

Scribe Sees Weird World Fifty Years In Future

By SAUL PETT
AP Staff Writer

On Aug. 15, 2008, despite some heavy moon-bound traffic, the earth made its complete turn in space in the usual elapsed time of 23 hours, 56 minutes, 4.091 seconds.

It was a day like all other days. Some history was made, some footnotes were added. Some people died, some were born, humanity inched forward.

In Moscow, the Linsky government had won complete control and began downgrading the Malinsky government, which had downgraded the Shmolyshev government, which long before had downgraded the Khrushchev government for making a cult out of world travel.

In the United States, inflation had finally been halted and once more a housewife could buy a loaf of white bread for $2.89.

Her husband, the average American, set out for the office in a car 36 feet long, 18 inches high. He drove lying down, steering with his feet, his eyes on a small TV screen in the ceiling. Air experts predicted that in the future helicopters, rather than autos, would be commonplace.

It was, as usual, a busy day in Washington.

The President of the United States, a former physicist, told his semiannual press conference: "E plus M2 minus W equals NG12." Early English translation: "I'm going to Saturn for the weekend."

The State Department said it was still hopeful of obtaining recognition from the government in Dallas.

An eight-star general, chairman of the Consolidated Chiefs of the Combined Chiefs of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified that an atomic-missile war was imminent unless the Army were given complete control. Another congressional committee was told the nation's economy could easily withstand a deficit of $990,000,000,000,000.

Out of Mt. Rushmore, South Dakota, workmen were chiseling in the profile of Richard M. Nixon. On television, Americans and viewers around the world enjoyed varied fare on their 20-by-20-foot screens. Most of the programs came from a global TV headquarters set up in the Taj Mahal in India.

The late show this day featured a TV first, a movie called "The Bridge on the River Kwai." Earlier in the evening, viewers watched, in living, deliciously gruesome color, an actual prefrontal lobotomy operation followed by a quiet interlude of candid, cross-sectional views of a living cancer followed by an inspirational wrestling match between two midgeets and a bull atop the Eiffel Tower.

In Honolulu, the first major league baseball game ever played on the islands was won by the recently transplanted Oahu Giants, who defeated the transplanted New Hebrides Dodgers 18-1 in a pitcher's duel. Only 16 homers were hit over the short, left-field orchid wall.

In Tibet, Howard Johnson's opened the newest in its chain of restaurants on Mt. Everest "because it was there." On the bottom of the world, new split-level housing developments were still mushrooming in Antarctica while some of the older residents complained of the commuting problem to New York.

British newspapers gave only a paragraph to the fact that the English Channel was swum by a 2-year-old boy. This excited only a little less attention than the day's session at the United Nations in New York. In its 9,483rd veto, Russia killed an American proposal to extend the U. N. mandate on the moon on the grounds it was a procedural rather than a substantive question.

And in a tiny television studio in the Bronx, Archie Moore once more defended his light heavyweight title successfully. Thus went Aug. 15, 2008, a day like all other days.

DENO'S DANDY DARLIN'

was too long a name for an 11-week-old Miniature Schnauzer, so Mr. and Mrs. Roy Birdsong, 325 Hillside, and their two sons nicknamed the new puppy Toby. Here, 4-year-old Timmie was trying to make her stop biting long enough to pose for Herald and News photographer Otto Ellis. Toby is a little too young for the all-breed dog show to be held at Klamath County Fairgrounds on Saturday, August 30, under sponsorship of Klamath Dog Fanciers, Inc., but she is being groomed for next year's show which will be the dog club's 10th annual American Kennel Club licensed event.

Strike Talks Resume Today

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers resume contract negotiations with the Big Three car builders today as labor strife plagues the industry. UAW bargaining teams were scheduled to meet with Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. and General Motors Corp. officials. UAW workers at the Big Three plants have been without labor contracts since the Memorial Day. Labor difficulties erupted on a number of fronts in the auto industry yesterday. Some 2,500 workers at Ford's Lincoln Division plant in nearby Wixom walked off their jobs to protest the use of an outside contractor of his own employees to load waste material at the plant. The workers said the job should be done by them. At Chrysler's Dodge truck plant 250 workers left their jobs in a seniority dispute. And production at Chrysler's Twinsburg (Ohio) stamping plant remained halted by another walkout. Chrysler said the Twinsburg trouble may affect the production of 1959 models and delay the recall of 42,000 laid-off workers. The new appointee will soon name eight unit leaders to cover such professional groups as physicians, dentists, attorneys, accountants, clergymen, barbers and beauticians, union administrators and miscellaneous. Swanson came to Klamath Falls in 1929, and shortly thereafter joined New York Life. He is married and has a son and a daughter. Active in many community projects, Swanson has served for over 20 years consecutively on the Salvation Army board, and has always been active in United Fund or Community Chest work in the Basin. He was president of the Community Concert Association for three years.

New UF-RC Post Awarded

Martin Swanson, local representative of the New York Life Insurance Company, was named head of the professional division for the 1958 United Fund-Red Cross drive, Dick Laudenschlager, campaign chairman, announced. The new appointee will soon name eight unit leaders to cover such professional groups as physicians, dentists, attorneys, accountants, clergymen, barbers and beauticians, union administrators and miscellaneous. Swanson came to Klamath Falls in 1929, and shortly thereafter joined New York Life. He is married and has a son and a daughter. Lou Costello's Fortunes Prosper After Abbott Split

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"When I saw Martin and Lewis break up, I thought it was a mistake. Now they're as big as ever doing singles. Maybe the same could happen to me."

This was Lou Costello's comment on his own breaking away from a long-time comedy team. And it appears that Lou's own fortunes are prospering now that he has made the split from Bud Abbott.

Tonight Lou makes his live debut as a single at the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas. He's going back to where he got his start—playing comedy sketches ("Clean ones, mind you") in a Minsky burlesque show. But it's not a matter of retrogression on Lou's part. He's drawing many, many times what he earned as a young comic amid the bumps and grinds.

Recently he completed two filmed shows for the new TV season. He plays a light comedy in a G. E. Theater segment and a straight drama in a Wagon Train adventure. "That's right—straight drama," he emphasized. "This is a Lou Costello nobody has ever seen before. I play it with a heavy beard and all—and not a laugh in the whole show."

Initial reports of his work are so enthusiastic that other producers are interested. He is being wooed to play Debbie Reynolds' father in her next MGM feature. All this, plus his TV guestings with Steve Allen and others and the chance he may revive the old radio show "It Pays to Be Ignorant." Unlike the Martin and Lewis split, Bud and Lou broke up amicably. The reason was simply that no one was buying Abbott and Costello. So they decided to separate and see if they could improve their fortunes alone. Bud chose to rest on his laurels. Lou, however, is busier than he was in the heyday of the A&C teaming. And happy too.

"I never felt so good in my life," he enthused. "When I used to come home from the studio while we were doing the comedies, I was mentally and physically exhausted. Nobody knew it, but I was almost sick. All these pratfalls! They take a lot out of you. I'd go to the studio feeling tired the next morning. "But when I did those two dramatic shows, I felt terrific. I could hardly wait to go to work each day. Think what I've been missing all these years!"

Senator Predicts Congress Will Back Middle East Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) said today President Eisenhower will have overwhelming congressional support for any immediate and bold steps to carry out his six-point Middle East program.

Mansfield, assistant majority leader of the Senate, said the President should follow through on his address yesterday to the United Nations General Assembly "with hard and fast proposals to implement each of his suggestions."

The senator, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview: "The President is on the right track and the peoples of the world will applaud our support of expanded U. N. police forces to keep the peace, multilateral aid for economic development and technical assistance and all the rest. "Resolutions should be pressed immediately in the United Nations for approval of the program in concrete form. If any of them need congressional implementation, I am sure the President can count on overwhelming support from Democrats and Republicans alike." If this is done, Mansfield said, the pressure from peoples all over the world will be felt by the Soviet Union.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), a critic of Eisenhower Middle East policy in the past, said he was "proud to be an American in the light of the speech before the General Assembly."

"The President," Morse told the Senate, "laid down a program that will stand to the everlasting credit of our foreign policy."

He too called for concrete steps to push it through the U. N. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), another frequent critic of the administration, called Eisenhower's proposals a program "for our own government, the United Nations, and, I might say, for Congress, and I personally support it."

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind) led the Republican rosters. He called Eisenhower's presentation one of the greatest speeches he ever had heard.

In the House too, Eisenhower's Middle East proposals drew bipartisan support. Among those praising it were Representatives John M. Vorys (R-Ohio) and Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.). Vorys is a senior Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Deputy Brvant Has Busy Time

The chief interest of Deputy Sheriff Arthur Bryant Wednesday was a good, long snooze—and for understandable reasons. Bryant returned to Klamath Falls Sunday after a trip to Pawnee, Oklahoma, to return a prisoner here. It was a long, hot drive, complete with car trouble.

He wasn't home long before he bustled his wife, Alberta, off to the maternity ward at Klamath Valley Hospital. The happy climax occurred at 8:21 p.m. Tuesday when Mrs. Bryant gave birth to a 7 lb., 2 oz. boy. He's their second son, the Bryants also are parents of Arnold, aged 21 months. Father passed cigars about the courthouse Wednesday—then headed for home and some rest.

MAJ. JOHN C. ANDERSON, center, aircraft maintenance officer at Kingsley Field, receives the Commendation Medal from Brig. Gen. Curtis R. Low, commander 28th Air Division, during recent formal ceremonies at the local field. Maj. Daniel G. Reed, base supply officer, is standing behind Maj. Anderson.

Kingsley Field Major Wins Commendation Ribbon

Maj. John C. Anderson, aircraft maintenance officer at Kingsley Field, was recently awarded the Commendation Medal for "outstanding performance of duty" in ceremonies at the local Air Force installation.

Brig. Gen. Curtis R. Low, commander, 28th Air Division, Hamilton Air Force Base, California, presented the green medal after Lt. Col. Leland R. Raphael, operations officer, read the citation of Major Anderson's outstanding service to the Air Force.

Among the actions credited to Major Anderson was the institution of policies which resulted in a rapid and accident free transition from the F-80 to F-84 type aircraft, while he was operations and materiel officer of the 48th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron.

Mention was also made of his selection to represent the Fifth Air Force during a planning conference at Republic Aviation Corporation, and for membership in an advance party for "Operation Handclasp III," in Australia.

"In these instances, Major Anderson's actions and outstanding devotion to duty reflected great credit upon himself, Pacific Air Forces and the United States Air Force," the citation said.

Maj. Anderson recently arrived here from Misawa Air Base in Japan. A native of Blue Ridge, Georgia, he entered the Air Force in 1941, and was commissioned at Foster Field, Texas, after completing flying training. He now has over 3,200 flying hours, of which 1,800 have been in jet interceptor type aircraft.

The Commendation Medal adds another ribbon to Major Anderson's 18 other awards, earned during his military career. Some of his citations are the Air Medal, with 19 oak leaf clusters, and the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Pupils Plan Visit To UO

Nine student members of local high school publications staffs will be on the University of Oregon campus during the week of August 18 to 22, to attend the second annual Western High School Press Institute. They are members of the 1958-59 staffs of the Klamath Union and Henley High School newspapers, of the KUHNS yearbook and of the KUHNS news bureau.

The institute, planned to give the high school publications staff members concentrated and comprehensive instruction in all major phases of scholastic publications work, is drawing around 200 students from high schools of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, California and Nevada.

Local students attending are Ed Jacobs, 4637 Boardman Avenue; Ray Sessler, 3518 Homedale Road; Lana Lamb, 1208 California Avenue; Sandra Spear, 4517 Winter Avenue; Sally Loveless, 2553 Wilard Street; and Betty Yancey, 4009 Homedale Road—all on the staff of the KUHNS paper—plus Norma Jones, 700 Loma Linda Drive, of the KUHNS news bureau; Carolyn Hunt, Route 1, Box 891, of the Henley yearbook; and Mary Wells, Route 2, Box 771-M, of the Henley paper.

Guest speaker at the institute's annual banquet will be Oregon's Sen. Richard Neuberger.

City Lists Skunk Casualty Totals

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The skunk tally is 13 certain and 3 probabilities in Sacramento's war between the people and the polecats. "If we can get 'em at that rate we'll beat 'em," said City Poundmaster George Martin yesterday, the third day of the offensive. The skunks, estimated at 500, have invaded a residential section in southwestern Sacramento.

KING MOVED ALONG—Unsmiling Capitol police hustled Church of God Bishop Homer E. Tomlinson off the steps of the Capitol in Washington when he tried to pose for pictures as "King of the United States." The bishop, wearing a gold-foil covered iron crown and a blue Chinese robe, protested that he had been permitted to crown himself "King of Russia and the World" in Moscow's Red Square. He carried with him a flag, a gold-covered folding camp chair and an inflatable rubber globe.
