Holmes Challenged

proved bill insured the Department of the Interior this right. "Congressman Al Ullman has done a most effective job of furthering this legislation in the House Interior Committee. He has always done everything possible to protect both the Klamath Tribal members and the reservation assets which are so important to the Klamath Basin area.

"While Congressman Ullman opposed the change in language, it was largely through his efforts that crippling amendments to the section requiring a plan of operation were prevented. By defeating these crippling amendments, sound conservation practices for the reservation lands are insured. Because of the statesmanlike manner in which he has worked for this legislation, I am very pleased that I will be able to bring up for consideration on July 21 the Klamath Indian bill as the first order of full committee business despite the fact that 20 other bills are also on the committee agenda awaiting action.

"May I again assure you that statements casting doubt on the House subcommittee approved termination bill are unfounded and do a great disservice to all those who are honestly and sincerely working for a sound termination program."

Plea Saves Injured Flier

ANGIER, N.C. (UPI) — A critically injured flier owed his life today to a farmer who found strength he did not know he possessed.

Joseph P. Parkerson, 33, of Okeechobee, Fla., was critically injured Thursday when his crop-dusting plane crashed on the farm of Ernest Ennis. Ennis attempted to pull Parkerson from the flaming wreckage but gave up his effort.

As he turned away from the wreckage, he heard Parkerson scream. "I turned around and went back and pulled him up," Ennis said. "I don't know how I did it. The Lord must have helped me."

Just as Ennis dragged Parkerson away from the plane, the fuel tank exploded. Ennis lay Parkerson in the moist earth and stripped off his burning clothing. "He didn't say anything except ask that I take off his shoes. They were burning his feet," Ennis said.

Mrs. Ennis drove to Angier, two miles away. Ennis said that when he first tried to rescue Parkerson he was driven back by the smoke and flames.

"I told him 'Mister, I can't help you,'" Ennis said. "I walked away. Then I heard him scream 'Oh Lord,' and I went back and got him out."

The scene was dropped from the show.

Beauty Test Hopefuls Land

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Fifty foreign beauties flew into town for the Miss Universe contest — and before you could say "swimsuit," there it was: the contest's first crisis.

Miss Costa Rica read the registration rules, sighed sadly and confessed to the pageant director. "I'm not old enough."

The other 49 girls — chattering and giggling noisily — went to their rooms to be fitted into swimsuits.

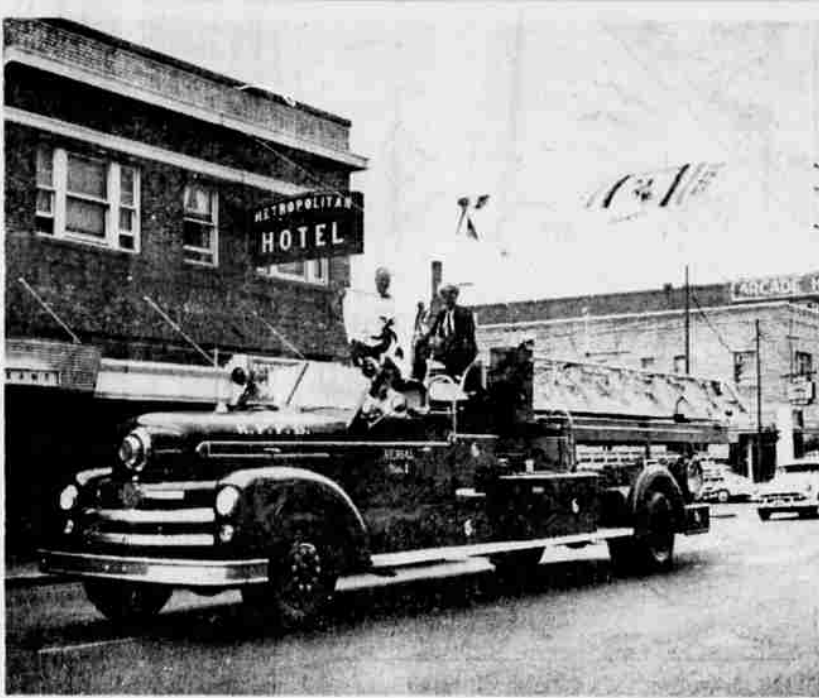

Dark-eyed Eugenia Maria Valverde explained she won't be 18 until Oct. 8, 1958. Registration rules say she had to turn 18 July 1 to be eligible.

"Eugenia Valverde is one of the most honest girls I've ever met," said contest director Oscar Meinhardt. "She will remain here during the pageant as our guest, representing Costa Rica.

"But she cannot be judged for Miss Universe."

Miss Valverde rushed off to get fitted for her suit.

The rest of the 80 girls expected for the contest are due today.

KLAMATH BASIN ROUNDUP decorations went up on Main Street yesterday, with the help of the city fire department. Chief Roy Rowe supervises the operation while Bill Ackerman prepares to hang a banner. Ralph Edwards is driving the aerial truck. Round-up headquarters will open at the Willard Hotel tomorrow.

Losses By NW Spudmen Laid To Early Sprouting

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — "Some individual potato growers in the Northwest lost $10,000 to $30,000 last year because their potatoes sprouted before they could be marketed — losses could have been greatly reduced by approved sprout inhibitors."

This was one of the many agricultural research facts brought out Thursday at a meeting of the Northwest Assn. of Horticulturists, Entomologists and Plant Pathologists.

The two-day conference drew 44 farm scientists from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia.

Walter C. Sparks, horticulturist at the Idaho experiment station at Aberdeen, recommended more use of sprout inhibitors approved by the Pure Food and Drug Administration. They can be applied by spraying before or after harvest or at the time of marketing," he said.

"Cutting down on sprouting is becoming more and more important to potato growing states," he said. "Potato processors are moving into this area for large scale operations because of the high quality, but to operate economically, they must function on a year around basis. There must be a minimum of sprouting."

L. B. Batjer, in research for the USDA at Yakima, Wash., said it has been learned that by adding a detergent to spray used in thinning apples, uniform results can be obtained regardless of absorption conditions due to weather. The results were obtained by simulating rain storms and other weather conditions indoors.

"We were able to speed up the studies greatly by simulating weather changes on apple sprouts in a hothouse," he said.

William B. Ackley, Washington State College horticulturist, reported on research on sweet cherries.

He said the use of gibberellins, a hormone-like material applied to sweet cherries, increases the stem length and makes picking easier. Its application delayed color formation in give the fruit a brighter red when marketed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders pushed for passage of the reciprocal trade extension bill today. But first they expected to knock out a key provision curbing President Eisenhower's powers.

The chances of getting a final vote by tonight appeared to rest largely with Sen. George W. Malone (R-Nev.), a longtime foe of the trade program.

Malone was ready with a speech which some senators said they understood might run many hours.

The decisive vote was to come on an amendment offered by the two Senate leaders and four other senators. It would strike from the bill a provision inserted in the Finance Committee by Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.).

The Kerr provision is heavily opposed by the administration. It would end powers the President now has to override a recommendation of the Tariff Commission for relief to an industry claiming damage from imports, and often does so.

The House-passed extension bill, in a provision accented by Eisenhower, gives Congress the right to veto a presidential decision against the commission by a two-thirds vote of both branches.

The Senate committee voted a three-year extension and put restrictions on the President's authority affecting other matters than Tariff Commission cases. The House voted the full five-year extension asked by Eisenhower and left his hands relatively free.

Expert Seeks Girth Control

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — A British diet expert is advocating more girth control. Tall, lean Dr. Hugh Sinclair says too many of Britain's children are too fat.

He told the British Medical Assn. yesterday youngsters are laying the foundations for heart and circulation diseases in later life.

"The trouble is children get too much milk and too little exercise," Dr. Sinclair asserted. He explained:

"We send a bus to take a child a quarter of a mile to school while unlimited quantities of milk are poured down his throat before he returns home to sit in front of the television, perhaps smoking a cigarette.

"If he survives and goes into industry, his activity will become less and less for more machines will be doing his work for him.

"The underfed brat playing in the streets is likely to be more healthy."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of three men whose Air Force jet bomber crashed in the Atlantic off the Azores were reported today to have been picked up by an unidentified American ship.

The Defense Department said the identities of the rescued men had not been determined. A spokesman said they were in good shape.

Earlier, the Pentagon had released the names of the three crew members whose RB66 medium range reconnaissance plane went down yesterday more than 500 miles off the Azores. The plane was en route to a European base from Shaw Air Force Base, S.C.

The crew members were Capt. Clyde B. Trent Jr., 34, Old Hill, N.C., the pilot; Lt. Roth O. Owen, 27, Fair Oak, Calif., the navigator; and A.L.C. Julius J. Rausch, 23, Dazey, N.D., the gunner.

The Pentagon spokesman said he had no information on how the men were rescued.

Special Meet Results Told

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther is expected to call a special session of the United Auto Workers' Executive Board early next month to discuss strike strategy.

By the end of this month the union will have completed strike authorization votes among 400,000 members at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler plants. The voting so far is running more than 90 per cent in favor of strike action, the union said.

Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer, said the union has a strike fund of nearly 33 million dollars. It is counting on borrowing 10 million dollars from its locals if additional funds are needed to finance a strike.

Reuther has indicated that union strategists would set a strike deadline at one of the companies to coincide with the start of production of 1959 models.

Solons Push Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders pushed for passage of the reciprocal trade extension bill today. But first they expected to knock out a key provision curbing President Eisenhower's powers.

In its first vote on amendments after two days of debate, the Senate rejected 55-4 a proposal of Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) to make the 24-year-old trade program permanent.

Woodland Fire Burns Cascades

SEATTLE (AP) — A 2,000-acre woodland fire burning on the east slope of the Cascade Mountains in Washington was controlled last night and the parched Pacific Northwest got the promise today of some relief from a prolonged heat wave.

First-Rate Competitors Sign Up For Basin Rodeo

The first 55 out-of-town signups for the Klamath Basin Roundup clearly show that this July 25-27 rodeo will bring first-rate competition to Klamath Falls.

This is especially evident in the team roping category, in which the 1957 champion, Dale Smith, and his two runnersup, Bob G. Jones and Frank Ferreira, are already enrolled.

Smith, whose home is in Central, Arizona, has won the team roping title for the past two years, taking the 1957 championship by a 2,500 point margin. He was raised in the desert country of southeastern Arizona, and first attracted nationwide attention by taking second place in team roping in 1954. In 1955 he tied steer wrestling, wrenched a knee, and was out of all contests for the year. He came back with a vengeance in the following year, repeated taking the title in 1957, while also taking third place in the All Around Cowboy competition. He is in first place in the current team roping running, and is in eighth place in the All Around category.

Jones has also been a formidable threat in the team roping category since 1954. After eight years of roping, he hit fifth place that year, and moved up to second in 1955. He slipped back to third in 1956, but was runnerup again in 1957. Born in Springfield, Arkansas, in 1927, he now makes his home in Madera, California.

Ferreira first placed in the top 10 in 1955, when he took third place in team roping, repeating in 1957. Now in his late 30s, he started roping at Riverdale, California, over 20 years ago. One of his proudest moments came last year when Frankie Jr., at 15, won a day money in the team roping with one of the fastest ropers ever recorded at Klamath Falls, against some of the toughest ropers in the game. Ferreira lives in Fresno.

These three stars by no means exhaust the list of team roping greats who will be on hand. There is Vern Castro of Livermore, California, who was Smith's immediate predecessor as champion, in 1955. Castro placed second in 1949, third in 1950, fourth in 1951, and seventh last year. In the meantime, he was placing in the top ten of the All Around Cowboy category: Tenth in 1948, seventh in 1949, eighth in 1950 and ninth in 1951.

Then there's Bub Gatzman of Waterford, California, who wound up in ninth place last year, and who took a fifth in 1951. And, especially, there's Ross Dolardie, Grants Pass, third place All Around Cowboy in 1953, who is seventh in the current team roping standings.

Another who will be taking part in the team roping is Barney Willis, Visalia, California, who is best known as a steer wrestler, but who is one of the Pacific Coast's top ropers. Another entry is Sam Edmondson of Madera, California. Entries for the rodeo do not close until Thursday evening, July 24, so there will undoubtedly be some other outstanding team ropers on hand.

The Klamath Basin Roundup Association announces that it will be opening its headquarters at the Willard Hotel tomorrow. This headquarters will handle the sales of tickets for the three rodeo performances: Evenings on July 25 and 26, and afternoon on July 27.

Noah Final Rites Told

When Charles Marion Noah of Fort Klamath died in Klamath Falls July 12 the Wood River Pioneer and Old-Timer organization of Fort Klamath lost another of its honorary pioneer members.

Born at Deer Creek, Oregon, on February 1, 1868, Mr. Noah celebrated his 90th birthday at his home in Fort Klamath. With his wife, Rose June (now 84), and family he moved here in the spring of 1910. The family has made the Wood River Valley its home ever since.

In the early days, Noah drove freight wagon between here and the nearest railroad point, Chiloquin, and many were the tales he could tell of those times. Old-timers will recollect how he played for old-time dances here until some 25 years ago. With the advent of modern trucks, he went into the hay business, working for many years putting up hay crops throughout the valley for ranchers. Eight years ago Noah retired from active work and lived quietly at his home with his wife and son Lloyd (Cap).

Final services were held at the Fort Klamath Community Methodist Church on July 14 at 1:30 p.m. with the Rev. James Overdoff of Klamath Falls officiating. Soloists were Mrs. Bert Gray and Mrs. Richard H. Wilson accompanied at the piano by Mrs. William Brewer, all of Fort Klamath. Concluding services and interment were at the Fort Klamath Cemetery.

Active pallbearers were Guss A. and William A. Page, William and Charles Zumbur, Ober Brown, J. Quince Buell; honorary were Bert Gray, Ed Hoyt, Emmitt McKeever, Jack Thomas, R. Seth Dixon and Benjamin H. Briceo.

In addition to the widow and son Lloyd of Fort Klamath, survivors include the daughter, Mrs. Maurice Benedict, Klamath Falls; son Roy, Port Orford, and another son, Benjamin, presently of Fort Klamath, and 11 grandchildren.

Bomber Crew Squadron Plans Breakfast Fete

Klamath Falls Squadron, Civil Air Patrol will sponsor the first annual fly-in breakfast on Sunday, July 27. Civil Air Patrols of the state, rodeo performers, officials of the Klamath Basin Roundup and the public are invited to be present.

Breakfast will be served from 7 to 11 a.m. at the Airport Cafe. Everett Peery, commander of the Klamath Falls CAP squadron who has been in Hawaii for five weeks, is expected to be present to receive guests. In his absence, acting commander has been E. F. Adamson.

Obituaries

TANNER Francis Merle Tanner, 43, native of Pringle, South Dakota, resident of Malin for 15 years, died there July 17, 1958. Termination Bill Scored PORTLAND (AP) — The president of the International Woodworkers of America joined Wednesday in protests against an amendment proposed for the Klamath Termination Act.

The union head, Al F. Hartung, said he sent a telegram to House Speaker Sam Rayburn urging defeat of the amendment proposed in the House Interior Committee.

Gov. Holmes and others also have protested.

Hartung's wire said: "This amendment, if allowed to stand, will completely emasculate the tremendous stand of pine timber in Southern Oregon and Northern California and permit clear cutting and resultant destruction of watersheds upon which large areas in both states depend for water and flood control.

"It will adversely affect the economy of the entire Klamath Basin and make destitute many towns and cities whose economic life is tied to the lumber industry and whose demise is certain if clear cutting is permitted. Land on which this fine pine timber grows is not fit for any other growth, thus it is imperative that a sustained yield program, as provided in the Senate bill be maintained.

"If Congress allows amendments to Senate Bill 3051 to stand, they will be taking the responsibility for the complete economic destruction of the last great stand of timber in America and for the creation of an economic ghost area to rival the worst of the dust bowls. Please exert every effort to prevent passage of these unwise amendments."

Accused Rustler Waives Hearing

Roy G. Lambert, 49-year-old ranch foreman charged with cattle rustling, waived a preliminary hearing in district court this morning and was bound over to the grand jury.

Lambert is accused of stealing eight head of white-faced cattle from rancher J. C. Miller near Kirk on June 8 and June 29. He had been Miller's foreman.

The grand jury will conduct an investigation of the case and decide whether Lambert should be indicted or not. Cattle stealing is a felony in Oregon.

Woman Guilty Of Drunk Driving

A jury has convicted a 42-year-old Klamath Falls woman of being drunk while driving her car when it struck a pedestrian at East Main and Eberlein streets June 14.

The driver, Eva Peterson, will be sentenced July 23 at 2 p.m. by Police Judge Frank Blackner.

Mrs. Peterson's car struck Mrs. J. W. Wright at 2122 Reclamation Street, who suffered a broken leg. Fractures of both hips and both shoulders, as well as internal injuries. She is recovering.

Van Vactor set August 8 at 10 a.m. for a jury trial. The complaint against Higgins was signed by Mrs. Ruth Keen, Delbert's mother.

Funny Scene Isn't Funny

PALOS VERDES ESTATES, Calif. (AP) — A helicopter, photographing what should have been a funny scene, got too close to its work.

The copter's landing gear snapped a wave off Portuguese Bend. It flipped over into the ocean and sank. Pilot Norman Smith, 37, and cameraman Tom Belcher, 38, popped to the surface.

They had been photographing Max Hodder, 40, Burbank, Calif., floating in a raft with Hollywood model Linda Williams, 25. The films were to be used on the next Truth or Consequences TV show to surprise Hodder's wife. She had been told her husband was on a business trip.

boat brought Smith, Belcher, Hodder and Miss Williams to shore.

Farmer Cash Receipts Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government economists report that cash receipts of farmers from marketings of crops, livestock and livestock products are running at a record high level.

The Agriculture Department's marketing service says those receipts during the second quarter of this year were at the annual rate of $33,600,000,000. The previous annual record was 33 billion in 1951.

But this record rate of return is offset by a record level of farm production expenses. This helps to keep net farm income — the amount left after payment of production expenses — also from setting a new high mark.

The service said that production costs were running at the annual rate of 2 1/2 billion during the second quarter of this year. The highest previous annual cost marked up was 2 3/4 billion last year.
