Surprise Shower Fetes Mrs. G. Casey At Church Meeting

Mrs. George Casey was pleasantly surprised July 24, at a baby shower given in her honor by members of the First Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Casey are directors of education and music at the church, and the shower was given in the church social room with 38 in attendance.

Mrs. Art Leslie presided during the party hour which concluded the day's activities of the Woman's Missionary Society program in the morning and a luncheon at noon. Knowledge of the shower came to Mrs. Casey through a clever poem written by Mrs. Dale Welch and read at the meeting.

Luncheon arrangements were made by Mrs. Bill Nolen, Mrs. Alice Hershberger and Mrs. Ray Hunsaker.

Immediately following the luncheon, Mrs. Ed Boothby and Mrs. Dale Welch directed the group in two games, with prizes unanimously going to Mr. and Mrs. Casey.

Appropriate decorations were arranged by Mrs. Bill Rowland, Mrs. Speed Kennell, and Mrs. Bill Nolen. Presiding at the gift table were Mrs. Paul Coleman, Mrs. W. D. Kelley, and Mrs. B. M. Austin. Mrs. M. A. S. and Ed Ellis had charge of the nursery.

BRIDAL SHOWER

A cake, decorated and baked by Richard Roberts, Ronald's brother, centered the refreshment table which also used summer flowers for decorations. Florence Horn, Virginia Thomas, Bonnie Watson, Bessie Frazer, Lila O'Connor, Esther Brown and Donna Gift were hostesses for the affair with 45 guests in attendance.

Fair Slates New Projects

TULELAKE—Two improvement projects at the Tulelake-Blatte Valley Fair are under way this week. Work on both to be completed by fair time, September 8, 6, 7.

Four poles will hold 12 lights each of 1,500 watt power. The lighting will provide for night athletic events at other times than during the fair.

The flat race track will be fenced with standard racing track rail and will be used this year principally for amateur events.

Concrete roadways throughout the fairgrounds are being poured this week by the Clements Construction Company of Tulelake and Fremont, California. Cost of this work will be $30,000.

William Whitaker, fair manager and secretary said today that premium books will be in the mail this week. Prospects are for full buildings in all departments this year.

Four Scientists Quest Secrets Of Longer Life

By DELOS SMITH UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seeking nature secrets which could give people longer lives, four scientists worked directly with a key part, and no others. They were working with 941 main heart arteries which had been removed from as many bodies.

The first question to be answered was which arteries among the 941 were the most extensively "hardened," since "hardened arteries" are one of the chief reasons why people don't live longer than they do. To get that answer was largely a matter of sorting arteries.

But comparing the most hardened with the least hardened arteries gave no clues to why one set should be more "hardened" than the other set. This second question was the payoff one and the scientists, of course, would have liked for the arteries themselves to provide the answer.

Not getting it there, they did the next best thing. They checked comparatively on where the arteries had come from. The most "hardened" had come from the bodies of persons who had lived in New Orleans. The least hardened ones belonged to Guatemalan Indians.

Now, there's a riddle for you, or is it?

The scientists didn't think so. The New Orleans arteries, in common with most American arteries, had been subjected in life to diets with an approximate 40 per cent fat content. Guatemalan Indians have comparatively little fat in their diet.

The scientists felt this added another item to the circumstantial case that relatively high fat diets keep the cholesterol and other fat levels of the blood high, which "hardens" arteries, and in the end shortens lives. This case is accepted as proved by some scientists but still is regarded with suspicion by others.

The detached arteries investigation was a unique one in the efforts of science to find the real reasons for "hardened arteries," whatever they are, and so get new knowledge with which to prolong life. They were detached from the bodies of persons who had died in general hospitals in New Orleans, Guatemala City, and San Jose, Costa Rica, at all ages from one to over 80.

Obviously there are more differences between New Orleans whites and Guatemalan Indians than just the states of arteries and the kinds of diet. Among them are distinct racial differences, and racial ancestry has something to do with the staying elasticity of arteries.

But the Costa Rican arteries seemed to clinch the case against a high fat diet. They came from whites with much the same European racial ancestry as the New Orleans whites, and similar diets. These Costa Rican arteries were less "hardened" than the New Orleans arteries, but much more "hardened" than the Indian arteries.

Interestingly, arteries from children under 10 showed some degree of "hardening" in all three groups. Arteries from persons under 30 when they died had "hardened" at the same rate in all

Wool Contest Rules Listed

Teen-age girls in Klamath County are invited to enroll in the annual "Make It Yourself with Wool" contest which offers prizes totaling $45,000.

Mrs. George Reiling, Poe Valley, local district director for the contest, says sewing for the contest is a "topnotch way of filling summer leisure hours and to create next fall's wool wardrobe. Any of the garments made of 100 per cent wool can be used to enter the wool sewing contest. Mrs. Reiling has a entry form, available to all girls who are interested. Write her or telephone TU 4-8953.

The contest is open to girls between the ages of 13 and 22. Contestants compete in one of three divisions: Junior, for the girls between the ages of 14-17; senior, for girls 18-22, and sub-deb, girls 13-16.

The sub-deb division, Mrs. Reiling states, will have greater emphasis this year and the girl in this division will receive a greater number of prizes than ever before. Girls in the junior and senior divisions may enter a suit, coat, dress or ensemble made of wool. Girls in the sub-deb division can enter either a wool skirt or jumper.

Purpose of the contest, which is endorsed by the National Association of Secondary School Principals of the National Education Association, is to encourage the development of sewing skills and to show young girls how easy it is to sew with wool.

The district contest here closes October 20.
