NABLUS, Jordan (AP)—Gama Abdel Nasser proclaimed himself a man of peace yesterday—and virtually called for the assassination of King Hussein of Jordan. It is the first time Nasser personally has suggested assassination for the Jordanian King, although his "Voice of the Arabs" propaganda radio station has done so often.

The President of the United Arab Republic, in his annual Egyptian Independence Day speech, called expressly on the people of Jerusalem, Nablus and Ramallah — the main Palestinian towns in Jordan — to heed his words.

Nasser pointedly referred to the late King Abdullah, Hussein's grandfather, and to the year 1951 in which Abdullah was assassinated by Arab Palestinians. He accused Hussein of following in his grandfather's footsteps by calling on Britain for aid.

Nasser's suggestion, however indirect, could not possibly be lost on his hearers—Hussein is in line for his grandfather's fate.

"We call for peace and we make every effort to strengthen this peace," said Nasser. But there was no hint of compromise in his assertion that "the British armed aggression against Jordan will be defeated — the American armed aggression against Lebanon will be defeated."

Should Nasser call now for discussions on the Lebanese and other Middle East problems, the West might be justified in considering he is seeking only breathing space in which to prepare for his next assault.

There are already signs that the crisis is getting deeper. Nablus and other cities in the Palestine sector of Jordan are patently nervous. There are numerous check points on the road from Amman, and so far government security forces seem to have Americans out of Lebanon, then pushing that country into his so-called "liberated Arab" bloc. The tone of his speech gave the impression he does not want to bite off too much at one time. He still must digest the situation in Iraq and still must deal with the situation he created in Lebanon which brought American intervention. It begins to look as if it will be a long time before the Americans and British can withdraw troops from the Middle East. The withdrawal might be a signal for a new Nasser assault.

LaPointe's YOUNG SHOP IT'S A WONDERFUL STORE

23 Years Ago

Monday, July 22, 1935—The American Legion drum corps members won the championship of something or other when they defeated the city dats in a donkey baseball festival Sunday evening. Features of the game were the stellar pitching of Mayor Willis Mahoney, the buckaroo antics of First Baseman Lloyd Low, and the sacrifice plays of Fielder Carl Cook.

Tuesday, July 23, 1935—Miss Charlotte Wright, teacher at Mills School, is spending her vacation in Southern California, where she is visiting relatives. She spent some time at Oregon City visiting a brother before going south.

Wednesday, July 24, 1935—Officers Fred Olin and Lloyd O. Smith have returned from their vacations and are back at their posts on the local police force. Smith visited his mother in Washington and Olin attended the national guard encampment at Fox Stevens and spent a week in Portland.

Thursday, July 25, 1935—County Roadmaster Guy Merrill filed a report on road work progress with the county court Wednesday. He cited completion of the Eldorado extension, which connects Hot Springs district with the Dalles-California highway. Merrill reminded that the county must fence the right-of-way for the Weed-Klamath cut-off.

Friday, July 26, 1935—J. W. Kerns left Wednesday for Diamond Lake, where he will join his family at their summer home, and spend the week end.

Saturday, July 27, 1935—A pair of peacocks recently donated to the park by Mrs. Rufus Moore, have disappeared from Moore Park, and members of the park board fear for their safety. Anyone seeing the peacocks is asked to notify any member of the city park board.
