

Recession Recovery Not Over, But Recovery Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—Is the recession over? Not yet, by a good many months.

But the recovery definitely is in prospect, government economists believe, and so far it has been stronger and clearer than they had expected.

One White House adviser now expects total national output to regain its prerecession rate—about 44½ billion dollars a year—around the turn of the year.

Some others, it should be noted, foresee a slower climb. But there is a growing disposition to believe the recession will be over this winter or next spring, in the sense that the business barometers by then will be back to last summer's historic peaks.

Even that will not mean a full employment economy. At least a year and a half of economic growth will have been lost—the growth that is necessary to absorb the steady increase in the size of the labor force.

Also, productivity, or the rate of output per man, will have risen so that fewer workers will be needed to produce the same volume of goods and services.

For both those reasons unemployment is expected to remain high for some time after business activity begins to establish new records.

"It's possible we'll see full employment again by the middle of 1959, or perhaps by the third quarter," said one top administration adviser privately.

It is conceded that all forecasts may have to be revised if the United States becomes more deeply involved in military operations in the Middle East. But barring a shooting war, the rate of military buildup is not expected to accelerate sharply.

Some metal prices have risen, but the general reaction to the Middle East crisis has been one of calm and restraint.

The business upturn has been stronger than almost any government official had been predicting. "Even the optimists have been surprised at the actual rate of pick-up," one ranking economist said.

Many had expected July to provide a major test. It is traditionally a month of "hull" and, in some industries, of mass vacations.

Though most of the July statistics are not yet in, it already is obvious that there was little if any letdown.

April apparently was the bottom month of the recession, and the rebound in May and June was robust; business has been recovering even more rapidly than it slumped earlier in the year.

However, a relapse would not be surprising. In the two previous postwar recessions, especially that of 1949, there were brief sags in industrial production, personal income and factory orders after the recovery apparently had begun.

Since the end of World War II the U.S. Army has increased the technical school programs available to recruits to about 150.

Boy Disappears, But Dad Locates Him In Car Trunk

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—A Lynchburg, Va., business man opened the trunk of his car at the end of a 116-mile trip Thursday and was startled to find his 4-year-old son fast asleep on a suitcase.

The youngster apparently had crawled into the trunk and dozed off before his father, Martin Paulson, left home a few hours earlier.

Paulson's wife had noticed her boy was missing and had notified police, who issued a statewide alarm. But by the time the authorities caught up with Paulson he had found his son.

Bumper Sign Said Tipoff

OKMULGEE, Okla. (UPI)—With a flair for the unusual, three bogus check passers from Tulsa, Okla., rode through Arkansas and Oklahoma this week in a car equipped with an eyecatcher. Now, they wish they hadn't.

Merion Earl Forster, 20, Alfred Earl Foster, 20, and Clarence Lorenzo Turner, 23, outwitted service station attendants in Ft. Smith, Ark., and three Oklahoma cities — Bartlesville, Okmulgee and Tulsa.

They succeeded in cashing phony checks totaling $700. But two of their victims remembered the eyecatcher.

They told authorities about a sign on the back of the check passers' car.

It read: "If you can read this, you're too damn close."

And police were — close enough to nab them.

Red Boss Places Love Tale Order

BERLIN (UPI)—East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht has ordered Soviet Zone authors to write socialist love stories to keep youth from reading Western "trash," it was disclosed today.

In a speech to Communist youth leaders, Ulbricht complained East German boys and girls are reading too many Western novels. Conceding that "girls want love stories," he urged Communist authors to deal with the matter and not leave it to the "trash manufacturers."

The postponement of the launching yesterday followed in the wake of an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile scrub earlier in the week.

The Air Force said both missiles would be rescheduled for firing at an early date.

The last launchings of both the Thor and the Atlas ended abruptly with blowups shortly after take-off.

The Thor, a 65-foot war weapon developed by Douglas Air Co., is expected to be operational by December. The first units will be assigned to the Royal Air Force in England.

Missile Shot Test Slowed

Train Derails, Injuring 53

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A speeding cross-country streamliner suddenly began to rock and sway in a matter of moments 11 cars careened off the rails, injuring 53 of its 497 passengers.

The last six cars of the Milwaukee Road Olympian Hiawatha whiplashed off the tracks and slid down a 20-foot embankment as the train raced into southern Milwaukee County at 90 miles an hour.

About 1,000 feet ahead, the diesel-powered engine ground to a stop, five more cars tilling off the rails. All the cars remained upright.

Head brakeman E. C. Holden, 34, said, "The train just started to shake. The 13th car went into the ditch and everything followed. The rest of the train just wriggled and bumped along."

A small fire started in one of the derailed cars but was put out quickly as emergency vehicles from six communities converged on the wreck scene in the quiet farm countryside.

Fifteen ambulances conveyed the injured to four hospitals. Authorities said most of the injuries were minor.

The four-unit diesel and remaining cars went on to Milwaukee, where six more cars were added to provide accommodations for the uninjured. The train was bound from Chicago to Seattle, Wash.

The cause of the wreck was undetermined.

Dominicans Down Plane

NEW YORK (AP)—A U. S. Navy transport plane was reported forced down yesterday by fighters of the Dominican Republic's air force. The plane was released after being searched and held for an hour in Santiago, on the north coast of the Dominican Republic.

The Dominicans were reported looking for smuggled arms but there was no immediate explanation why they went after a clearly marked U. S. military plane.

Ray Carnay of radio station KIOA in Des Moines, Iowa, telephoned the news from the U. S. Navy base at Guantanamo, Cuba, after the plane's return. He gave this account:

The plane, a twin-engine Albatross carrying a crew of five, was returning to Guantanamo after delivering a Navy athletic team to San Juan, P. R.

Near Santiago it was intercepted by three F31s of the Dominican air force and forced to land at Santiago. It was kept there for about an hour, then allowed to proceed on to Cuba. None of the five crewmen were harmed and nothing was taken.

Naval authorities at Guantanamo base had no immediate comment on the incident but indicated a statement would be issued later today.

FIRST SHIP ARRIVES LONDON (UPI)—Moscow Radio reported today "the first ship flying the flag of the United Arab Republic" has arrived in Leningrad. The ship was identified as the 7,000-ton Al Mokattam and was said to have carried a cargo of cotton to the Soviet Union.

Soldier Dies After Shots, Long Drills Under Hot Sun

FT. JACKSON, S.C. (AP)—The commanding general of this Army infantry base was quoted by a dead recruit's father today as saying that trainees no longer would be given medical shots and then sent out to drill in hot weather.

Hobart L. Brinsmade of Bronxville, N.Y., said his son Hobart Jr., 21, died after being given booster shots for typhoid fever Wednesday and then being made to drill for 3½ hours in the sun.

Young Brinsmade, only two weeks in the Army, played right tackle for Princeton's football team in 1956 and 1957. He stood 6-3 and weighed 230 pounds.

The father said he talked with the Ft. Jackson commander, Brig. Gen. Christian Clarke, about the incident and that he was "most sympathetic."

"The general assured me," Brinsmade said, "that the idea of giving the shots and then sending the boys out to drill right away would be discontinued in hot weather."

Young Brinsmade died last night in the base hospital.

"I don't blame anyone," the father said, "but it does seem funny that this should happen to such a strong boy."

"I hope my son's death puts an end to that crazy Army business of giving a boy booster shots and then having him drill under a hot sun."

Earlier, Clarke issued an order calling for less strenuous drill activity during the hot weather. Temperatures the past few days have hovered near 100 degrees.

Brinsmade, his wife and a daughter rushed to the boy's bedside after they were notified of his collapse. He said the youth never regained consciousness.

David L. Drake of Baltimore, another trainee, also collapsed from the heat Wednesday. He was in serious condition at the hospital.

A base spokesman said that both Brinsmade and Drake collapsed after duty hours.

Hot, Wet Air Storm Cause

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Strike a line from northwest Texas to the mid Atlantic Coast and you have practically a draftsman's drawing of today's storm pattern.

The weather front extended across this vast region and accounted for widespread showers and thunderstorms.

The storms were caused by warm, moist air below this line sliding over cooler air. When this happened, it rained. In some spots — such as western Kansas — it rained hard with falls measured at up to an inch and a half.

In the area from the Ohio Valley eastward to the Atlantic, the rains turned torrential in some places. Indianapolis got 2.86 inches; Columbus, Ohio, 2.18; and Canton 3.77. Providence, R.I., received an inch in the space of an hour, bringing the 24-hour fall to 2.85 inches.

Observers Spot Four Satellites

WINNIPEG (AP)—The Royal Astronomical Society of Winnipeg today claimed another new North American record for artificial satellite sightings—four in one night.

A spokesman for the group said the nose cone of the rocket that boosted Russia's Sputnik III into orbit was spotted on the night of July 29 at 11:45 p. m., 1:02 a. m., 2:46 a. m. and 4:35 a. m.

The old record of three sightings in one night also was held by the local society, which operates the northernmost station reporting satellite paths over the continent. The new mark was submitted to the U. S. Naval Observatory in Washington, which recognized the old one.

World War II GI Goes On Trial For Desertion

VERDUN, France (AP)—Wayne Powers, the timid GI who hid in his French common-law wife's house for 14 years after disappearing during the war, went on trial for desertion before an eight-man military court today.

The trial was half an hour late starting because Yvette Belesue, who sheltered Powers, insisted on giving their five children a good breakfast before bringing them to court as possible witnesses.

The defense attorneys — Lt. James Singleton, Detroit, and Lt. Leon Avakian, Newton, Mass.—expressed belief that Powers would get off with a light sentence. The maximum is death.

The 37-year-old defendant himself said: "If all goes as it should, I hope to be back home in a month or two." Powers is a native of Chillicothe, Mo., but home is Yvette's house in the village of Mont D'Origny, near the Belgian border.

Powers' strange tale started in 1944, when he was 23 and a private first class driving a truck with the Army in France. His truck disappeared and he faced court-martial.

Powers escaped from the Army stockade and went for help and solace to Yvette, whom he had met before. That was the beginning of a bizarre life which continued for 14 years.

They settled down together without marrying. (Powers had a wife in Missouri who later divorced him for desertion.) Yvette went out to work in a textile mill to support their growing family; Powers stayed home to do the housework.

He ventured out only at night. When the doorbell rang, he ran to a cramped hiding place under a stairway with a false step.

The villagers saw almost nothing of Powers but kept close track of each new baby with an English name—Dorothy, Tilly, Douglas, Harry and Freddy.

The neighbors maintained a close-mouthed silence in the presence of outsiders. But Powers was his own undoing last March. Regional gendarmes investigating a traffic accident in front of the house noticed Powers peeping through the front window curtains. They questioned him as the only witness, and his furtive behavior aroused suspicion.

Investigation turned up evidence that he was sought as a deserter. On March 22 he was taken and handed in to a U. S. Army prison.

Powers became a cause celebre in France, which overflows with sympathy for affairs of the heart. After a radio appeal, 100,000 Frenchmen flooded the U. S. Embassy in Paris with letters demanding a lenient judgment for a man who was faithful to one woman if not to the Army.

Why did he do it? Powers said after his arrest: "I was afraid of the result if I turned myself over to the embassy. I was scared for the children. I was waiting for—I don't know exactly what."

"Why don't they leave him alone?" asked Yvette. "He's already served 14 years in prison. He's so frightened, so very frightened."

Doctors Fail To Save Boy

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A youth who received a kidney from his twin brother in a rare operation died last night.

Doctors discovered last year that Leon Masden, 20, of nearby Shepherdsville had diseased kidneys. They gave him only a month or so to live.

There was one chance, however, and the family took it. Leon received a kidney transplant from his twin Leonard at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, in June 1957.

Leon's diseased kidneys later were removed. Physicians said his death was caused by disease in the transplanted kidney.
