Star's Son Doesn't Think Modern Youths Are Wild

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Are today's juveniles any more delinquent than previous generations? Pat Wayne doesn't think so.

Pat is the husky, handsome, 18-year-old son of John Wayne, and a teen-age idol in his own right. No hothouse Hollywood kid is he. Pat has been reared in a normal Los Angeles neighborhood by his mother, long divorced from the actor.

Commenting on his contemporaries, Pat opined: "If a kid is left to himself, he'd never get in trouble. It's only when you get with a bunch of other fellows that you start smoking and cutting up. Then each one tries to outdo the other, and sometimes there is real trouble."

"But I don't think this generation is any different from other ones. We all do some crazy things. Like sneaking into theaters."

This struck a responsive chord. As a lad, I sneaked into the same movie houses. Even got caught once.

"I only got caught once," Pat remarked. "That was when we sneaked into the Pan-Pacific to see the Harlem Globetrotters play basketball. One of our buddies got caught, so we all gave ourselves up. The police took us away, but then they let us go."

Pat added that such experiences have made him more conservative. He realizes that the fact he is John Wayne's son could provide headlines from even a minor brush with the law.

He recalled that he took up smoking and fast cars in his earlier years, even raced a car to 95 m.p.h. on a desert road. Now the thought of it sears him. He drives a fairly sedate station wagon and smokes an occasional cigar.

Pat was asked if he thought rock 'n' roll contributed to delinquency.

"Some of it is pretty wild," he commented. "I can see how listening to such music might fan the flames and help send a bunch of kids into trouble. But I don't think rock 'n' roll is the cause. Some kids are going to get into trouble anyway."

Pat himself admires some rock 'n' roll ("I like to listen to Elvis Presley, not watch him"), and he's going to contribute to the craze. He made a film for the "Mr. Adams and Eve" TV show to plug his latest movie, "The Young Land." On the show he plays a pop singer. The question arose: Why not become one?

So he cut four records, one of which he'll sing on the TV show next week.

Pat just finished his freshman year as a pre-med student at Loyola University here. This summer he'll help plug "The Young Land" and perhaps make another film for C. V. Whitney Productions. He has a dream contract which pays him the year around, yet he works only in the summer.

"I'm going to finish college," he said. "My father wants me to. Besides, I want to have a line of work in case I don't make the grade in movies."

PILOT'S FACE DECISION

TERNHILL, England (UPI) - Four Iraqi pilots who just graduated from the Royal Air Force flying school wondered today, "where do we go from here?" The fliers, who came to England under a program to train pilot officers for King Faisal's jet equipped Iraqi air force, had to decide whether to return home to serve under the new rebel government or stay out of their native country.
