

RICH, GLOWING COLORS of Dutch tapestries highlight the extraordinary window display at Your Store, 721 Main Street, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wayburn. The line displayed is new and is imported from Holland. Complementary notes are the reproductions of Flemish masters used for accent in the arrangement.

SOFT fruit candies, Finlandia Sweets, are reminiscent of Christmas candies. They look like fruit drops but are of jellied consistency with apple pulp as the base. Molded in little fruit molds and colored appropriately, the item definitely falls into the gift classification. More and more popular are gifts of things to eat. The manufacturer is Karl Frazer, Inc., Helsinki, Finland.

DUTCH IMPORTS INTRODUCED BY YOUR STORE

Main Street in Klamath Falls is a wonderful place. The windows are a market place in themselves. A trip up one side of the street and down the other is also an educational experience.

Pause on your next trip to admire the wonderful effect achieved by Mrs. Lewis Wayburn of Your Store, 721 Main Street. Your Store has received its first shipment of a line of imports from Holland and representative pieces are on display in the big window. A Brussels loomed rug of gray with flower design provides the floor background. A huge Dutch tapestry is flanked by reproductions of Flemish masters for an accent note. In the foreground are examples of Royal Delft pottery, wooden shoes, two delicate windmill lamps and several small dolls made in Holland.

Food always enters into the gift list and Your Store features Finlandia Sweets and Parfaits imported from Helsinki, Finland, which tie in with the Scandinavian theme. The dainty demi-tasse candies are conversation pieces in themselves. The Parfaits feature brightly coated tiny chocolate mints and "coffee beans" of nibbling size. An immediate reaction to the selection of candies is that they are not so sweet as to be cloying and that they have a decided individuality of their own.

Wax Adds Luster To Your Leather

Luggage can tell a lot about its owner.

Does your speak well of you? It doesn't have to be expensive or new, but when it is neat it helps give a good impression.

Johnson's Consumer Service suggests an easy way to keep up the new look of suitcases, handbags, golf bags and other leather goods. Simply use wax. A gentle rubbing with paste wax prevents the leather from drying out and becoming soiled and worn. Wax also keeps metal parts from tarnishing and helps resist corrosion.

REMODELING

If you have squares of tile or pieces of linoleum left over after laying new floor covering, use them instead of throwing them away. Two squares of cork tile glued together make a dandy rest for your iron. Fit leftover linoleum onto your cupboard shelves where you keep your pots and pans. The utensils not only slide over the smooth surface easily but the shelves are so easy to wipe clean.

IMPORTED candies from Finland are packaged in their own gift container and might be combined with a Royal Delft pottery plate from Holland for an unusual and welcome gift for any occasion from birthdays to wedding showers and Christmas. The tiny coffee beans are filled with a tantalizingly different liqueur, coffee flavored and wholly delightful. The bright colored wafers have minted chocolate centers. Serve for "coffee," teas, at luncheons or card parties or for a bridge party prize.

TOMATOES

Ripe tomatoes are in season and in good supply locally. Why not seald enough for two meals at one time and put the ones you aren't using immediately back into the refrigerator, unpeeled? Saves time for tomorrow's lunch or dinner.

YUMMY

Combine a package of vanilla pudding and pie mix with 1 tablespoon instant coffee and cook according to package directions. Cool. Fold in 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped, and 1/2 cup slivered, roasted almonds.

THIS IS "The Angelique Look," designer Oleg Cassini's answer to the sack and chemise, which he maintains are already out of date. Pale green Chantilly lace over fitted ice blue satin gives the gown illustrated here a look of luxurious femininity, heightened by a softly flowing effect achieved with the over-panel of lace. Inspired by Angelique perfumes, it reiterates the designer's principle that women should always be at their loveliest.

New Look For Fall

It's "The Angelique Look" for fall—a look that top designer Oleg Cassini calls "the answer to the sack look, which is dead."

Inspired by Angelique perfumes, "The Angelique Look" proposes the appealing concept that every woman can embrace her femininity by melding fragrance with fashion.

The Angelique silhouette follows body contours with relaxed but supple construction from shoulder to hemline. The whole feeling is one of slowness, softly rounded and universally flattering. Fabrics carry out the ultra-feminine look of the Angelique silhouette with subtle use of lace over satin, tulle net over crepe, or chiffon over organza. Miniature collar-capes of lace and chiffon give the gowns a look of "floating luxury."

Two other main silhouettes are featured in Mr. Cassini's new fall collection: The dagger and the anjora. The former follows the basic curve of a dagger, with the bosom and hip gently outlined; the anjora, shaped like a violin, is found in many of the designer's street wools; a front inset panel narrows the skirt in a smooth curve that ends just below the knees.

Obviously, fall fashion emphasis is on femininity—from the elegantly casual ensembles being created to complement this new "Angelique Look" to the significance of Angelique fragrances for completing every costume.
