he allegedly cashed a $42 check which he had drawn payable to Hatch and signed with the name of a well known Tulelake rancher. Harris reportedly endorsed the check with Hatch's name before cashing it in the store.

But the store manager, who happened to scrutinize the check seconds after it was cashed, knew the Tulelake man personally and knew Harris wasn't that man.

So he grabbed Harris and held him until authorities arrived.

After Harris was in custody, Hatch was arrested next on grounds of his name being on the check.

But it was later determined that the only part played by Hatch was the loaning of his wallet. He was released.

Harris appeared in district court, waived a preliminary hearing and was bound over to the grand jury. His bail was set at $2,500, which he couldn't post, so he is now in the county jail.

The grand jury will investigate the case and either indict or not indict Harris on forgery charges.

Two Television Western Stars In Studio Dispute

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There are two ways to combat a studio—the Clint Walker way and the James Garner way.

Both have a mad on at their employer, Warner Brothers. Both are TV-spawned stars. Walker found fame as Cheyenne, Garner as Maverick. They are hefty, handsome bruisers who feel they are overworked and underpaid.

Walker climaxed his distaste with the studio by walking out of the Cheyenne series. He announced he was going to sit out the contract and went gold prospecting in Northern California. The studio put a new boy, Ty Hardin, into the starring role in the series.

Garner is equally sore at his contract. A columnist reported that Jim was earning $1,500 a week and commented that it was peanuts for a TV star of his stature.

"If he knew what I was really earning," Garner corrected, "he'd think it was the peanut shell."

He wouldn't disclose what the amount was. But he claimed he has earned as much in other lines of work.

Yet Garner isn't duplicating the Walker walkout. Far from it. He is well into the new season's product on "Maverick." And he's now performing in a feature film, "Up Periscope." (But not before he staged a minor sitdown strike to get a script rewrite.)

"I don't have script approval in my contract," he said, "but I managed to get my point across. The script is far better than the one I was first offered."

"As for other contract matters, I intend to live up to what I signed. I don't intend to tell Clint how to run his business. But as for myself, I signed the contract. It wasn't a good one, but I signed it. If necessary, I will serve out the full five years."

Cool Air In Northeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cool and dry Canadian air spread into the northeastern section of the country today, bringing relief from the warm, humid weather of the last several days.

The sticky weather, however, clung to areas from the southern plains eastward through the Southeastern part of the country.

The center of the cool air mass was over the Great Lakes region and temperatures dropped as low as 38 degrees at Grand Marais, in Upper Michigan. Readings in the 50s extended southward into northern parts of Illinois and Indiana.

Thunderstorms erupted yesterday near the southern boundary of the cooler air in southern Missouri and westward into Kansas and extreme northern Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle.

Tornado winds lashed the area northwest of Amarillo, Tex., and funnel clouds were reported in southwestern Missouri about 29 miles from Springfield. Thunder-showers drenched southwestern Missouri and parts of Kansas. Between 50 and 100 families were evacuated from their homes by floodwaters at Fort Scott, Kan.

The police chief at Sharon, Pa., declared a state of emergency as floodwaters of the Shenango River swirled into the downtown and residential North Flats area. Damage in the northwestern Pennsylvania city of 30,000 was unofficially estimated from two to three million dollars.

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS ON DIAMONDS BY WEISFIELD'S

Authorized Member of The Diamond Council of America

Have you ever asked yourself why the diamond ring is regarded as a symbol of betrothal? The answer embodies romance, adventure and fascinating legends. From the earliest of times, men toiled and struggled — even fought and died — to possess this sparkling, fiery gem.

Legend established the diamond as a lifelong emblem of faith and affection. To many, the fire of a diamond suggested the flame of love. Still others believed that a diamond possessed a charm against evil — if the man who owned it was pure in mind and soul. This charm was passed on to the fiancée — when she was given the diamond.

Through the years, the diamond indicated a woman loved someone and was loved. That is why the diamond was worn on the third finger, left hand — for it was once believed that a vein of love ran from this finger to the heart.

We, here at Weisfield's will be happy to help you choose a diamond for yourself or loved one. The diamond that you buy at Weisfield's will reflect the eternal faith and devotion that you wish to express. Our expert staff of qualified Gemologists (GUILD Gemologists) will be only too glad to help you make your diamond purchase. Studies Law; Wins Release

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—Because Karl A. Wagner studied law in the Kansas Penitentiary library, he is free today from a life sentence as a habitual criminal.

Wagner won his motion for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that he was not represented by an attorney at his sentencing on the habitual criminal charge in 1951. Previously, Wagner had been convicted of assault, jail break and petit larceny.

"Mr. Wagner, there is no use of wasting any time," Dist. Judge Joseph J. Dawes told the 30-year-old convict yesterday. "This will be like Christmas morning for you. The court hereby grants your liberty."

"You have a chance to make something of your life and I hope you will take the opportunity to do it."

"Yes sir, I will," replied Wagner, twisting his hands nervously.

Big Airlift Continuing

NAPLES (AP) — A massive American airlift continued throughout the night to move U.S. forces and material from Germany to the Middle East.

In all, about 30 big two-motor Flying Boxcars landed at Naples' Capodichino Airfield, refueled and took off again. Airfield officials declined to say if any others were expected.

Several more planes refueled at Rome's Ciampino Airport en route to Adana, Turkey, where the U.S. troops are camping to await further orders.

Transport planes, meanwhile, continued to arrive in Europe from the United States to airlift American troops to the Middle East.

About 50 C-130 Hercules aircraft arrived in France during the night to bring the armada available for the operation to well over 200 transport planes.

Man Of War Just Yacht

SAN DIEGO (UPD) — Despite a single-shot, line-throwing gun, Gen. Rafael Trujillo's 350-foot personal "man of war" was classified by harbor officials today as merely a very luxurious yacht.

Presence of that bit of armament was enough to win the Angella classification as a man of war and free dockage at Los Angeles Harbor but here the going rate at the Broadway Pier for the yacht was $15 daily.

How long the rich, young general, son of Dominican strongman Rafael Trujillo, would choose to stand the gaff for the charges was not known. Reports were the free-spending father of six would stay two or three days.

Trujillo put into the harbor here early Wednesday morning after a short trip from Los Angeles Harbor with a mysterious "lady in red" aboard.

Mysterious that is until she was identified as Lita Milan, a New York-born starlet.

Unlike actress Zsa Zsa Gabor, Kim Novak and Joan Collins, though, she said she had received no gifts from the generous general.

"He is a wonderful gentleman and I won't give up my friendship with him, not for anybody. They don't understand him," she said.

For what they had done to his woman... he broke the bravados one by one!

CINEMASCOPE

HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Seventh grade children at this Air Force base will be taught next term by Edward L. Hanchett, fired from his last teaching job for refusing to answer questions about possible Communist affiliations before 1948.

Philip Schneider, district superintendent, reported trustees had approved hiring Hanchett to teach science, mathematics and physical education in Raphael Village, a government owned community of Air Force personnel.

"We're convinced Mr. Hanchett has never advocated overthrow of the United States government," said Schneider. "He is a very competent teacher and stood head and shoulders above all other applicants."

Hanchett invoked the Fifth Amendment before a House subcommittee on un-American activities hearing last summer. He was refused renewal of his contract in Marin County's Davis School District this spring.

FORBES SYRATICO
CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Waltzing Larrazabal, acting procurator of Venezuela, told the newspaper El Mundo Wednesday that the U.S. had received a formal invitation from U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon to visit the United States. He said the newspaper he has accepted the invitation but has set no definite date for a visit.
