Julie Harnden Weds Richard Evans In First Presbyterian Church

All white with touches of salmon pink and yellow was the color scheme chosen by Julie Harnden for her wedding to Richard Evans on Saturday, August 23, in First Presbyterian Church. Floor candelabra with lighted white tapers were based with bouquets of white gladioli and white pompon chrysanthemums and a large arrangement of the same flowers was used in the background. Pews on the center aisle were marked with white satin bows and the touches of salmon pink and yellow were featured in the ensembles worn by the bridal attendants.

Julie, daughter of well known local residents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer M. Harnden, 836 Pacific Terrace, was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Evans, Rocky Ford, Colorado.

The Rev. Robert Groves officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony in the presence of some 200 guests.

For her summer wedding, Julie wore a gown of airy white imported organdy. The long torso bodice of fine tucks was made with a bateau neckline and cap sleeves. The light, extremely bouffant floor-length skirt was encircled with rows of frosty embroidery.

A clip crown of pearl and iridescent sequin-trimmed organdy held her fingertip veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The maid of honor, Sharon Hayford of Klamath Falls; and bridesmaids, Jennelle Tipton, Casper, Wyoming; and Sue Evans, sister of the bridegroom from Rocky Ford, wore identical sheath dresses of white eyelet, embroidered in a delicate shade of salmon pink. Matching pink cummerbund sashes tied in flat back bows with long flowing streamers.

Their white headbands were made with crown veils and bouquets were arrangements of petite yellow roses, stephanotis and spider chrysanthemums.

Two exquisite handkerchiefs were the "new" and the "old" in Julie's trousseau. The new was of fine linen edged with delicate hand crocheted lace, made and given to her by Addie May (Mrs. Jack) Nixon. The old was an heirloom handkerchief of handmade lace and had belonged to Julie's maternal great-grandmother.

The flower girl, little 3-year-old Vicky Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Edward Long Jr., wore identical sheath dresses of white eyelet, embroidered in a deli-

Todd-Warren Nuptials In St. Paul's Church

A three o'clock double ring nuptial service on Sunday, August 24, at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, united members of two well known Klamath Falls families. Following a honeymoon in Monterey, Carmel, and other California points, they will return to the campus of Oregon State College, Corvallis, where both are seniors. (Other pictures inside.)

for the traditional wedding march, Marie Obenchain was at the organ. She was also accompanist for Charles Velgreth, fraternity brother of the bridegroom, who sang "O Perfect Love," before the vows taken in the presence of 200 guests.

Nancy, escorted down the aisle by her father, was gowned in a misty frock of illusion tulle, fashioned with a long-sleeved bodice of Chantilly lace. Medallions of the lace outlined the sabrina neckline. The very full tulle skirt, frosted with matching bow patterns of the lace, swept into a chapel train beneath a double bustle bow of tulle that accented back interest. Her double veil of silk illusion, reaching to her finger tips was held by an open circulet of pearl-tinted orange blossoms and leaves. She carried a white orchid and cluster of lilies of the valley on the white prayer book carried by her mother at her wedding.

Mrs. Larry Yarnell, Ashland, a childhood friend, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Frances Forney, Eugene, Harriett Swanson, Eureka, California, both sorority sisters; Carrie Sue Hellmister, Klamath Falls, and Mrs. James Osborne (Jean Estes), Lakeview. All wore sleeveless frocks of romance blue silk organza in the modern mode, with blue velvet hair clips and rhinestone dotted veils. They carried arrangements of blue delphinium and white rosebuds.

David Todd, Pleasanton, California, performed the services of
