Jordan Olivar Disagrees With 1958 Rule Changes

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (NEA)—Jordan Olivar, Yale coach, is in total disagreement with the major college football rules changes for 1958. The most important of them are:

1. A player may re-enter the game once during any quarter from which he was withdrawn, except that after he is withdrawn he cannot return until at least one down has intervened.
2. Only one hand or forearm may be used in blocking or to supplement a shoulder or chest block. The hand must be in contact with the blocker's body. In a crab or body block the hand or arm in contact with the body is not required.
3. The try for extra point consists of a scrimmage down anywhere behind the opponents' three-yard line. Two points may be scored by a scrimmage run or forward pass, one by a dropkick or placekick.

"These changes add nothing to the game," emphasizes Olivar, the old Villanova man, violently disagreeing with Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, a member of the rules committee. Wilkinson believes that the new regulations will improve the game from the standpoint of players and spectators.

"The substitution rule will let more boys play without returning to offensive and defensive positions," Bud says. "The extra point rule should bring great strategic and dramatic interest to what has been the most routine play in football."

"Wilkinson is right about the substitution rule letting more boys play," counters Olivar, seated behind a high-pressure insurance executive's desk in Beverly Hills.

George Susce was the loser in relief. Chuck Beamon won it in relief — first victory since he won his first two major league decisions in September 1956.

A's 7, Solons 4

Hector Lopez banged a pair of homers and Hal Smith hit a two run single for the A's, who finished their scoring in four innings. Jack Urban, 5-0 against Washington in his brief career, squared his record at 88, but needed relief in the eighth, when Roy Sievers drove in two runs with a single. Vito Valentineti lost it.

Senator Boss On Hot Spot

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators squirmed on a hot spot today because the Cleveland Indians' announcement they are considering moving their franchise is forcing his own hand on the same matter.

Rams Face NY In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams find out tonight whether they have a better team than last year.

The Rams play their second National Football League exhibition game in Memorial Coliseum. The New York Giants supply the opposition.

Both the Rams and the Giants won their first exhibition games last week. The Giants whipped San Francisco, 12-10; the Rams knocked over the Washington Redskins, 31-10.

The rules makers are back as closely as they could get to two platoon football without actually going all the way.

"You'll see entire teams running on and off the field nearly every time the ball changes hands. Two complete units may be exchanged twice in a period. All the old stories about the offensive man finally getting acquainted with the defensive man at the end of the season will be heard again.

"This rule benefits schools with tremendous depth, hurts those which cannot afford the luxury of playing their better boys only one way. Again the spectator will be unable to identify the players without a scorecard. More specialists will be turned out by the professionals. There will be fewer college stars capable of both attacking and defending.

"The blocking change is likely

Wilson Peaked In 1958

DETROIT (AP)—For George Wilson, there is no direction to go except down in 1958.

The head coaching job with the Detroit Lions was thrust upon him two days before the team's first preseason game last summer. He led the Lions to a tie for the Western Conference championship and his team whipped the San Francisco 49ers in the playoff game.

Then his club thrashed the Cleveland Browns for the world title and the Wilson-coached West stars defeated the East team in the annual Pro Bowl contest.

"I figure the only way I could top that performance is to quit my job," Wilson quipped. "But I ain't gonna do that."

"We were a good team, and we still are," he added. "That's not to say that we're going to repeat this season, though. This is a crazy league and you have to be lucky to win. I just hope we still have some luck left."

Five members of the title-winning club are gone. Leon Hart, Frank Gatski and Sonny Gandee retired. Dorne Dibble was traded to New York and then announced his retirement too. Linebacker Ray Krouse was traded to Baltimore.

"We need a couple more offensive linemen, a running back and another offensive end," Wilson said. "We're pretty well set on defense. All we can do is hope some of our rookies come through for us. Otherwise, it could be a long season."

Youngsters Enter Semis

DARIEN, Conn. (AP)—The youth movement in women's golf today brought three college girls and a jobless "old-timer," who'll be all of 26 this fall, into the semifinals of the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship.

The first match sent JoAnne Gunderson, the 19-year-old defending champion, against Anne Quast in a rival since their junior golf days in Washington.

Miss Gunderson, the tall, blonde daughter of a Seattle carpenter, is a sophomore at Arizona State College at Tempe. She's majoring in physical education. Miss Quast, who will be 21 Aug. 31, is a senior history major at Stanford.

Miss Bailey, also 20, is a senior at Northwestern University where her major interest is finance and the stock market.

Miss Romack has been playing golf since she was 12, won her first big title, the Canadian Women's Championship, in 1952, and follows the women's amateur circuit in Florida each winter.

Yesterday she eliminated Mrs. George Valentine of Scotland, last survivor of the British Curtis Cup team 4 and 3. Then she went on to beat Berridge Long of Huntingdon, W. Va., by a whopping 6 and 4.

to create more slugging and holding on pass blocking than it is supposed to prevent. When a defender bounces off the hand in contact with the blocker's body, I'm afraid that the tendency will be to flip up the elbow of the free arm to a point under the chin.

"Everything depends on how the rule is interpreted and coaches will wait and see how the officials act. Right now I would say that the change means greater use of the crab block on all fours. It may be that coaches will have to develop a new technique after years of teaching the other way for a free hand in blocking is difficult to handle.

"The only thing the extra point switch does is put more second guessing on the coach. There is no extra excitement for the same situation is there every time you are within the opponents' 10-yard line. The coach trailing 7-6, with time running out will be murdered either way."

Talking football and Yale and the Ivy League with the Ellis' head coach in an insurance office in Beverly Hills this close to the start of the football season seemed incongruous, but Jordan Olivar has the best job in the business. He devotes only three months to football, the other nine to an insurance business doing close to $10 million a year.

"No spring practice, no recruiting, no speech making," he smiles. "Why, I don't even know where the registrar's office is in New Haven."

"And take it from one who has played and coached football for years, it's a better for everybody this way... the player, the school and the coach."

LUCKY BOYS—PROUD COMMUNITY—Mount Shasta Little League ball players are watching a dream come true. As a reward for their first season of Little League baseball the youngsters were informed that their fans, friends, supporters and the town as a whole (Pop. 2,000) had banded together to provide them with their own Little League baseball park. One individual donated the land, the local lumber firms donated the material with which to build stands and fences, and everyone is going to pitch in to help build the park. It will all be ready for the 1959 season. The 1958 All-Star squad is pictured above. Sitting in front, Frank Barlow, bat boy. Front row, standing, left to right, are Bobby Parkton, Denny Pignoni, Denny Barlow, Phil Holecek and in the back row, left to right, are Tom Powers, John Dixon, Ronald Mongini, Robert Cobun, Rodney Jennings, James Cross, Ronnie Gasparri, Henry Ruth, Larry Bassett, Pat Carlberg and Robert La Prize.

Cellar-Dwelling Suds Become PCL Spoilers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Seattle Rainiers, though they are poking along in last place, 22½ games off the pace, are turning into the spoilers of the Pacific Coast League.

Of course, the Suds spread some sunshine a few days ago while they were in the throes of a 14-game losing streak. But the occasion is on the other foot now and the Rainiers have a win streak going.

Thursday night they made it seven in a row with a 7-5 victory over the Portland Beavers, their fourth straight over the fourth-place Oregonians. In their preceding series, the Rainiers beat league-leading Phoenix three out of four games.

The Giants maintained their two-game lead over San Diego Thursday night by trimming Spokane 8-0 while the Padres outlasted Salt Lake City's Bees 6-5 in 13 frames. The Sacramento Solons dropped the third-place Vancouver Mounties 3-2 in the other league game.

Vada Pinson's double and singles by Gale Wade, Jack Bloomfield and Carmen Mauro gave the Rainiers three runs in the first inning and they never headed. They shoved across two runs more in the second and a pair in the third.

The Beavers got singletons in the first and second, then splurged for three in the last of the ninth as they tried vainly to catch up. The trio of runs came on three singles and Frank Keilert's double.

Dom Zanni won it for the Giants, holding the Indians to six hits while fanning four and walking only one. His mates tagged four Spokane hurlers for 11 hits, including homers by Zanni, Jim Finigan and Dusty Rhodes.

The Giants got six of their runs in the fourth inning and chased Spokane starter Connie Grob in that frame. Grob, the loser, gave up seven hits and seven runs, two of them unearned, in his three and two-thirds innings on the mound.

Sacramento's victory over Vancouver gave the Solons a clean sweep of their three-game series with the Canadians, who managed only five hits off the pitching of Bud Watkins and reliever-winner Bob Ross. Ross worked the ninth and didn't give up a hit.

Sacramento's winning run came in the bottom of the ninth after Vancouver had tied the score at 2-2 in the top of that frame. Nippy Jones beat out an infield hit to get the rally going and took second on a wild pitch. Bob Roselli walked and Jones legged it home on Jim Greengrass' single.

The Padres got their winning run on Freddie Hatfield's bases-empty home run. San Diego had pushed one run across in the eighth inning to tie the contest up at 5-5 and send it into extra frames.

Dick Brodowski, who came on in relief in the ninth inning, was the winner. Don Williams, who took over from Salt Lake City starter Jim Hardison in the sixth, was the loser.

Mount Shastans Plan Little League Park

Editor's Note: The sports department of the Herald and News offers its congratulations to the citizens of Mount Shasta for the foresight and community spirit which is evidenced by their plan to provide the Little League ball park for their young ball players. It is sincerely hoped that the city of Klamath Falls, and many other areas for that matter, will follow the splendid example set.

MOUNT SHASTA — Ben Salanti has donated land for development of a Little League baseball park, and the local lumber firms have donated material for a grandstand and fence for a Mount Shasta playground for the budding baseball luminaries for the 1959 season.

The playing field will be grass-covered, and application is pending to join the National Association of Little Leaguers. The juvenile players will be covered by insurance against injury.

All this was decided at a meeting August 19 of fans and supporters of the small fry ball players who have done plenty of playing the past season without much support.

At the Tuesday meeting the following officers were elected for the coming year: Richard Clark, president; James Zanni, vice president; Mrs. Ben Salanti, secretary; and Mrs. Lee Barlow, treasurer.

Leaders of the Mount Shasta recreational district and interested supporters of youth programs are united in the belief that this is an important step in preventing juvenile delinquency before it occurs.

Mexican Nine In LL Finals
WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI)—Defending champion Monterrey, Mexico, the rags-to-riches kids from south of the border, square off today against Kankakee, Ill., for the Little League championship.

The Mexican fireballs moved into the finals of the 12th annual Little League World Series Thursday by routing Darien, Conn., 11-3. They beat Pearl Harbor, 11-0, in the opening round.

The Kankakee mites earned their right to meet Monterrey with a 3-1 triumph over Gadsden, Ala., preceded by a 2-1 decision over Portland, Ore.

The Mexican lads were heavy favorites to retain their title on the basis of their two lopsided victories.
