

Air Forces Would Have Erased 20 Red Cities Had War Erupted In Mideast

By KINGSBURY SMITH

LONDON (UPI) — Reliable sources disclosed today that if Russia had precipitated a major war with the West over the recent Middle East crisis, the American and British strategic air forces would have attempted to wipe out 20 Russian cities with one massive retaliation nuclear attack.

Those 20 Russian cities, including Moscow and Leningrad, are the primary targets for the U. S. and British H-bombers in the event the Soviets should resort to war against the Western Allied powers.

That was the reason why the American and British air and naval forces were placed on a war-possible alert basis. It was why the Anglo-American H-bombers were poised to put into instant effect the Strategic Air Command plan that calls for nuclear destruction of Russia's main cities if the rulers of the Kremlin should order any "Pearl Harbor" - type sneak attack on the West.

This plan to wipe out with one simultaneous nuclear attack 20 Russian cities is known in Anglo-American military circles as the "great deterrent."

Committee Planning For Annual Livestock Show

Committees making preparations for the 23rd annual Junior Livestock Show August 17, 18 and 19 at the Klamath County Fairgrounds, this week recalled names of loyal buyers, who have made possible the continuing success of the 4-H and Future Farmer of America livestock sales that conclude the three day show of livestock and tests of skill in livestock judging, showmanship and herdsmanship.

Now that the United States and Britain have relaxed their war-possible alerts and Moscow has announced the end of the Russian army maneuvers on the Turkish frontier, the danger of a world war developing over the Middle East situation is considered in diplomatic and military circles to have passed.

That risk was based on the assumption of Anglo-American diplomacy that Russia would not precipitate a nuclear war with the West over the Middle East.

Nevertheless, those responsible for the defense of the United States and Great Britain could not be sure how Russia would react. They had to be prepared for any eventuality in those first few days after the American Marines landed in Lebanon and British paratroopers were flown to Jordan.

It is on Soviet knowledge of the existence of this plan that American and British military men base their hopes that Russia will not risk war with the West. The more aware the Soviet leaders are of what would happen if they did precipitate war with the West, the better some of the Allied military men think will be the chances for peace.

It is through this year-in-year-out support of local businessmen and individuals, that many youth have been permitted to continue education in colleges and universities. Almost without exception, the committee points out, money received is used for schooling or to start a farming career.

Wife Admits Felony Guilt

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Police have accused Mrs. Frances Marjorie Miller, 31, of trying to have her husband, William, 34, killed for a $500 fee.

Moscow's announcement that the Soviet army maneuvers on the Turkish frontier had ended was interpreted in Britain as the Kremlin's way of saying that it considered the Middle East crisis ended.

Of considerable interest to diplomatic observers in London today was the theory advanced in one British paper that Communist China may try to plunge Russia into war with the United States in the hope both countries would destroy one another and leave China the dominant power of the world. That was what Stalin suspected the British of wanting to do with respect to Germany and Russia before the outbreak of World War II.

She pleaded guilty before an alderman yesterday to a charge of solicitation to commit a felony.

Allied military intelligence sources were inclined to agree that Russia never was worried about its own security in the recent Middle East crisis, and Reviewing the decade of "tragedy and triumph," President Syngman Rhee told a crowd of 40,000 massed in Seoul Stadium. "We remain free... Asia's bulwark against the further spread of communism."

The invaders were repulsed, he continued, but the war was stalemated, not won. He called on his people to dedicate themselves again to unifying the divided nation.

Police quoted Mrs. Miller, attractive mother of a seven-year-old boy, as saying she wanted to dispose of her husband "because of unbearable home conditions."

The Manchester Guardian's Russian expert, Victor Zorza, must "be intended to convey that the Kremlin is no longer anxious—if it ever was—about the immediate danger to general peace and its own security."
