

Siskiyou County Names 4-H Dress Revue Winner

YREKA — Lorena Dillman, 16-year-old Etna 4-H Club member, was chosen as the Siskiyou County 4-H Dress Revue winner to participate in the State Dress Revue at the Davis 4-H Convention at the end of August by Dorothy Duncan, 4-H Club specialist from the University of California Agricultural Extension Service, who judged the Siskiyou County 4-H Dress Revue Saturday, July 26, in the new gym at the Yreka High School.

Lorena modeled her blue tweed wool suit made as a part of her 4-H clothing project, which was fashioned with a sheath skirt and a boxy jacket with a stand-up collar.

Shirley Silva of the Big Springs 4-H Club was chosen as alternate for the Davis convention.

Approximately 175 4-H members, leaders, parents and friends attended the annual event and witnessed the 65 4-H clothing project girls model the garments they had fashioned this past year in their 4-H Club work. The girls paraded across the stage to the appropriate music played on the piano by Marilyn Waters of Big Springs. Mrs. Ray Luce of Fort Jones was commentator for the event, and she described each girl's outfit for the benefit of the audience as it was modeled.

Girls who were presented a National 4-H Award dress revue medal which is donated annually by the Simplicity Pattern Company for the ability to choose, make and model clothes and accessories that are appropriate and becoming to them were as follows: Lorena Dillman, Etna 4-H Club; Shirley Silva, Big Springs 4-H Club; Norma Struble, Dorris; Arlene Sears, Grenada; Sandy Holloway, Grenada; Mary Rose Bailey, Butte Valley Club in Macdoel and Sandra Farley, Fort Jones.

Siskiyou 4-H members who participated in the 1958 4-H Dress Revue and the awards they won in their respective classifications were as follows: ABC's of Clothing group: Blue ribbons, Mary Rose Bailey, Macdoel; Linda Finwall, Fort Jones; Valerie Waters and Mildred Miller, both of Big Springs; Kathleen Brister, Table Rock; Paula Clement, Greenhorn and Mildred Solus, Edgewood; Red ribbons (second prize), Carolyn Green and Helen Davis, Fort Jones; Carol Brazier, Greenhorn and Lola Wilson, Edgewood.

Cotton Separates Group: Blue ribbons, Norma Struble, Dorris; Betty King, Fort Jones; Kay Zediker, Big Springs; Minalyn Big-ham, Etna; Kathy Buscombe and Bobbie Bridwell, both of Galle; Ann Rea and Joanne Butler, both of Macdoel; Nancy Lemos, Edgewood; Margaret Callick and Lillian Estep, both of Dunsuir; Red ribbons, Nancy Kellogg, Fort Jones; Gail Fry, Table Rock; Connie Rizzardo, Grenada; Elizabeth Dudley and Beth Bigham, Etna; Sharon Adamec, Dorris; Wanda Wilson, Edgewood; Claudia Diriden, Anna Flannery and Carolyn Cooney, all of Dunsuir.

Congress Faces Historic Decision On Civil Rights

By GEORGE J. MARDER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress is faced in its closing days with an historic decision in a controversy as old as the nation itself: Federal vs. states' rights.

The House recently passed what its supporters termed a bill "to protect states' rights." A drive is underway to get the measure approved in the Senate also.

What about the bill?
Its supporters say it's the greatest piece of legislation this Congress can enact to protect the liberties of the people and the powers of the states.

Its opponents view it with great alarm, saying it can upset state-federal relationships which have been established by more than a century of law and court decision. Two constitutional provisions are involved.

One is the article which makes "the laws of the United States... the supreme law of the land."

The other is the 10th Amendment which reserves to the people and to the states powers not delegated by the constitution to the federal government.

Under those two provisions, there are three broad areas of legislation:

One is the exclusive federal field, such as foreign relations, war, naturalization, making currency.

Another is the exclusive state field. A few examples: Local commerce, police powers to handle civil disturbance, divorce laws, local elections.

A third is a mutual field where neither is excluded and where both may operate so long as there is no conflict. An example might be certain areas of labor law or certain inspection laws for plants and animals. Even regulation of certain utilities.

In this third field, where both can and may work, a policy of so-called "preemption" has evolved.

CONGRATULATIONS

DORRIS — The Butte Valley VFW Auxiliary of Post 5944 received congratulations from Mark Kinsey, director of American Dental board of community service on the auxiliary's winning national recognition for reporting its community service activities. Kinsey also stated that out of 14,500 posts and auxiliaries reporting their community service activities, 405 of them were entered in national competition, and the national board of community service agreed unanimously on the award for the Butte Valley Auxiliary. The record book of the auxiliary will be displayed at the 59th National Convention in New York City.
