Foreign Cars Visit Basin On Second State Tour Leg

Klamath Falls foreign car enthusiasts had something of a special evening Thursday when a motordade of small cars stopped here on the second leg of an Oregon tour. Local foreign car fans got more than a look at 15 different imported models; they got an indication of results to come when the motordade ends at the State Fair in Salem tonight. The 1,400 mile marathon across the state and back was planned with several purposes in mind, among them advertisement of the State Fair, and a check on mileage over all sorts of roads. Bill Pickett and Bill Manning of the Pelican Service Station, Sixth and Walnut streets, reteled the expedition from 5:30 to 6:30 Thursday evening. It may have been a little disappointing as normal "fill 'er up" orders go, but it was revealing. Manning said most drivers, who had last filled up at Bend, each ordered about four gallons of gas. That was the average requirement. "The Isetta, a little Italian car with a door in front, took 3.4 gallons," Manning said. "I think that was the smallest amount. A fellow driving a Morris Minor took 4.5 gallons. Each car had two drivers who had left Portland August 27, Baker Thursday morning, and departed here early Friday to complete the 1,400 mile international mileage marathon to Salem. The group spent the night—or part of it—at the Willard Hotel. They were scheduled for a 2 a.m. breakfast, then 3 a.m. departure. The run from Bend to Klamath Falls included a tour through Crater Lake National Park. The drivers, Pickett said, decided it was "a pretty tricky route."

Full Soil Bank Details Due

YREKA — According to a recent announcement by John Foster, chairman of the Siskiyou County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, farmers of Siskiyou County will have within two weeks full information available, relative to the conservation reserve program of the soil bank for 1959. According to Foster's statement, the conservation reserve is being opened early this year because the other part of the soil bank, the acreage reserve program, will not be effective in 1959. Under conservation reserve, farmers contract with the U.S. Department of Agriculture to lessen their acreage of harvested crops for a period of up to 10 years, and apply this acreage to conservation practices. The farmer receives, in return for this contribution to production adjustment, an annual rental payment from the government, based on the productivity of his land. The government will also share in the cost of establishing the conservation practices. Three major changes from the program in effect this year, according to Foster are: 1. A higher average level of rental payments with the individual rate depending upon the productivity, agricultural value and rental rates for similar land in the locality. 2. A higher payment rate as an incentive for a farmer to place all eligible cropland in the reserve. 3. A priority system for accepting contract applications which gives preference to those farmers offering land at the lowest cost per unit of productivity. Foster said that farmers will be notified as soon as the county office is ready to receive conservation reserve applications. The 17 children to be enrolled had previously been rejected for admission to white schools on the grounds that their presence there would cause racial tensions and isolation of Negroes among their schoolmates. The school board told Hoffman that after reconsidering the other 134 Negro applicants it had decided not to enroll them. The school board attorney, W. R. C. Cooke, immediately after the board's report was read in court by Chairman Paul Schweitzer, told Hoffman a motion will be filed asking the court to delay or defer enrollment of the 17 Negroes until September, 1959.

School Enrolls Negro Pupils

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Norfolk School Board, complying with an 18-month-old federal court order to end racial segregation in the public schools, announced today it will enroll 17 Negroes in white schools. The board reported its action to Federal District Judge Walter E. Hoffman after three days spent in reconsidering previously rejected applications of 151 Negroes for admission to white schools. Under Virginia's program of massive resistance to school integration, a school that is integrated is automatically closed. Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. was not immediately available for comment on today's developments. The board said the 17 children will be enrolled for the school year beginning Sept. 8. It said it took the action contrary to what all of the members of the school board and the division superintendent of schools honestly and sincerely believe is in the best interests of the affected children, the children in the affected schools and the public in general, but pursuant to the law as interpreted by the court. The 17 children to be enrolled had previously been rejected for admission to white schools on the grounds that their presence there would cause racial tensions and isolation of Negroes among their schoolmates. The school board told Hoffman that after reconsidering the other 134 Negro applicants it had decided not to enroll them. The school board attorney, W. R. C. Cooke, immediately after the board's report was read in court by Chairman Paul Schweitzer, told Hoffman a motion will be filed asking the court to delay or defer enrollment of the 17 Negroes until September, 1959.

Psychiatric Exam Ordered

SPOKANE (AP)—A psychiatric examination was ordered for Lyle Kelly Thursday after the man was charged with second degree assault for holding his wife and two children in a house Wednesday and threatening to shoot them with a rifle. Bond for the 34-year-old unemployed concrete worker was set at $10,000. Kelly entered his wife's house after shooting the lock off the door and then held her and the boys, aged 2 and 8, captive. Officers had the house surrounded but were afraid to fire tear gas as one of the children had just been released from a hospital after treatment for pneumonia. After several tense hours, Kelly released his wife and children and turned the gun over to police, who had watched the drama through side and back windows. Police said Kelly was being divorced from his wife and had been served with a restraining order.

Lake O' Woods Road Paving Requested

A delegation from Medford met with the Klamath County Court Friday to discuss roads in general and the Dead Indian Road at Lake of the Woods in particular. The Jackson County emissaries brought with them a petition, containing 876 names, asking Klamath County to consider paving the road from the lake to the Jackson County line. It was a particularly timely meeting, Jackson County Judge Rodney Keating said, because his county had completed paving its part of the Dead Indian Road only yesterday when the last 4.8 miles were sealed. With Judge Keating were Commissioners Chester Wendt and Ralph A. James, Jackson County Engineer P. A. Rynning, and E. H. Singmaster and Henry Enders of Ashland and E. H. Mann of Medford, all property owners at Lake of the Woods. Judge Keating said his county requested Klamath County to pave the road from the lake to the county line; it did not request pavement of the road circumscribing the lake. Klamath County Judge Charlie Mack and Commissioner Jerry Rasmus said the delegation had been invited to the lake Friday to inspect the roads. Meeting with the combined courts were Klamath County Engineer William R. Canton and Road Superintendent Red Wells. In other business: Judge Mack said he had been asked by the Legislative Interim Committee on Indian Affairs "if you have any recommendations pertinent to the Klamath Indian situation to present for the committee's consideration." A letter from Tom Lawson McCull, the committee's executive secretary, said: "You are in a better position than anyone to speculate on the future impact of termination on local government in your area and to relate it to possible demands that might be made on the state government as an ultimate sequence." McCull again thanked Mack for material he had given the committee, at the committee's request, last November. A Klamath County legislator, John Korbaw, is vice chairman of the interim committee.
