Allied Commander Says 'Satisfactory Progress' Made In NATO Parleys

By KINGSBURY SMITH
United Press International

PARIS (UPI)—General Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander for Europe, said today "satisfactory progress" is now being made in discussions with the NATO countries concerning the establishment in Europe of intermediate range ballistic missiles.

In an exclusive interview with this correspondent, the youthful looking war-time Air Force commander also said he was "confident that when the new weapons are available, satisfactory sites will be ready for their reception."

"Furthermore," he added, "in the case of IRBM's, because of their range, great latitude is available to us in their siting.

"I am convinced that, as the heads of government, at their December meeting, decided on the establishment of IRBM sites in NATO territory, because they are necessary for the defense of NATO, each country in the last analysis will do what is necessary in its own defense, and to contribute to NATO defense.

"This confidence is based on my recognition that these new weapons will make a significent contribution to the deterrent, and therefore to our first task the preservation of peace, and also will make a contribution to our second task, the defense of the peoples and territories of NATO if we are attacked."

Establishment in Europe with nuclear warheads, are considered by SHAPE planners necessary to the modern evolution of the war deterrent power of the NATO "shield."

Some of the European countries, including France, Denmark and Norway, objected to the establishment of IRBM sites on their territories when the proposal to strengthen SHAPE's defensive power with these weapons was made at the Atlantic Council meeting last December.

The French did not want the bases established in France unless they had some measure of control over use of the missiles. This would involve congressional modification of the law restricting to the President alone the right to determine when American nuclear weapons would be used.

Denmark and Norway have laws which prohibit the stationing of foreign military forces on their territory. Little hope is held at SHAPE that those laws will be changed in the near future, but there is confidence that France will agree to the establishment of some sites on its territory.

Since French Premier Charles de Gaulle is determined to have greater recognition given France as a major power, and since he wants a more effective voice for the French in the formulation of Allied global strategy, it is believed at SHAPE that he will wish his country to be equipped with the weapons that, diplomatically as well as militarily, speak loudly.

While General Norstad told the writer he feels that balance of military power still remains with the West, he is far from satisfied with the strength of his own deterrent "shield" in Western Europe.

He now has available approximately 21 divisions. He expects eventually to get about 28, which approximates the 30 divisions he regards as the minimum forces required to enable him to fulfill the mission of SHAPE forces in the central area of Europe.

The mission has changed since NATO was established nine years ago. Originally, it was hoped that the SHAPE forces could establish defensive line in Germany strong enough to hold up a Russian attack until powerful American and British armies could be brought to France.

Man's Death Said Suicide

MACON, Ga. (AP)—A coroner's jury ruled yesterday that a deaf mute died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound when his stolen car slammed into a roadblock during a manhunt.

It was first believed officers shot Parram Youngblood, 32-year old itinerant peddler from Toomsboro, Ga.

The peddler died in a blaze of gunfire Monday afternoon four hours after the body of 7-year-old Margie Jones of Melvin, Ky., was found in a field near Sandersville.

Officers had been seeking Youngblood on a kidnaping charge.

Investigators said the deaf mute drove off with Margie Saturday night.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The nephew of the last Democratic president of Czechoslovakia took the oath of U. S. citizenship here yesterday.

Bohus Benes, 57, confided: "This means that I've given up hope that my country will ever be liberated."

His late uncle, Eduard Benes, was president when Czechoslovakia was taken over by the Communists in 1948. The nephew was Czechoslovakian consul general here from 1942 to 1948. Today he is a political science lecturer at several San Francisco Bay area colleges.

SPARKY will be shown for the first time at the Klamath Dog Fanciers' AKC licensed all-breed dog show at the fairgrounds on Saturday, August 30, and will be the first local Boston Terrier entered in the Klamath show. He is registered as Ace's Lucky Sparkle and his paternal grandsire was the famous champion, Brymar's Little Ace. Sparky was born in July, 1956 and acquired from the breeder, Romie Hagar at Bakersfield in September that year by the Rev. and Mrs. Otis Bell who came to Klamath Falls in December, 1956. He is shown here with his master who will handle him in the ring in competition with Bostons under 15 pounds. The Rev. Bell is pastor of the First Christian Church of Klamath Falls.

British Scribe Says U.S. Women Downtrodden Lot

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—U.S. women are a downtrodden lot, says Alistair Cooke, famed British-born reporter of the American scene.

"And by that I don't mean that she should have two votes," Cooke added. "But the American woman's ambitions are too high. In England, in Europe generally, a woman decides early what type she will be — good mother, good cook, or siren. . .'

"Women here want to be all of these. . .wife, mother, cook, nurse, mistress and run Wall Street at the same time. It's a hard job. . . the nation is full of women who believe they're doing it well. But I often think they are under heavier strain than any others in the world."

Who's to blame? Cooke said both sexes.

"The American woman seems to lack the sagacity to see that the home is the most resourceful place a woman can operate from . . .but the man expects her to be all these things and like an idiot she accepts. I don't know the reasons, unless it's the good old American belief that life is improvable."

Witty, urbane Alistair Cooke came to this country from England in 1932 to become an actor. He studied drama at Yale and Harvard but most of all, he said, he studied America, which "I found as exciting as a nine-ring circus."

Today, he is a U.S. citizen, is host on the NBC television show "Omnibus," and is a peripatetic reporter for the Manchester Guardian. He brags that "I have filed stories from every state."

Married twice, his second wife was a war widow from New Jersey. "There are four children," said Cooke. "I have two, she has three, we have one." (Work on it awhile, it adds up).

Cooke said, in an interview, it'd be easier to talk about subjects less controversial than American females — "you keep opening up chasms for me to drop through," he laughed. But he went ahead anyway, and then touched briefly but scathingly on American males.

Some excerpts from my notes:

On the career woman — "She is a monster. . .the supreme escapist from the role of being a woman. I'm not talking about the working wife whose job supplements family income. I think the difference in the two is in happiness. I never met a happy career woman."

On conversation — "Long ago we gave women the mistaken idea this was one of their main roles."

On cooking — "The American woman is essentially a part-time cook, but one of the best part-time cooks. We're not obsessed with food in America or England anyway. I'm a devoted seconder of A. J. Liebling, who said 'an Englishman telling an American about cooking, is the blind leading the one-eyed'."

On fashion — "The American woman is the best - average dressed in the world. The working female populations nowhere else strike such a high standard; but there is less really first-rate dressing among women who make a fetish of it. I notice one dressing defect, especially in middle age. . .the woman becomes a portable jewelry store. As she sees her hands going, she puts on "three more bracelets. . .and inevitably the anklet chain."

On American men — "Strikingly spoiled on the whole; expect to remain, though not a thing of beauty, a boy forever. Look at the shy, boyish movie heroes. Millions of men remain un-weaned from the womb to the tomb."

Cocker Spaniel Trees Opposum

CHICAGO (AP) — Shnooks, a cocker spaniel, was barking loudly in the back yard.

Mrs. Irene Griffith, the dog's owner, telephoned police and told them a fierce-looking, 25-pound beast with a long nose and tail, perched on a fence, was threatening Shnooks.

Police found no ferocious animal in the back yard. Instead, they caught a frightened five-pound opposum which Shnooks had treed.

BOY SCOUT MUSEUM

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) —The Boy Scouts of America will begin construction this fall of a museum to house historical items of scouting. Items to be displayed will include uniforms, photographs and other mementos of the scout movement. The museum will be the gift of Gale F. Johnston, St. Louis banker and vice president of the BSA since 1951.

Title to the above described property will be conveyed subject to any existing easements for public roads and highways, for public utilities, and for railroads and pipe lines and for any other easements and/or rights-of-way of record.

All sub-surface rights to the above described property will be reserved to The United States National Bank, Trustee.

The estimations shown above are not guaranteed. Each bid must state the total price that the bidder will pay for a specific tract for which the bid is submitted, including the land, timber and improvements thereon. The successful bidder for each tract will be responsible for determining the legal boundaries of the tract and for assuring rights of ingress and egress. The United States National Bank of Portland reserves the right to waive technical defects and to reject bids which are determined to be not advantageous to the owners of the property. A certified check or cashier's check from a solvent bank for ten percent (10%) of the price bid for the respective tract, payable to The United States National Bank of Portland must accompany each sealed bid. Persons bidding for or on behalf of companies, corporations or partnerships must at the time of bidding submit in writing satisfactory evidence of their authority to do so. The deposits of the unsuccessful bidders for each tract will be returned after the announcement of the successful bidder for the respective tracts or after the announcement that all bids have been rejected. The deposit of the successful bidder for each tract will be applied as part of the purchase price bid for the respective tract or retained as liquidated damages if the bidder does not complete the payment of the ninety percent (90%) balance of the purchase price for the respective tract within thirty days of the announcement that his bid has been accepted. The retention of the deposit as liquidated damages will be without prejudice to any additional remedies available to The United States National Bank under the law. Before bids are submitted, each bidder should examine the tract for which he is submitting bids and should obtain additional information concerning the sale from The United States National Bank of Portland, Trust Department, Town and Country Branch, Klamath Falls, Oregon. Dated this 18th day of August 1958, W. R. Bradshaw, Trust Officer, The United States National Bank of Portland.
