

A COOLING SCENE for hot weather times is this shot of a couple of youngsters riding the rapids of the Big Apple River in inner tubes. The picture was taken by staff photographer Don Kettler while on a visit to the valley area around Medford.

COVERED BRIDGES are rapidly becoming a thing of the past. But a few are still doing proud service. This is McKee Bridge, located at McKee Bridge campgrounds on the Big Apple River some 20 miles outside Medford. During summer months the campground is a favorite spot for family groups and the river affords early season swimming and fishing.

Wax Floors To Keep Out Grime

Leave Babes In The Woods Alone

ITHACA, N. Y. (UPD) — Stay clear of babes in the woods.

Cornell University Prof. Harlan B. Brunsted, an authority on wildlife management, advises spring and summer campers to leave apparently abandoned small animals strictly alone. He said persons often find and bring home baby deer, raccoons, bears and skunks.

"No matter how much loving care you think you can give a wild baby, you can't do as good a job as its mother," he pointed out.

"Once the animals mature, many can be dangerous, particularly deer, bear and raccoons. After they lose their fear, they may attack and injure you or your children."

Brunsted advised persons to call a game protector if they find a baby animal in the forest. He pointed out that wild animals rarely abandon their young.

Crime Rate Gains In California

SAN FRANCISCO (UPD) — Attorney General Edmund G. Brown reports that a recent study shows the number of major criminal matters handled by law enforcement agencies and courts in California rose 12.8 per cent during 1957.

Brown pointed out that a large part of the "statistical increase" is due to better reporting, better procedures or obtaining such data and better law enforcement methods.

Stains Removed With Boiling Water
