

In The Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

What's the big news today? As this is written, there is none — for which let us be duly thankful.

The BIG news is apt to be BAD news.

Needle-in-haystack note:

Search planes and ships are making a final sweep of the South Atlantic today for a tiny mouse and the rocket nose cone that carried the mouse through space and (presumably) carried it back again.

Imagine, if you can, the VAST expanse of the South Atlantic ocean. Then imagine an object about the size and shape of the cylinders in which liquid gas is delivered to the customer.

Then TRY to imagine the task of finding an object of that size in an area of that almost unimaginable magnitude. By comparison, finding the needle in the haystack would be easy.

Why is finding this object so important?

It's like this: It is relatively easy to shoot an object (say a missile) beyond the earth's atmosphere. It is quite difficult to bring it back to earth again because at the high speeds at which it will return (because of the pull of gravity) the friction of the air will burn it up unless an unburnable material can be found.

Conclusion:

We're seeking an unburnable material. In such a search, experiments are necessary. We're doing the experimenting. If we don't find such a material, maybe the Russians will. That would give them a big advantage in missile warfare.

What of the mouse? The mouse was put in to give us an idea as to whether it will be possible someday to send a human being out into space and bring him back again safe and sound.

Why do we want to do that?

Well, why did Columbus sail off into the then dreaded and AWFUL space beyond the horizon of the Western ocean?

The answer: He wanted to find out whether human beings could do it and COME BACK. The only way to find out was to TRY. Human beings are strange animals, aren't they?

More about human beings:

The teletype report this morning contains this terse item: "Russia's greatest soccer star—Eduard Streltsov—will no longer lead his team to victory. The paths of glory led him today to a 12-year prison sentence for ASSAULT AND HOLOGRAPHISM."

What happened?

The answer is simple. Some people can take success in stride. Some can't. It goes to their heads and ruins them. They think they're so big they can do anything and get away with it. Streltsov was one of this tribe. It's at least interesting to know that Russians act that way too. They AREN'T supermen. They're just human beings.

Lakeview Mine Picketed In Union Naming Dispute

By JO DEELY

LAKEVIEW—Development work at the White King mine, property of the Lakeview Mining Company, had virtually come to a stop today because of a picket line established by members of the United Mine Workers, District 50, Local 14195. Mine officials said approximately one and three-quarters million dollars worth of development work is to be done before the mine goes into operational status.

Construction work at the uranium reduction mill has continued since the strike was called on Sunday, July 20. The mill is expected to cost approximately three million dollars, according to James Poulos, local manager for Lakeview Mining Company for Thornburg Brothers of Colorado Springs, owners.

Andrew J. Bananto, field representative for District 50, United Mine Workers of America, and Edwin S. Grier, president of the local at Lakeview, said the local had received its charter from UNWA headquarters at Washington, D.C., last week. The union sought recognition as bargaining agent for the mine workers at the White King operation.

Lakeview Mining Company officials stated that establishing bargaining relationship for their present employees, who are working on a temporary basis, would be unfair to future permanent mine employees who would be bound by this agreement without the opportunity of vote in the matter.

Members of the United Mine Workers local voted last Sunday to strike and only 20 of the 84 mine employees showed up for work on July 21.

The mining company, through its attorneys Ted Conn and Richard Maxwell, petitioned the Lake County circuit court for an order restraining the union from picketing the work and any members of the company officials state their pay rates are in line or above wages paid at other operations, including the Coeur d'Alene, Idaho mining operations.

Hope Fading For Locating Space Mouse

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Specially equipped ships and planes continued searching the Atlantic today but hope dimmed that the space mouse would be recovered inside a nose cone after an intercontinental range flight.

The tiny white mouse was enclosed in the nose cone of a Thor-Able rocket that streaked 6,000 miles through space Wednesday. The recovery unit resumed the search in the south Atlantic near Ascension Island, but Air Force officials said today's effort probably would be the last attempt to find the nose cone.

The hunt was called off temporarily last night when darkness closed in and the searchers failed to receive signals from a beacon transmitter inside the nose cone recovery package.

It was not known immediately how serious the radio trouble was.

Fire Danger Today MODERATE

Fires will start from lighted match and spread in light fuels until extinguished.

Navy Probing Sea Mystery

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Navy investigators today probed the mysterious disappearance at sea of Rear Adm. Lynne C. Quiggle, 52, who was en route from the Far East to a new post in San Diego.

The captain of the ship on which Quiggle was a passenger said he apparently committed suicide by jumping overboard about 800 miles off San Francisco. Investigating officers from 12th Naval District headquarters here went aboard the liner President Cleveland when the ship docked here Thursday.

Commodore H. J. Eham, captain of the vessel, said Quiggle's disappearance, early Tuesday morning "had to be by design, rather than accidental." He said the sea was calm and no one could have fallen overboard.

Fellow passengers said Quiggle had been acting peculiarly. One, Gloria Steiner, 24, of Washington, D.C., said a ship officer told her Quiggle was heard to say to his wife: "You are better off as a widow."

Russia Smear War Viewed

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Foreign Affairs Committee members today were reported convinced that the Soviets will try to use a U.N. summit meeting as a propaganda sounding board.

They oppose President Eisenhower's attending under such circumstances. Chairman Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa.) said Asst. Secretary of State William Macomber was given this advice during a secret briefing on the Middle East crisis late yesterday.

15 To Vie In Beauty Finals

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Fifteen beauties match curves and personalities tonight for the title of the world's most beautiful woman and the Miss Universe crown.

The field of the pageant was trimmed to 15 Thursday night by an international panel of judges before 4,000 persons jammed in the Municipal Auditorium. Eurylyne Howell, blonde, blue-eyed Miss United States, made the finals and will represent her country in tonight's judging.

NEW JOB

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—The man whose Army-backed coup failed to overthrow the Venezuelan government was on his way to a new job Friday. He is ousted Defense Minister Jesus Maria Castro Leon. His new job for the Venezuelan government is chief of the delegation before the Inter-American Defense Council in Washington.

Reb Statement Dims Hope For Early End Of Crisis

BEIRUT (AP)—Rebel leader, Saeb Salam said Friday the rebels will not permit presidential elections to be held as long as President Camille Chamoun is in Lebanon.

"There will not be any election next week," Salam said. His statement dealt a heavy blow to hopes for an early settlement of the Lebanese crisis. Parliament is scheduled to meet Thursday to elect a successor to Chamoun.

"The Lebanese revolution will not permit the holding of any presidential election in the shadow of tanks, planes and fleets of foreign troops," Salam told newsmen.

House Chiefs Crack Down On Vast Debt

WASHINGTON (AP)—House leaders, faced with an immediate rise in the national debt ceiling, are cracking down on deficit financing of legislative programs which add to the government's already vast debt.

First result of the crackdown has been the sidetracking by the House Rules Committee of a bill calling for a two-billion-dollar community public works loan program to be financed out of Treasury borrowings.

The practice, commonly followed to finance programs calling for federal loans, bypasses the House Appropriations Committee. Instead of voting direct appropriations, Congress authorizes the federal agency concerned to borrow the necessary funds from the Treasury. The Treasury in turn must borrow the money, thereby increasing the public debt.

Concern over this form of public-debt financing has been heightened by word that Secretary of the Treasury Anderson is due to come before Congress Monday to request another hike in the debt ceiling.

The legal debt limit, already raised temporarily to 280 billion dollars, would go up to 288 billion if the Treasury's request is granted.

The all-time high was a ceiling of 300 billion dollars in the latter part of World War II.

July Shasta Rain Record

MOUNT SHASTA — The Mount Shasta Weather Bureau reports record breaking rain for the month of July with a total of 1.63 inches to date. The previous high was in 1948 and totalled 1.46 inches. Average rainfall for July in Mount Shasta is 17 inches.

The five day forecast is for more rain every day.

Severe electrical storms and rain have caused a slow-down in the construction of the Mt. Shasta chair lift.

Chief Proposes Council Prepare Meeting Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is expected to ask Soviet Premier Khrushchev today that the proposed summit meeting on the Middle East crisis must be conducted entirely within the framework of the U.N. Security Council.

This reportedly would include having the U.N. body set the time and ground rules for such a meeting, and decide which outsiders should be invited.

Officials here said there probably would have to be a few private talks among heads of government during the prospective summit gathering. But Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles were represented as determined to hold such sessions to a minimum.

A note setting forth U.S. government views was completed by Eisenhower and Dulles and sent to Paris and London for consultation. Possible differing views among the Big Three could cause some delay, but indications were that the note would be delivered in Moscow today.

Some authorities here reported that the President believes it should be up to the Security Council through its regular machinery at U.N. headquarters in New York to arrange the proposed extraordinary session of heads of government of the 11 member nations and to set the date.

Khrushchev had proposed a start Monday, but that is now obviously impossible. Some question remained whether French Premier Charles de Gaulle will be willing to attend at all, although dispatches from Paris indicated that he probably would.

Secretary of State Dulles, meanwhile, held his plan to take off for Bonn, Germany, tonight on a schedule that calls for his absence from Washington until Tuesday.

Dulles will confer with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn for several hours tomorrow afternoon and go on to London tomorrow.

Appropriation Bills Finished In The House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Except for some minor odds and ends and some compromises to be worked out with the Senate, the House today closed the book on appropriation bills for 1958.

Based on House action alone where final passage has not been completed, the prospect is for total appropriations of about 70 billion dollars for the year. But later Senate actions could raise that total substantially, especially for defense and foreign aid.

The 70 billion figure would represent a cut of about $1,600,000,000 from President Eisenhower's request for $71,539,831,539 in new money. Last year Congress cut nearly five billions from Eisenhower's requests.

On the basis of their record this year, members of the House and Senate aren't likely to emphasize any claims of economy in this year's election campaigns.

The last of 20 regular, supplemental and deficiency bills sailed through the House yesterday by voice vote and went to the Senate. It allocates $1,218,815,000 for construction programs for the Army, the Navy and the Air Force at home and abroad. This is 511 million dollars less than the President requested, with the Senate still to act.

The Senate Appropriations Committee voted to add $1,600,000,000 to funds the House already has voted for defense, with most of the extra money for more air power.

Klamath Basin Roundup Underway This Evening

By LAMAR HOOVER

With 110 cowboys entered in six major events, the Klamath Basin Roundup gets started this evening at 7:30 at the fairgrounds.

A rodeo which numbers among its entrants such stars as Alvin Nelson, George Menkenmaier, Dale Smith, Ross Dollarhide and Vern Castro is sure to be a lively affair, and there are some less well known names among those coming, whose recent performances seem to indicate that they may be among the stars of the future.

Take, for example, Ted Ashworth, from Knightsen, California, who recently came up out of nowhere to take fourth place in the current team roping championships. He's only 12 points behind Gene Rambo and Jim Rodriguez Jr., who are tied for second.

Then there's Leonard Block, of Denair, California, who won the calf roping at last weekend's Salinas Rodeo, tying his four calves in a total time of 76.6 seconds to win $1,672. His coming gives the local calf roping contest increased importance. Dale Smith, who is in eighth place, is one he'll be competing against.

Alvin Nelson, whose coming we announced a few days ago in connection with the saddle bronc competition, will also be taking part in the bareback riding. He is in 10th place thus far this season, despite being in the Army. Among his rivals will be Jay T. Smith, of Jona, Idaho, who is currently in fifth place. There'll also be the perennial Sonny Tureman of John Day, who was the world's champion in this category 10 years ago, and who has since copped a third place in 1951, and a fourth in 1953.

Others to watch include Frank Ferreira, Bub Gatzman, Bob G. Jones and Everett Muzio, in team roping; Gene Miles, Sherman Sullins and Barney Willis, in steer wrestling; Enoch Walker, Bill Ward and Jackie Wright, in saddle bronc; and Bob Maynard, Buddy Peak and Joel Sublette, in bull riding.

Two outstanding clowns will handle the bulls and the "bull" in the arena: Slim Pickens and Billy Keen. Special features will include performances by Gene Sessler and his Australian sheep dogs, and the appearance of "War Paint," the world's champion bucking bronc. Sixteen persons have entered the cutting horse contest.

Tomorrow's performance will also begin at 7:30 p.m., and the roundup will begin Sunday at 1:30. In connection with the rodeo, a Roundup Dance will take place at the Old Armory Saturday night from 10 to 2, featuring Lefty Friezzell, Freddie Hart, Little David, and Hursabel Clothier and his Oklahoma Travelers.

There will also be a fly-in breakfast at the airport on Sunday morning.

Queen of the celebration will be Hazel DeLaater who was elected last year. All former queens have been asked to get in touch with the Roundup headquarters, so that they may be guests at all of this year's Roundup events.

The Roundup headquarters are located in the Willard Hotel, telephone TU 2-3991.

ONE OF THE TOP HANDS in rodeo for a long time has been Ross Dollarhide of Lakeview, shown here doing a bit of bulldogging in Redding. Ross is a triple threat man who currently occupies 10th place in the team roping championship standings and who is also a sharp man on a bronc. He is one of a number of top stars signed up for the three-day Klamath Basin Roundup which starts tonight.
