HAROLD BRESSLER, 3322 Homedale Road, gazes gloomily at the safety glass of the rear window of his car, which went abruptly and inexplicably to pieces Tuesday morning. The window was in apparently perfect shape at 8:30 a.m., but was in the process of disintegration at 10 when Bressler was preparing to drive off. Tiny glass splinters were flying out on both sides of the glass. The car is a 1951 model, and the glass was the original pane, so if it was in any way defective, this fact took long enough to come to light. The car was unloaded at the time of the crackup, and was parked in a driveway well back from the road. There was no evidence of pressure on the pane.
