Another farewell party was given for the Michaelsons by members of the Alturas Chapel of Seventh Day Adventists at the Surprise Valley Electrification Corporation, after bad weather had caused the planned outdoor party to seek protection from the elements. C. J. Hunter, manager of the corporation, offered the group the use of his building.

Missionaries To Orient Will Address Methodists

The Rev. and Mrs. John Pow-drill, missionaries to the Orient, will be at the Klamath Falls Free Methodist Church Sunday, September 7, for both morning and evening services, 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to be present to hear the visitors.

"No people are more difficult to win to the Christian faith than the Moslems," say Rev. and Mrs. John Powdrill. Christian missionaries have been known to labor among the Moslems for many years without any or with only few converts.

Rev. and Mrs. John Powdrill have been in South India serving with World Gospel Mission, an interdenominational mission with international headquarters in Marion, Indiana.

Mrs. Powdrill first went to Chungking, China, as a missionary of WGM in 1947. (She was then Miss Edith Glen.) When the Communists moved into West China in 1949, she went to India to serve with WGM workers there. She returned to the United States in 1952 for deputational ministries. In 1953 she went back to India and was married to the Rev. Powdrill who had been appointed in 1951 to serve in India with WGM.

Rev. Powdrill went to India as a member of the Royal Air Force during World War II. Though he was reared in a Christian home in England, he states that he was not converted until he was in India. Through the influence of the South India Bible Institute, a WGM school, he entered missionary service.

The Powdrills have studied the language of the Moslem people in India and have lived among them for some time.

Ship's Captain Takes Size Cut

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—After 40 years at sea, Capt. Bernard Roberts, 55, Daytona Beach, Fla., is taking a voluntary 96 per cent cut. Not in salary. Ship size.

Roberts normally commands the 528-foot tanker Esso Scranton. He planned to embark today in his newly purchased yacht, Seylax—a 20-foot inboard job.

The skipper and his daughter, Lillian, 18, figure the trip home, via the inland route, will take nearly three weeks.

Murderer Slays Self

NEW YORK (AP)—George Allen, 50-year-old housepainter who shot and killed a young immigrant girl on upper Broadway yesterday, died eight hours later after putting a bullet in his own head.

Allen, who corresponded with dozens of women through lonely hearts clubs, fired three bullets into Veronika Gruebel, 23, who came here from West Germany early last year. Allen then turned the gun on himself. He died at Knickerbocker Hospital.

Michael Mullen, 39, a friend of Allen, said Allen and the girl became engaged last year but broke up over, among other things, Allen's drinking.

Allen had left a note in his room reading "Everything I own belongs to Mike Mullen."

Mullen wryly told police: "He didn't own anything. He owed me $40 or $50."

Unearthly Fires Mullied By Chief

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Lexington Fire Chief Earl McDaniel is thinking about unearthly blazes.

He told the State Firemen's Assn. annual convention yesterday fire fighters may have to develop a fire department suitable for conditions on the moon within as little as five years.

"Today's fire fighters," he said, "must soon have extinguisher devices designed to fight fires in outer space."

Alaska Whale Has Mate Woe

NEW YORK (AP)—Bertha the whale did fine in flight, but now she's having pool-mate trouble.

Bertha II, a year-old Alaskan Beluga whale, arrived by cargo airliner yesterday from Los Angeles and was hauled to the New York Aquarium at Coney Island.

Reclining on a rubber foam mat and wrapped in muslin, Bertha stood the air trip very well—unlike Bertha I, which died in flight en route here recently. Dr. Carleton Roy, assistant to the aquarium director, sat by Bertha II, sprinkling her at frequent intervals with some Pacific Ocean water brought aboard.

Everything was just dandy until Bertha, 6 feet 7 inches and weighing 400 pounds, dunked herself in the 40-by-60-foot aquarium pool.

Bertha was confronted by Olaf the walrus, a foot longer and weighing in at 1,200 pounds.

At full growth a Beluga whale—which becomes white at maturity—may reach 18 feet in length and weigh 2,500 pounds. But right now Bertha is outgunned and out-weighted.

Olaf took a gander at Bertha and poked his small tusks into her side. Bertha submerged under a large raft.

Olaf's belligerent greeting caused aquarium officials to give Bertha a 24-hour guard. Bertha and Olaf were put together because of lack of a second large pool. Meanwhile, the aquarium folks are hoping Olaf will learn to tolerate Bertha, the first live whale exhibited here since 1897.

U.S. Capitol Unrecognized

WASHINGTON (AP)—A worried looking, camera-bedecked tourist told a guard, "I've been in the building 30 minutes and still don't know what it is."

It was the United States Capitol. Happens all the time, the guard said. "They come in, look around, and you'd be amazed how many ask 'What building is this?' Yeah, American tourists."

This started an informal pool of Capitol policemen, guards, elevator boys and aides. Their consensus: "You'd be amazed at the number of Americans that don't know their nation's Capitol when they see it."

One tourist, looking at the Capitol where it's been sitting patiently through millions of pictures for more than 150 years, asked indignantly: "Why don't they put a sign on the building?"

The office of the Capitol architect says the number of tourists in the building averages from 10,000 to 15,000 a day over a year's time.

Capitol employees agreed that a lot of people thought the Capitol was the White House or at least a place where the President kept his office.

"They don't know he just comes up maybe once a year," a guard said.
