Olympic Champion To Quit Competition

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Tom Courtney, Olympic champion and world record holder, said today he's retiring from track competition. "There's no doubt in my mind this is my last season," the former Fordham ace said as he joined with his American teammates in the first of the two-day meet against Poland's best men and women runners and jumpers. "I just can't get excited about running anymore," he said. "When that happens I figure it is time to quit. I would like another try at the 800-meter record, though."

Courtney naturally, is favored in the 800 as are the American men in the meet. The men figure to outscore the Poles by about 25 points even though Parry O'Brien, world champion shot putter, is not up to par physically. The American women, who showed great strength against the Russians at Moscow last Sunday and Monday, rate a strong chance to turn back the Polish women but their dual meet should be close.

Courtney had hoped to return to his Livingston, N. J. home after the meet against Russia. "There is a job waiting for me soon as I get back but I'm afraid I can't take it now," he said. "My final year at Harvard Business School begins in September and I am looking forward to some on-the-job experience before returning."

Bob Richards Blasts U.S. Indifference

By JACK CUDDY
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. Bob Richards, just back from Russia, today blasted American indifference toward track and field athletics. Richards, two-time Olympic pole vaulting champion, stressed, however, that his criticisms were not caused by Russia's victory over the United States, 172-170, at Moscow this week.

"We should have won that first U. S. - Russia dual meet," he said, "in spite of their combining the men's and women's scoring and injecting a women's half-mile run, and other things." Furthermore, he flatly predicted an American triumph in the second U. S. - Russia games, slated for Philadelphia, July 10 and 11, 1959.

U. S. AT ADVANTAGE

Richards, who went to Moscow as an observer, and not as a competitor, said his irritation was caused largely by America's "naive failure" to appreciate the propaganda value of triumphs in this type of international competition. "If our communities supported track and field athletics properly," he declared, "it shouldn't be just a question of whether we could beat Russia, but by how great a margin. "We've had the greater experience. We have great potential talent. And we are positive that our system of individual motivation in athletics — as in other fields — is superior to that of regimentation."

DEPEND ON COLLEGES

Richards, of La Verne, Calif., a minister in the Church of the Brethren, urged that American communities do the following: —Keep the school gymnasiums and fields open during the summer vacation periods for youngsters, boys and girls, to practice there. —Convince the so-called "athletic clubs" in our various cities that they should resume the support of track and field athletes. Instead of continuing to degenerate into mere "poker clubs or places for drunks to be boiled out and rubbed down." —Stimulate greater interest in women's track and field by convincing the girls that athletic prowess can enhance their beauty rather than diminish it. "We'll always produce outstanding athletes—but not enough of them," Richards said. "We depend about 80 per cent on our colleges for producing international competitors. And less than 10 per cent of college students participate in track and field."

Sports Bill Irks Kefauver

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Time was running out on the House-approved sports bill today. Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) of the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee scheduled a meeting to decide what action to take on it in the wake of hearings which ended Thursday. There was a chance the subcommittee would decide to blow the whistle on the drive to give anti-trust immunity to team sports. Kefauver said bluntly, "I am not satisfied with the House-passed bill."

The dissatisfaction of other members of the subcommittee is well known. Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) has called it a "blank check... an owner's bill," and Sen. John A. Carroll (D-Colo.) has criticized some of its features. But the major threat to the bill, and its exemption for many phases of team sports from the anti-trust laws, was the clock—the congressional adjournment pitch which was beginning to run to fever. Kefauver said the subcommittee — if it decides to go ahead with the bill — could perhaps secure passage of a version by mid-August. Any earlier congressional adjournment would catch the sports bill, he said.

Redlegs Attempt Cooling Fans

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Redlegs, who have tried such innovations as vest-type uniforms and air-conditioned caps, are now making an attempt to cool the paying customers, too. Sometime before the end of the season, the club announced today, it will install six large fans in the area behind home plate in an air circulation test. If the experiment is successful, the club said, it will install enough fans to cool the entire grandstand area.

The increase in postal rates today again points up a comparative yardstick to inexpensive, effective newspaper advertising. (Post cards became 3c)

To send a "penny" post card to each of the 14,000 families who are paid subscribers of the Herald and News would cost $420.00 in postage alone.

A Herald and News ad of slightly larger size, 3 columns by 3 1/2 inches, would cost only $11.50. In fact the price drops to $9.87 for repeat insertions.

A full 93 per cent of our newspapers are delivered by carriers, the same day, to the subscriber's door or box.
