Filmland Couple Finds That TV Tends To Make You Fat

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP)—At lunch the other day, singers Eydie Gorme and Steve Lawrence winced when their guest ordered steak.

They ordered poached eggs, dry toast and skimmed milk. Why the diet, since neither looked heavy?

"You have to be thinner for TV," said Lawrence, speaking for himself and his bride of six months. "We've been playing night clubs lately and our weight was fine for that. But the TV picture tends to broaden you."

Beginning July 13, for eight weeks, the young couple replaces the Steve Allen Show on NBC. It's the first time they've had their own show. Naturally, they're excited and nervous and full of plans. One is losing weight.

"You don't believe this," said Lawrence, "but a fellow told me people look different on NBC and CBS. It has to do with their test patterns and basic picture. CBS tends to make the performer look taller and thinner. NBC broadens and shortens you slightly. The NBC picture adds about five pounds to your figure and removes about an inch in height."

Immediately, the Lawrences' luncheon guest looked up from his steak. Zounds! he thought. This could be the TV story of the year. An expose of distortion by our major networks. Was NBC really more caloric than its rival?

Later, the story was checked out with technicians at NBC and CBS. Yes, they said, they had heard this before from viewers and performers. No, they said, it just isn't true. If there is any difference in the network pictures it results from distortion in the viewers' sets. (You lose more darn good stories by checking!)

Meanwhile, back at the restaurant, the Lawrences discussed their new show. It would be largely musical, with guests and a thin line of continuity.

The question brought a taut moment of silence. Steve finally answered: "It will be 'Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme.' It seems more natural that way, you know, like Burns and Allen."

Had there been any family discussion of the billing?

"For about five minutes, only," said Lawrence.

"I really think Steve should be billed first," said Eydie. "It does seem more natural that way. Besides, I wouldn't photograph well with two broken arms."

TV NOTES

NEW YORK (AP) — Marge and Gower Champion, the twinkled husband-wife dance team of TV and films, are changing pace with a summer theater tour. Gower is directing and Marge is performing in "Hemingway and All Those People" by William Mercer.

NEW YORK (AP)—Anthony Quayle, veteran of 300 stage roles, is doing the narration for the documentary film "Assignment: Mankind" which marks the 50th anniversary of the newspaper, The Christian Science Monitor. The half-hour movie, depicting a day's journalistic activities around the globe, is to be released in the autumn. Quayle recorded the narration shortly after the Broadway opening of "The Firstborn" in which he co-stars with Katharine Cornell.

NEW YORK (AP)—"Jane Eyre," one of the costliest ventures in Broadway annals, ran into unexpected expense and a new dispute while trying to settle a previous controversy. The sponsors of the production which has cost an estimated half million dollars, have a suit pending before Actors Equity Assn. because Errol Flynn withdrew as the star. As part of the evidence, a recording was made of one performance. The tape backfired when Equity said its regulations require the cast receive a full week's pay for the record. The claim is being opposed on the grounds it was made specifically for evidence.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Joe E. Lewis is due at Cedars of Lebanon today for surgery. The operation — the nature of which was not disclosed — will be performed tomorrow. Lewis, 53, who has been appearing at a Las Vegas, Nev., night club, will be hospitalized about 10 days.
