By FRANK JENKINS
The latest chessboard move: Russia proposes a "treaty of friendship and cooperation" that would bind Eastern and Western Europe and the United States "in a non-aggression pact." The "treaty" would be discussed at a meeting at Geneva of heads of states of five powers. Since it would include heads of states, it would be a meeting "at the summit," which is what Khrushchev has been gunning for months. Our counter-proposal is a top-level gathering, to include heads of state, to be held at THE UNITED NATIONS.

What lies back of it? Presumably, Russia is aiming at the break-up of our alliance structures—including NATO, the Baghdad pact, etc. She'd like to isolate us from our friends, leaving us on our own with all the world against us.

Russia has no allies to bother with. She runs the communist world with an iron hand.

What of the non-aggression treaty Russia suggests? Well, the brutal fact is that a non-aggression treaty would be no better than the good faith of the nations entering into it. Russia's word isn't worth much.

And Russia runs the communist world.

Is there anything good about Russia's new proposal? That is hard to say. It is hard to say because it is hard to believe that anything good (for us) could come out of Russia.

But—

It MAY indicate that Russia isn't yet ready to start World War III.

At any rate—

When the New York exchange opened this (Monday) morning, stocks continued their advance in moderately active trading.

In times like these, the world's stock exchanges are extremely sensitive barometers, with prices tending to fall on what is regarded as bad news.

So much for facts. Now for an opinion:

Our first big job, if we are to come through this crisis with credit to ourselves, is to convince EVERYBODY that we have no imperialistic designs in the Middle East—or anywhere else in the world.

That is the plain truth. We have no desire ("we" meaning the America people) to run the affairs of the rest of the world. Since it is the truth, there ought to be ways to make it convincing in the right places.

I hope our diplomacy is directed toward that objective.

Owner, Firemen Highly Pleased As House Burns

CHICAGO (AP)—Charles C. Fruehe wasn't joking when he asked Seth C. Mayer if he could burn down his house. And Mayer wasn't kidding when he said yes.

Mayer's house went down in a blaze of glory yesterday and evermore—Mayer, Fruehe, firemen and some 2,000 spectators—was pleased as punch.

Fruehe, fire chief of suburban Lombard, wanted his men and firemen from other communities to have an exercise in fire fighting. Mayer agreed because he was planning to have the 10-room, 100-year-old frame house razed.

First a room would be set ablaze and then brought under control. After six rooms had been burned and then soaked, the firemen let the whole thing go.

Everyone agreed it was a real nice fire.

MIDDLE EAST DEVELOPMENTS are clearly pointed out in this explanatory map of the area where American Marines and British Tommies are now assembled. Keyed areas are as follows: (1) Lebanon, where American Marines are still pouring ashore and where the U. S. has now assembled a vast force with "atomic capabilities." (2) Israel, Jewish nation that borders Lebanon on the South and Jordan on the West. (3) Turkey, where U. S. Army paratroopers were assembled at the base of Adana and where American aerial forces are still based. (4) The island of Cyprus from where the British flew their troops into Jordan at the request of King Hussein, also a trouble spot of its own. (5) Egypt, main anchor of the United Arab Republic, and base of the revolutionary movement that overthrew the rule of King Faisal in Iraq. (6) Syria, the other member of the U.A.R. and reportedly communist dominated possesses strategic spot between Lebanon and Iraq, and borders Jordan on the north. (7) Jordan, where British troops have now answered the call for aid by King Hussein.

This is classed as the No. 1 trouble spot, being immediately adjacent to Iraq. Since Jordan's King Hussein was not only allied with but was a cousin of Iraq's King Faisal, he has been threatening reprisal against Iraq. (8) Iraq, oil-wealthy trouble spot where a lightning revolt killed King Faisal and swung nation into U.A.R. orbit. It was this revolt that brought American and British troops into the Middle East in force. (9) Saudi Arabia, where America and Britain both have tremendous oil interests. Key to control of Western Europe could well lie in this country since it controls much of the oil needed by those nations. Ruled by King Saud, Saudi Arabia has made no perceptible move yet in the present crisis beyond barring American planes from flying to Jordan across its territory. (10) Iran, a trouble spot in the past, and Moslem nation that stands between Soviet Russia and the Middle East. Russian army maneuvers are currently being held on her northern borders.

Committee Okays Klamath Bill Favoring Early Sales

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Interior Committee Monday approved a bill to authorize sale of Klamath Indian Reservation timber to private industry and the government.

The bill would authorize sale to private industry of sufficient timber to pay to Indians withdrawing from the Oregon tribe when federal supervision over its affairs ends their share of tribal assets.

Whatever of this amount is not bought by private industry would then be bought by the federal government for inclusion in the national forests. The bill would authorize an appropriation of up to $9 million dollars to finance the federal purchase.

The bill includes language to permit sale of timber on the fringe areas of the reservation without regard to a provision which would prohibit sale of the principal timber stand prior to 1959. The committee also voted to authorize sales to begin as of April 1, 1959, instead of July 1, 1959, as originally provided.

Both amendments were offered by Rep. Al Ullman (D-Ore), the bill's sponsor, in order to meet requests of lumber mills in the Klamath Falls, Ore., area which feared the restriction would leave them access to insufficient timber to continue operations.

In addition to these fringe areas, Ullman said, the bill would leave open for possible sales the estimated 93 million board feet of timber on portions of the reservation which will be retained by Indians maintaining their tribal entity.

A similar bill previously passed the Senate.

PEACOCK PROWLERS
SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—It may be summertime for people but for peacocks it's spring when a male peacock's fancy turns to thoughts of love. That's Bob Byers' explanation for reports to the sheriff's department that strange peacocks are invading new neighborhoods. Byers knows about such things. He's superintendent of the Humane Society.

ROY WEAVER

Weaver Files In Ward Five

Roy B. Weaver, local representative of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, has announced his candidacy for the city council from Ward 5.

Weaver, who is 26, says that as a younger member of the community he is vitally interested in its welfare.

"I believe I can better serve the community on the council than I can as simply an interested citizen," Weaver said today.

"My decision to run was made after many friends and acquaintances had urged me to do so," he continued. "The only promise I'll make is that I'll faithfully represent the people of Ward 5, if they choose me to be their representative on the council."

Weaver, a native of San Francisco, has resided in this city since 1953. He has been active in civic affairs, and is currently a member of the Community Council, the Modoc Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and the Klamath Basin Life Underwriters Association. He is a director of the Klamath Jaycees, and a charter member of the Kentapops Toastmasters Club.

Weaver, his wife, and their three sons live at 2941 Sargent Avenue.

This is Weaver's first experience of running for public office.

Ladd Hoyt, incumbent councilman from Ward 5, has already announced his candidacy for re-election. Election day is November 4.

Commander Warns Foe Of Atomic Capabilities

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The commander of U.S. forces in Lebanon reminded possible aggressors in the Middle East today that his land, sea and air forces have "atomic capabilities."

The U.S. commander, Vice Adm. James L. "Lord Jim" Holloway, aimed his statement at no specific nation and he emphasized that all U.S. forces have such capabilities.

But his statement took on added significance since it was issued through the U.S. Embassy here at a time of increased saber-rattling in Moscow and as Communist and Egyptian-Syrian United Arab Republic radios were building increased tensions through a stream of inflammatory broadcasts.

The Damascus, Cairo and Baghdad radios appealed again today to the people of Jordan to assassinate King Hussein and overthrow his government.

Hussein's government is under the protection of 2,000 British paratroops who streamed by massive airlift into Amman Thursday to join the U.S. in preserving Middle East peace in the face of the revolt in Iraq and serious civil strife in Lebanon.

The U.S. completed its buildup of more than 10,000 Marines and airborne infantry in Lebanon today, while the heaviest firing in two weeks was heard in the divided city of Beirut.

A spokesman for rebel leader Saeb Salam said the fighting was between his men and partisans of the pro-government PPS party. The firing, which included 13 explosions that sounded like artillery, was confined to the rebel-held Basta section near the city's race track.

A squad of U.S. Marines was alerted shortly before midnight to rush to the British Embassy. However, nothing materialized.

Holloway's statement issued through the embassy said that "all combat forces including ground, sea and air forces have atomic capabilities."

He did not enlarge upon the subject except to note: "Further discussion of the subject is a matter of military security."

However, it was known that the Marines in Lebanon were equipped with eight-inch howitzers capable of firing atomic shells.

Three U.S. jet planes scattered more than one million leaflets over Lebanon today, telling the people that U.S. forces are here to "help maintain Lebanese independence."

The leaflets were printed in Arabic and bore a picture of President Eisenhower.

The U.S. Embassy reported that Lebanese rebels who have been sniping at U.S. military planes also fired at an Egyptian airliner attempting to land at Beirut Sunday. The statement denied a United Arab Republic statement that U.S. Marines fired on the plane.

Marines and Lebanese forces were working together at Beirut Airport to prevent any further sniping.

Meanwhile, Iraq's revolutionary regime was going all out to win swift diplomatic recognition from the West.

The new government pledged safety of western oil installations and promised friendship with western governments.

Porker Hounded

PORTLAND (AP)—A radio-equipped airplane tracked a pig on the loose Sunday at Troh's Airport, just east of here.

The runaway porker grounded all flights for a time while attendants chased it around hangars and down the runway.

The airplane pilot radioed the pig's positions to the pursuing ground crew. Finally captured, the pig was turned over to sheriff's deputies.

Chimps Stinkin' From Drinkin' Potent Perfume

OCEAN PARK, Calif. (AP)—Two chimpanzees, Rob Roy and Tonga, escaped from their cages at the new Pacific Ocean Park pier yesterday and downed a gallon of My Sin perfume worth $2,300.

The perfume — 65 per cent alcohol — was on hand to scent the waters of Neptune's Fountain at the entrance to the pier.

The two male chimps couldn't be found but their owner wasn't too worried.

"They're around somewhere sleeping it off," he said.

Allies May Spurn Khrushchev Offer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced Monday that the United States, Britain and France have started drafting a reply to the Khrushchev proposal for an emergency summit conference on the Middle East.

The United States it was learned, has proposed to Britain and France a draft which would definitely turn down the Soviet Premier's call for an immediate meeting outside the United Nations and would keep Middle East diplomacy concentrated in the UN Security Council.

The U.S. version would counter the sensational Soviet move of last Saturday with a proposal that Khrushchev take to the Security Council his charge that the United States and Britain endangered peace by putting troops into Lebanon and Jordan.

Britain and France were reported in agreement with the United States on this general line of approach—which would very likely result in a high level Security Council meeting of either foreign ministers or chiefs of government. But there appeared to be some difference, at least of emphasis, between Washington and the two European capitals on how hard to plug the idea of an early summit conference either inside or outside the UN. The British government, particularly, is under heavy pressure from its Labor Party opposition to get into a summit meeting with the Russians.

Here are Monday's top developments: London—Prime Minister Macmillan told the House of Commons that the United States and its allies are urgently considering the best means by which to arrange for a meeting which heads of government could attend.

It was evident that Macmillan used deliberately cloudy language. The reason is that the Big Three had not decided precisely what line they would take about an eventual summit session.

PARIS — Premier Charles de Gaulle issued a statement saying he welcomed the Soviet offers of a summit conference but felt Khrushchev's undiplomatic tone in making the offer was an obstacle. Information Minister Jacques Soustelle said such talks must be held in an atmosphere of objectivity and serenity and the tone used by Khrushchev stood in the way of that.

WASHINGTON —White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said consultations among the Allies have started and a U.S. draft reply is in the hands of the other major powers. Until these consultations end, Hagerty said, he would have nothing to say about a summit meeting. He said he did not expect the U.S. answer could be sent to Moscow Monday.

Diplomats here said it was evident that war fears generated by the U. S. and British troop landings in the Middle East had created a receptive attitude for the shrewdly conceived summit proposal which Khrushchev made.

The Soviet premier asked for a five-power meeting, including India, in Geneva on Tuesday to resolve the crisis and save world peace.

Administrative leaders took the view that it was essentially a propaganda maneuver — such an early meeting being out of the question — but they ruefully admitted that it was a maneuver of such force and imagination as Washington has not been able to produce during this crisis. So far the West has been losing the public opinion battle in much of the world.

Khrushchev appeared to be vulnerable to counter attack on only one point. He proposed to bypass the United Nations.

Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd agreed they would use the U.N. approach for a counter-proposal and suggest the possibility of a high level meeting of the Security Council.

The U.S. Draft, Hagerty said, was sent to the other nations Monday night through their ambassadors.

Jordan Moves To Sever Tie With Nasser

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Jordan widened the breach with President Nasser today, breaking diplomatic relations with his United Arab Republic.

King Hussein's desert state got 12½ million dollars in cash while more U.S. troops poured into neighboring Lebanon.

The American aid to Jordan so far did not include troops. It came as oil-rich Kuwait and Saudi Arabia stood on the edge of the Middle East whirlpool and Nasser continued working to consolidate his gains.

The U.A.R. chief returned to Cairo today after a bustling three-week round of diplomatic talks that took him to Yugoslavia, the Soviet Union and Syria.

Some 1,400 more American troops landed in Beirut, bringing the total in Lebanon to about 9,400. The new arrivals brought in the first heavy artillery as well as cooks, supply and maintenance men that indicated the United States might be getting ready for a long stay.

The troops were troubled by minor harassment but there were no casualties. Pro-Nasser rebel snipers took potshots at U.S. Marines guarding strategic spots in Beirut and the Marines fired back. The rebels also aimed small arms fire at planes. A soda bottle filled with gasoline and rigged with a timing device was left with one Marine unit and exploded, but no one was hurt.

"Our biggest problem at the moment is keeping out Lebanese kids who want to steal the troops' soft drinks," said an Army spokesman.

Robert Murphy, U.S. deputy undersecretary of state sent by President Eisenhower to help work out a political solution to the Lebanese crisis, called on Paul Mounchi, pro-rebel patriarch of the Maronite Christian Church.

Moscow Lists Treaty Plan

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today made public its latest proposals for a nonaggression treaty between the North Atlantic Alliance and the Soviet bloc's Warsaw Pact group. Basically there was little new.

The recommendations included reduction of foreign troops in Germany, a nuclear-free zone in central Europe and aerial surveys in central Europe to prevent surprise attacks. The new version of the proposals was contained in notes delivered to the big-power Western ambassadors in Moscow last Tuesday.

The Soviets proposed all foreign troops in Germany be cut one-third, or "another agreed fraction." The nuclear-free zone would cover "the immediate vicinity of a line dividing the military groupings in Europe." Keeping out atomic weapons would depend only on the promises of those who signed the treaty.

Ross Dollarhide Headlines Champion Entrants In Klamath Basin Roundup

Former world's champion steer wrestler Ross Dollarhide, Grants Pass, and Harley May, Oakdale, California, will headline the field of top cowboy contestants who will be coming to Klamath Falls this week to compete in the annual Klamath Basin Roundup.

May, world's best bulldogger in 1956, and Dollarhide, who took the title in 1953, will not only be facing each other, but a number of other star wrestlers in this year's event.

These include Sherman Sullins, runnerup for the 1957 championship from Oakdale, California; Lawson Fore, Riverside, California, who won the event at last year's Klamath Basin Roundup; Barney Willis, Visalia, California, who also finished in contention for the championship in 1957; and Gene Miles of Portland, who is making a name for himself this year and currently occupies seventh place on the bulldogging roster.

Sullins last season won the steer wrestling at three of the nation's largest rodeos, taking top money of $1,074 in the event at the California Rodeo in Salinas in July, winning the world's biggest steer wrestling day money, $1,958 at the one-day Sheriff's Rodeo in the Los Angeles Coliseum in August, and pocketing the winner's share of the world's largest rodeo purse at Madison Square Garden in New York in October.

Sullins, who also began this season with a bang by winning the
