

Mexico City Student Violence Said To Be Communist Inspired

By JACK RUTLEDGE
MEXICO CITY (AP)—Students and oil workers with separate complaints united in five hours of rioting Friday before police quelled them with gunfire.

A bank employe was killed accidentally when a bullet fired at a mob smashed through a bank window. Hospital authorities said 33 persons were hospitalized with wounds, many from gunfire. Scores of others were known to have been injured by stones, clubs and tear gas grenades.

Most of the rioters were students ostensibly protesting poor bus service, and workers of Pemex, the government oil monopoly, who are involved in a union squabble that has no connection with the student complaints.

More trouble was feared at a student demonstration Saturday that may attract sympathizing railway hands, telegraphers, teachers and oil workers. Student leaders predicted 100,000 persons would show up in a downtown plaza for the demonstration.

The leftist-led railway union, which has cheered all the dissident groups, raised the threat of another strike on the nationalized railways, paralyzed twice in recent months by wildcat walkouts. The Communist party, blamed by many as prime instigator of the riots, endorsed action by both the students and oil workers.

One bright spot for harassed authorities was an announcement by city bus drivers that they were postponing their strike slated for Sunday until after President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines' state of the union address Monday. The drivers voted to strike in retaliation for student action that caused the government to cancel a half-cent fare boost, costing them a promised salary raise.

The first fight broke out Friday in front of Pemex headquarters when workers tried to break into the building and accused police of cruelty in tear gassing dissident workers in rioting Thursday. Two factions of oil workers have been fighting for control of their union.

Police and firemen broke up the Pemex crowd, which reportedly included students, railway workers, telegraphers and teachers. The demonstrators gathered, however, and students captured a bus and set it afire. Demonstrators hurled bricks against police tear gas. There was hand-to-hand fighting, with police using clubs. Police arrested several persons for the bus burning. Then a youth of about 14 shouted: "We must rescue a companion held by the judicial police. Let's go and rescue him. Stones, sticks, clubs, bottles. Forward, companions!"

A mob of about 1,000 advanced on the federal district attorney's office. With tear gas and clubs unable to stop them, police fired about 100 shots into the crowd and laid down a heavy tear gas barrage. One of the shots hit the bank clerk.

Several other demonstrations swirled into clashes later as more troops were rushed into the center of the city. A meeting of about 2,000 workers turned into a riot and a police car was attacked. But by evening the situation had quieted.

Many tourists were reported leaving and a travel agency official said he feared cancellations by incoming tourists would begin soon.

War Orphans Plan Listed

Between 9,000 and 10,000 young men and women are expected to apply for schooling this fall under the two-year old War Orphans Education program, Veterans Administration announced today.

The education program for sons and daughters of deceased war veterans became effective in October, 1956.

War Orphan students generally must be between 18 and 23 years of age, VA said. They either must have completed or have been a pupil in a regular high school. They may receive up to 36 months of education, with VA paying an allowance of up to $110 a month for each month they are at school.

Before they start school, they will be given vocational counseling to help them select a goal and the proper course leading to the goal.

To be eligible, their veteran parent must have died from a wartime-incurred disability.

Black Widows Found In KF

Another black widow spider has been found in Klamath Falls.

Mrs. H. B. Brumble, 1709 El Dorado, telephoned the Herald and News on Saturday to report the discovery. The spider was uncovered when she lifted a piece of masonite which was covering a ladder being used for a drag to prepare a section of the back yard for planting to lawn.

The widow was chiefly concerning itself with its web, she said and showed no pugilistic tendencies until a neighbor, who had come to her assistance, started to remove it. He used two sticks and transferred the spider to a bottle.

"If the picture of the little girl and that other spider had not been published, I wouldn't have recognized this as a black widow," Mrs. Brumble said. "When people know there are some around, they will be more careful, particularly where children are concerned."

MARY KAY KRUGER of Malin, high school junior and 16 years old, is a candidate for queen of the Tulelake-Butte Valley Fair, officially opening Friday night, September 5. The new monarch is to be named at a free dance at Tulelake, Monday night, September 1. The dance is being sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mary Kay, one of four contestants, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Kruger. She is sponsored by the Malin Post, American Legion.

Rockets Test Outer Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—The second of two test rockets fired within two hours soared aloft early Saturday in an intense scientific effort believed aimed eventually at putting a man in space.

The Air Force said the rockets were of the same type as those fired Aug. 15 and last Tuesday. That meant they were five-stage vehicles sent up to explore the "exosphere," the thin part of the earth's atmosphere starting 400 miles up.

Primary purpose of the test series the Air Force said, is to measure radiation with a view toward learning how to protect a human space traveler. The rockets were fired by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA).

An American scientist who returned from the International Astronautical Congress in Amsterdam, The Netherlands, said Russia is working furiously to put a man in space by next spring. He said that project has received top government priority in Russia.

Bypass Move Poses Fight

A special Friday afternoon session of the city council passed three ordinances directing the California Oregon Power Company, Oregon Water Corporation and the Cal-Pacific Utilities to relocate their facilities to prepare for construction of the west side bypass. Threat of a law suit hangs over the move since the utilities have indicated they do not intend to bear the sole cost of such relocation. They contend that such costs should be borne by either the city of Klamath Falls or the State Highway Department.

The ordinances directed the companies to begin relocation of their facilities within 15 days and proceed as expeditiously as possible. Next step was expected to be a denial by the utilities to comply with the directive, thus throwing the question to the courts.

Letting of the contract for bypass construction work is being held up pending clarification of this problem.
