

Gleason Returning To TV After A Year's Absence

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Jackie Gleason is returning to weekly television after a year's absence. He will have a half-hour all comedy variety program.
The show starts Oct. 3 (8:30 p.m. EST) over CBS-TV. It is similar to the one he had two years ago: the Gleason gallery of characters (the Poor Soul, Reggie Van Gleason, etc.) abetted by Buddy Hackett; girls (six in number rather than the more numerous June Taylor dancers); music by the Jackie Gleason Orchestra conducted by Ray Block. He will have no featured singer, and guests will be rare.

Tour Changed By Townsend

PARIS (AP)—Group Capt. Peter Townsend arrived in Paris today but steadfastly refused to say why he broke off his second world tour in Yugoslavia. The sudden change of plans touched off rumors he was going back to see Princess Margaret, who gave up his love because he was divorced, but there was no confirmation of this speculation.
Townsend had arrived in Yugoslavia with announced plans to make a film of a world tour, touching some of the spots he had found interesting on his earlier tour. He left suddenly Friday.

Mollison Sets Seminar Term

Among the 49 students from Washington and Oregon to attend the third annual seminar of the Washington Savings and Loan League will be Van S. Mollison, secretary of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Klamath Falls.
The seminar will be held from September 7 to 12 on the University of Washington campus in Seattle.
Mollison completed his first year's work in September, 1957, and has been invited to return as a second-year student this year.
The faculty will include Dr. Arthur R. Uppgren, director of economic studies of Macalester College, Minnesota; Professor Edward E. Edwards, school of business, Indiana University and Austin Grimsshaw, dean of the school of business administration, University of Washington.
Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the United States Savings and Loan League, Chicago, and other leaders in the industry will conduct evening panel sessions during the week.
Mollison completed his first year's work in September, 1957, and has been invited to return as a second-year student this year.

Many Awards Set For FFA, 4-H Members At Lake Fair

LAKEVIEW—A number of special awards await 4-H and FFA members who qualify for such during the 1958 Lake County Fair. Many of these are offered by the Lakeview Rotary Club as a portion of its youth activities project.
The following are Rotary awards: Special Breeding Award, $100 will be applied to the purchase of a registered animal for the boy or girl judged best in a livestock breeding project. Any 4-H member enrolled in beef, dairy, sheep or swine is eligible. Second and third awards of $75 and $50 will be made on the same basis. Contestants signify ahead of time their intention to compete. Livestock Demonstration Contest. A special award of $10 toward expenses to the Oregon State Fair for the winning livestock demonstration team.
Home Living Award. To the 4-H member selected by the official fair judge with the top project and work in the home living group.
Food Preservation Award. A special award in canning to a junior and a senior group.
Outdoor Cooking. A special award.
Sweepstakes Cooking. The girl adjudged tops in all cooking projects in Lake County will receive an award of practical nature to be valued at not more than $50.
Forestry. A special award.
Garden. Special awards to winners of junior group (9 to 12 years) and senior group (13 years and over).
Demonstrations. Awards in food preservation, home living, forestry, health, gardening and livestock. A junior and senior award.
The special Rotary awards for Future Farmers of America include: Prize not exceeding $25 to local chapter winner of farm mechanics program; not exceeding $100 for best chapter farmer; a fund of $100 to be used by FFA delegates going to state or national convention; not exceeding $75 for grand winner of Livestock Breeding Project; champion record book exhibited by FFA member to receive $15 pen and pencil set.
In addition to the above, Safety Stores, Inc., will offer a summer school scholarship to any eligible 4-H Club member completing a livestock breeding project. The Lake County Grade A Dairy Association and Lakeview Creamery offer an annual award of a registered dairy heifer to a 4-H member who best qualified under the rules, and who must agree to abide by them.
The Oregon Wool Growers Auxiliary also offers cash awards for the best dinners at which lamb is served in the senior dollar dinner and junior dollar dinner contests.

General Lee Dies In York

YORK, Pa. (AP)—Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee (Ret.), deputy commander under Gen. Eisenhower in Europe during World War II, died Saturday in York Hospital. He was 71.
Lee was admitted to the hospital Aug. 24. Hospital officials said he suffered a cardiac disturbance and had been listed in serious condition since his admission.
The general was born Aug. 1, 1887, at Junction City, Kan.
A member of the Corps of Engineers, he served in numerous posts around the world following his graduation from West Point in 1909. He was on Gen. Leonard Wood's staff in France during World War I.
In the second war, he was deputy commander under Eisenhower in charge of supply and communication in Europe. Later he was named commander of the Mediterranean theater.
Since his retirement in 1947, the general lived in York and was an active layman in the Episcopal church.

Soroptimists Change Title

Soroptimist Club members have received official notification of a change in name to Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Inc. The word international will no longer be used with individual club names, according to Edna Albrecht, local Soroptimist president.
Borghild Helgesen is the new governor of the Northwestern region of Soroptimists clubs of which the Klamath Falls club is a member. She has indicated that Federation President Lily Quarnberg will attend the District 2 meeting to be held on October 11 and 12 at The Dalles.
Grete Ek of Dilling, Ostfold, Norway, Soroptimist exchange student under the American Field Service Program, has arrived at Centralia, Washington.
"She was amazed at all the cars and how Americans can eat so much butter, milk and bread and not be fat," the district governor reported.
Madame Chiang Kai-shek was graduated from Wellesley College in 1917.

TV Quizzes Still Probed

NEW YORK (AP)—Producers of the television quiz show "Twenty-One" have released an 18-month old statement signed by Herbert Stempel, a former contestant, denying his recent allegations that the show was not on the level.
Daniel Enright, co-producer of "Twenty-One," Friday turned over the statement, signed by Stempel March 7, 1957, to New York County Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan.
Enright quoted Stempel as saying in his written statement, "Any questions or answers which I gave were entirely my own and no aid or assistance were rendered to me by Mr. Enright (Dan Enright, the producer) nor any of his staff."
Stempel was quoted in newspapers this week as saying he was coached on answers before he went on the air and then was told to miss a question that enabled Charles van Doren to eliminate him.
A statement issued Friday by Enright said that "other evidence is still being studied by the district attorney's office."
The New York Daily Mirror Saturday quoted Stempel as saying: "Enright told me if I would sign the letter he would get me a job on the TV program 'Tic-Tac-Dough' at $250 a week."
The newspaper added that the job never developed.
A spokesman for "Twenty-One" said Stempel never was promised a job. He said Stempel was used on two shows — after he lost out on "Twenty-One" — to warm up audiences but that he "froze the audience more than he warmed them."
The district attorney's office' investigation of TV shows stemmed from a complaint by a former contestant of the now defunct "Dotto" quiz program.

Portland Jail Hit By Jury

PORTLAND (AP)—A county grand jury Friday said Portland city jail prisoners live in crowded, squalid quarters without proper sanitation.
The jury, in a report capping a three-month investigation, also criticized a juvenile home here and the method of transporting prisoners from the county jail.
Its main criticism, however, was aimed at the city jail—which it said was built in 1912 to house 35 prisoners.
"On the day we visited the place," the jury's report said, "we saw 125 men confined in one dormitory on one of the hottest days of the year, with only one toilet and one shower."
"The odor from that particular quarter combined with the stench from the kitchen was beyond description."
Mayor Terry Schrank commented that the jail is crowded, but that it is undergoing a $132,000 remodeling program.
"I don't see how they (the jury) could help but notice the workmen on the job there. We'll have more adequate quarters," Schrank said.
The mayor also said that a four-story addition to the jail will be built if a $600,000 bond issue is approved by voters in the November election.
The jury, however, shrugged off the issue.
The report said: "We are certainly convinced that another $600,000 is just a little bigger patch in trying to rehabilitate an impossible building."
The city jail has been criticized steadily by grand juries for the past two years. The Friday report, however, contained the most stinging criticism.
Included in the latest probe was the county jail at Rocky Butte, which the jury said was in fine condition.
However, the jury was critical of prisoners being chained together openly while being transported from a bus to the courthouse in downtown Portland.
"There should be some arrangement to unload these prisoners inside without subjecting them to public gaze."
A juvenile home here generally is well run, the jury's report said, but the investigators frowned upon mixing delinquents and dependent children.
"It is quite possible and juvenile home makes as many delinquents as it cures," the report said.
