

Resignation Of Ike Aide Strange, Drama-Packed

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Whether Sherman Adams quits or stays, it's one of the strangest cases in a long time—packed with drama.
As was the case 10 days ago right after the Republican political disaster in the Maine elections, no one close to President Eisenhower would bet you that Adams would weather the storm and continue as Eisenhower's chief aide.
Those in the inner circle insist they just don't know. What is more, they insist that Eisenhower himself doesn't know—simply because, they say, Adams hasn't told the President.
There is the drama. These presidential lieutenants in Newport have said repeatedly that Eisenhower never will take the initiative and tell Adams he is through. They said Adams will have to make up his own mind.

They picture the wiry, white-haired Adams as going through the greatest agony of his 59 years in trying to reach a decision.
The background, of course, is that last June a congressional investigating committee nailed down that Adams had accepted costly gifts and favors from an old friend, Bernard Goldfine, at a time when the Boston industrialist was in trouble before federal regulatory agencies.
Adams acknowledged getting gifts and favors. But he testified he never exerted on whit of influence in behalf of Goldfine. He said he made only routine inquiries about Goldfine's difficulties.
At a Washington news conference June 18, Eisenhower said Adams had been imprudent but that nevertheless "I need him."
That might have ended it, despite the clamor on the part of a good many GOP candidates that Adams had to go.
Then on Sept. 8 in Maine, the Republicans were shellacked by the Democrats. The Goldfine case was an indirect issue there, and GOP candidates in other states set up a new howl for Adams' scalp.

Since that howl started, Eisenhower has been publicly silent. He called the Republican setback in Maine a beating there is no use trying to disguise.
But all indications at the summer White House are that no one close to him knows whether he has changed his mind about Adams having to stay on because "I need him."
For the first time since Adams returned to his Washington office Monday after a 10-day vacation, the President and Adams talked yesterday—by telephone.
They had not consulted since Sept. 6, when Eisenhower interrupted his vacation and returned to the capital for a few hours. That was two days before the Maine elections.
James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, told a Newport news conference the Eisenhower-Adams conversation yesterday dealt only with government business—that it touched in no way on the big question of whether Adams is in or out.
Earlier in the day, Hagerty said he still had not the slightest indication that Adams might be planning to resign—or that Eisenhower might fire him.

Hagerty put it that way in commenting on a Washington report that GOP leaders had prevailed on Adams to recognize that he has no alternative but to resign for the party's good.

DR. NICHOLAS NYARADI

Knife, Fork Season Opens

Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi, possibly the only man ever to beat the Russians out of anything in a financial way—some 130 million dollars at the close of World War II—and who has just returned from an investigation trip to Europe, will be the guest speaker at the first meeting of the 1958-59 season of the Knife and Fork Club, Friday evening at the Willard Hotel, beginning at 6:45.

Following World War II Dr. Nyaradi spent seven months in Moscow, in contact and conference with Stalin's henchmen over a reparations claim the Soviets had unfairly levied on Hungary. Day after day, Nyaradi argued against the Soviet ministers, including Molotov. Finally the claim was reduced to approximately one-fourth its original amount.

In this country, Dr. Nyaradi continues to fight the encroachment of communism. He is professor of economics and director of the Institute of International Studies at Bradley University, Peoria, Illinois, and has written articles revealing the Russian plans for the Saturday Evening Post, Fortune, Liberty and other leading magazines. He is also author of the book, published in 1952, "My Ring-side Seat in Moscow."

Dr. Nyaradi's subject for Friday is: "Inflation, deflation, foreign aid—and the future." He will be introduced by T. S. Durnant at the meeting presided over by Ross Ragland. The Rev. Dallas McNeil will give the invocation.

Seattle Pair Die In Blaze

SEATTLE (AP)—Hilliard Riehe, 49, and his wife, Winifred, 42, were suffocated Wednesday night in their burning home near Lake Lucerne, 20 miles southeast of here.

Riehe's body was found near the door of the five-room frame home. He apparently was overcome while attempting to reach safety. His wife's body was found on a bed.

Two men, William Bailey and Jack Murray, attempted to enter the house and rescue the couple but were forced back by the intense flames.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

Van Of History To Start Tour

OREGON CITY (AP)—The Van of History, which was dedicated in a ceremony in front of the McLoughlin House here Wednesday, will leave on a tour of Eastern Oregon later this week.

The van—a trailer loaded with exhibits of Oregon's past—is sponsored by the Oregon Historical Society and the Oregon Centennial Commission. A number of business firms also have contributed.

Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore) was principal speaker at the dedication ceremony.

RED AMBASSADOR
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov, visiting a Western movie set, asked: "Are those buildings real?"
He was taken in back and shown they were merely false fronts.
Menshikov appeared intrigued yesterday as he watched Audie Murphy, war hero turned actor, engage in a hand-to-hand battle with the movie's villain, Charles Drake.
The Soviet envoy arrived here by train Tuesday for a brief, 40-forge visit.
