Federal Education Slate Moves To Floor Of House

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal education program, a subject of urgent discussion which Congress convened, reaches the House floor for action today in the session's waning days. The Senate was ready to follow through later with action on a similar but broader and more expensive measure than the House version. Both would authorize college scholarships, fellowships and student loan funds for worthy students, along with state grants and other programs to improve the nation's educational structure. The proposal was spawned after Soviet Sputniks emphasized Soviet scientific advances. Committees started working, but interest lagged after a time. The House Education Committee completed action on its bill July 2, but the Rules Committee acted only yesterday to send it to the floor. The House bill would authorize a $1,070,000,000 four-year program which its author, Rep. Carl Elliott (D-Ala.), said is "designed to encourage our educational system toward the goals (demanded by) the tense age in which we live."

The bill seeks two goals in particular—to encourage able young students to get a college education and to stimulate the teaching of science to help meet the Soviet challenge. President Eisenhower has urged Congress to pass the aid program, but to provide scholarship awards based on need. He also urged a 10,000 yearly limit instead of the 20,000 or more the bills would authorize. Both House and Senate bills provide 175 million dollars for a four-year program of scholarships worth up to $1,000 each, with the first $500 an award for merit. The extra $500 would be based on need. Total cost of the scholarship program with its three-year tapering off period was estimated at 300 million dollars. Other House provisions include: A $15-million-dollar student loan program.

Survivors include nine children, Tom Kennett, Howard Kennett, Mrs. Howard Ingreham, all of Medford; Webb Kennett, George Kennett, Redding, California; Ann Brown, Portland; Walter Kennett, Ellen McIntyre and Wayne Kennett of Klamath Falls; a sister, Mrs. Anna Clark, Long Beach, California; also many grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held from O'Hair's Memorial Chapel at 2 p.m. on Saturday, August 9. Final rites and interment will be in Klamath Memorial Park.

HEARING DORRIS—Judge Les Chase of the Dorris Judicial Court stated that the hearing of Lee Harrington of Dorris has been changed from August 15 to August 20 at 10 a.m. in the Dorris court. Harrington is free on $5,000 bail and is accused of the theft of a cow and calf belonging to Mrs. Mary E. Noakes of Macdoel. The animals were found on Soil Conservation pasture, not on the Harrington ranch as previously reported. EACH TO HIS OWN LONDON (UPI) - ASKED why he slept on a bed of newspapers surrounded by 600 empty milk bottles in a rooming house, Ronald Baker, 25, told a magistrate Wednesday: "I fancied it."

BUDGET DORRIS—Work on the preliminary 1958-1959 budget occupied the Dorris City Council at their regular meeting Monday night. The council also approved four building permits: G. H. Lybrand, garage, $300; First Free Will Church, addition, $1,000; R. A. Lucas, garage on room home, $12,500; George Jordan, addition to home, $1,000. It was also decided to put asphalt aprons at the approaches of five intersections onto Third Street, now that the street has been sealed and gravelled. The cost will be approximately $150 each. The council has asked Dorris residents to place their garbage at the back of the city dump.

Chamber Boss Lists Rules For Better KF Air Travel

By TOM STIMMEL The Klamath Basin's representative at a hearing which could produce a significant change in this area's commercial airline service reported on his Washington adventures Wednesday. What will come from the two-day Civil Aeronautics Board hearing, no person can tell. But it is the largest city around with which we have a community interest. Tucker testified, Tucker hastened to tell the board, would certainly include a Klamath Falls-Reno route — the one not approved by the CAB examiner. He said that Klamath Falls is the center of the largest population area of Southern Oregon and Northern California, and that Reno is the largest city around with which we have a community interest. This community interest, Tucker testified, is heightened by tourist traffic promoted by the two cities; by the understandable desire of Klamath counties to begin a transcontinental air trip by going East instead of West, and by future commercial air service needs between growing Kingsley Field and Reno's Stead Air Force Base. Tucker told the five-man board that this is what Klamath Falls and Klamath County would like in the way of immediate air service changes:

- 1. Two round trips daily linking Klamath Falls with both Portland and San Francisco — double the service provided.
- 2. Extension of service from here to Boise, Idaho, via Lakeview and Burns.
- 3. Another new route joining Klamath Falls with Reno, Nevada. The first two wishes already have the approval of a CAB examiner who came here to see for himself. Significantly, the proposed extension to Reno was not approved in the examiner's report. When the board will decide is almost as vague as how it will decide, but at least the hearing Tucker attended was the last step in a 12-step CAB procedure. The next action will be a temporary order which, Tucker said cautiously, might be out in six weeks. A temporary order won't put any planes in the air, but it will reveal the board's feelings in the matter. How the people of Klamath County feel about it all was presented in crisp order by the city-county representative. We are perfectly willing, Tucker said, to let United Air Lines drop its existing service between Portland and San Francisco via Klamath Falls providing West Coast Airlines gets the schedule. "We're impartial," he said. "We don't care which airline gets the route." But he did emphasize that we want one-stop service to the Bay Area and two-stop service to Portland, not a "yo-yo" run with frequent stops. Actually the proposed change, approved by United, West Coast and the CAB examiner, would add Salem to United's existing schedule. This addition was urged in a resolution the State Legislature sent to President Eisenhower after prodding by Klamath County. Whether the proposed service, if approved, would include two daily round-trips is indefinite. Klamath County also enthusiastically approves the proposed Klamath Falls - Lakeview-Burns-Boise run, and Tucker pointed out that the route would help create an efficient and realistic pattern of air service over a vast void in the West.

Funerals LADUE - Funeral services were held August 7 for Harold N. LaDue, 51, at the Dunsmuir Masonic Temple. Services were under the auspices of Dunsmuir Lodge 297, Free and Accepted Masons. Burial was in Dunsmuir Cemetery. LaDue died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound at his home in Sacramento Monday. He was employed by Southern Pacific Railroad as an assistant general storekeeper with headquarters in Sacramento. He was well known in Dunsmuir where he once served as city fire chief. LaDue leaves the widow, Ruth Hawkins, both of Dunsmuir, and Mrs. Carol O'Donnell of Sacramento. There are three brothers, Ed Cahow and Miles Cahow of Dunsmuir and Eugene LaDue of Sacramento.

NO COMPLAINTS DORRIS—A public hearing at the elementary school Monday night to approve or disapprove the budget for the school saw no complaints from Dorris taxpayers. The budget, which totals $7,760 of which $18,613 will come from district property taxes, was accepted by the school board, according to Buel B. Fisher, elementary school principal.

Debate On Mideast Crisis Planned For UN Assembly Next Week, Say Delegates

By WILLIAM N. OATIS UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - U.N. delegates predicted today that the General Assembly would meet by Saturday to deal with the Middle East crisis but would not get down to debate until next week. The Security Council meets this afternoon to take up rival U.S. and Soviet resolutions calling the emergency Assembly session. The expectation was that the 11-nation Council would approve the U.S. resolution tonight or tomorrow and that the 81-nation Assembly would meet tomorrow or Saturday. The Assembly must be convened within 24 hours after Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold receives a request for an emergency session approved by any seven Council members. The permanent Council members' veto cannot be invoked against a resolution authorizing the Assembly session. President Eisenhower told a news conference he would make an appearance at the Assembly session if he found it necessary or desirable. Russians at the United Nations said they doubted the Soviet Premier Khrushchev would come to New York. Informed sources said the United States would put forward a plan which would operate through the United Nations to stabilize the Middle East. The objectives would be to deal with the problems of Arab nationalism, water shortage and Palestine Arab refugees. The American and Soviet resolutions to call the Assembly into session were introduced nearly three weeks ago when the Council was unable to take action on the Middle East crisis. They were shelved when Khrushchev proposed a five-power summit conference and the big powers maneuvered. Khrushchev finally rejected the U.S.-British proposal for a summit meeting of the Security Council and demanded instead that the emergency Assembly session be held. The American resolution would call on the Assembly for recommendations concerning Lebanon's May 22 complaint that the United Arab Republic was inciting, arming and reinforcing rebels trying to oust Lebanon's pro-Western President Camille Chamoun. Diplomatic sources said this most likely would be revised to mention also Jordan's complaint July 17 that the U.A.R. was interfering in that country's affairs by plotting to overthrow King Hussein. The Soviet delegation revised its resolution to call for Assembly consideration of "the question of the immediate withdrawal of U.S. forces from Lebanon and United Kingdom forces from Jordan." The original had referred to "the question of the intervention" of the United States and Britain in Lebanon and Jordan.

United Fund Drive Starts

LAKEVIEW—United Fund activities are getting under way in Lake County with the appointment of W. H. John Buell as drive chairman, according to Tom Flynn, Lake County U.F. president. Buell, who retired this year from a vice presidency of the First National Bank of Oregon, has had many years of experience with United Fund work in the county having served on the administrative end through board membership and county presidency. Budget meeting dates have been set for Monday and Tuesday, August 11 and 12, in the jury room of the courthouse, when representatives of the various agencies will present their needs and the goal will be determined according to the amounts granted. Organization representatives for the year are James W. Ogle, Lake County Stockgrowers; John Blair, chamber of commerce; Chick Chaloupka, Lions Club; Dora Herwick, Business and Professional Womens' Club; Jay Sorseth, Rotary Club; Dorothy Osterman, Soroptimist Club; O. R. Heavilin, Lake County Farm Bureau; Raymond Johnson, Pomona Grange. Directors at large are Leslie Shaw, Phil Quisenberry, Alice Carlson, John E. McDonald, Barbara Snider and Tom Flynn.

Annual School Picnic Planned PORT ROCK - The Fort Rock Community Sunday School will hold its annual picnic Sunday, August 17, at the Rock. It will also be a work day for cemetery cleanup. The Sunday School has purchased markers to identify graves. Mostly used during homestead days, the cemetery is now grown up in brush and the graves poorly marked. The entire community is invited to attend the work day beginning at 10:30 a.m. Workers should bring shovel, rake and grubbing hoe. Picnic dinner will be at noon at the Rock. Please bring table service as well as food. The last organized group to do cemetery cleanup was the youth committee of the Fort Rock grade who worked at it several years ago. The brush has grown up again since.

Hawaii Site Of Birthday

When you are 11 years old and go by plane to Honolulu and back by yourself, it's a momentous occasion, but when you celebrate your 11th birthday anniversary in Hawaii, no other birthday will ever seem quite so wonderful. A Klamath Falls boy, Marty Bassett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bassett, 2306 Eberlein Avenue, experienced those thrills, plus a lot of other things. Marty was the houseguest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Morris G. Fox, and their two sons in Honolulu for three weeks this summer. His uncle, who is deputy director of public welfare in the islands, and his aunt took Marty and his cousins swimming at Waikiki Beach every day, and his aunt prepared a very special birthday dinner for the Klamath Falls lad. One of the experiences which Marty will always remember is attending the Space Symposium at the University of Hawaii where he heard Kraft Ehrlicke, designer of vehicles for space flight. Marty also attended the YMCA camp in the islands with his cousin, Donald. Mr. and Mrs. Bassett, Marty's parents, and his brother, Scott, met Marty at the Portland Airport when he returned by Northwest Orient Air Lines recently.

Final Rites For Ex-KF Man Set

Funeral services will be held in Portland August 6 for Benjamin H. Robertson, former resident of Klamath Falls. He was 66 years old. Mr. Robertson, former general superintendent of Warren-Northwest Inc., a construction company, was connected with the contracting firm for 25 years. He lived in Klamath Falls from 1926 to 1930 and retired in 1936. He died August 3 following a heart attack at his home.
