Two Local Men Go On Trial

The jury trial of two Klamath Falls men, formally charged with vagrancy, opened before Judge D. E. Van Vactor in district court Thursday.

The defendants, both 22, are Thomas John Skens, 4623 Cannon Street, and Wesley Elwood Sime, 4319 Altamont Drive. They are being tried jointly on separate but identical complaints that they "used abusive and obscene language" on a barge in Klamath Lake last July 13.

The complaints were filed by Mrs. Alice Oliver, a lakeside resident, who said the defendants raised considerable disturbance early that Sunday morning. Officers said they finally arrested the pair on a far side of the lake.

Skens and Sime were represented by Attorney David R. Vandenberg Jr. The state was represented by District Attorney Arthur A. Reddie.

Wocus Resident Visits Station

Noel Elmer Kookon of Wocus made two visits to the city police station Wednesday, both unanticipated.

Officers said Kookon first appeared at noon to report $32 missing from his wallet while he was selling bottles to a local distributing company.

Again, at 8:10 p.m., Kookon was driving a car that collided with a tractor-trailer truck driven by Daniel Gilbert Brown, Fort Klamath, at the intersection of Kit Carson Way and Melrose Street, police said.

Officers reported no injuries and no citations.

A clipped reminder that summer is about over was voluntarily served upon at least four city residents last night by unidentified vandals. Police said three residents from 1817 and 1840 Oregon Avenue reported that their garden hoses had been cut between 8 and 9 p.m. A similar report was made by a resident on 2001 Reclamation.

Government Proclaimed

CAIRO (AP) — The Algerian National Liberation Front (FLN) today proclaimed an Algerian government-in-exile to conduct the fight for its independence from France.

A Cabinet headed by 59-year-old Ferhat Abbas as premier was announced simultaneously at a news conference in Cairo and in Tunis and Morocco.

The Cabinet list included five Algerian rebel leaders now held prisoners by the French.

Abbas read the following declaration: "I have the honor to make this declaration which has been made in Algeria and communicated to all the population on Algerian soil."

"In the name of the Algerian people the National Committee of the Algerian Revolution Algenne decided to form a provisional government representing the Republic of Algeria."

The announcement said the provisional government began its functions at 1 p. m. Algerian time. The Algerian flag — half green and half white and bearing a red crescent and star — was unfurled from the headquarters building here and beside it fluttered the flag of the United Arab Republic.

Abbas said the seat of the government had not yet been fixed, and promised a government declaration of policy next week.

Abbas is a pharmacist with a long record in politics. Mild in appearance and son of a wealthy family, he is rated a moderate. He first advocated equality for Algerians but switched to an independence platform after the French collapse in World War II. He is married to a French woman.

Formation of the new Algerian government raises a whole new series of problems. The question of recognizing it for instance, will cause embarrassment for many nations in their relations with France.

Mishap Hurts KF Visitors

A Montana family visiting Klamath Falls relatives was involved in a damaging automobile accident Thursday at the intersection of Martin and Oak streets, the site of a minor accident just an hour earlier.

Both accidents were reported to police by anonymous callers.

Officers said Mrs. Leigh Taylor, 23, and her daughter Sheryl, 12, were injured when their car (driven by Ted Eugene Paillette, 25, of 2656 Eberlein Avenue, Klamath Falls) was struck by a car driven by Austin Richard Hayden, 43, 231 Division Street.

Three Wives, 7 Children Occupied Writer's Time

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — Another chapter in the romantic story of novelist John McPartland came to light today with the disclosure that the best-selling author had not two but three mates and seven children.

This became known when Mrs. Ida McPartland, Mill Valley, Calif., McPartland's "true wife" and mother of his 10-year-old son, Donald, went to court in nearby Salinas Thursday.

She petitioned to be named special administratrix of the estate. In her petition, she listed as a possible heir to the estate another daughter, Cynthia, "over 21." She told newsmen she knew no other details of this daughter except that she was the child of an "early marriage."

McPartland, author of "No Down Payment," died Sunday at the age of 47. He suffered a heart attack.

News dispatches listed as his survivors his wife, Eleanor, and their five children. Wednesday, Ida appeared on the scene and said she was McPartland's wife and had never been divorced from him. Eleanor confirmed the story.

Ida said McPartland had committed between his two families in Monterey and Mill Valley for the past 10 years.

In her petition, Ida listed Eleanor's five children as "possible heirs."

She asked special letters of administration of the author's estate "because assets of the deceased are in the control of a third person who refuses to disclose their extent and some of which are being used for the benefit of individuals not entitled thereto."

She said the estate is entitled to receive royalties and other benefits from McPartland's contracts "and that the petitioner believes these are being forwarded to individuals not entitled to them."

She did not name the "Third person."

After the brief proceeding, Superior Judge Stanley Lawson named Ida as a special administratrix. She posted a $3,000 bond pending a hearing Oct. 10.

Smoke Perplexes Basin Residents
Residents of the Klamath Basin, and particularly of Klamath Falls, have apparently been curious as to the source of the smoke which they have been smelling since Thursday afternoon. Klamath District Forester Darrel K. Frewing hopes to save some people the trouble of telephoning his office by notifying Basinites that the Forest Service is to blame — though not the Klamath District at present.

It seems that this is the time of year in which the Forest Service burns off its "clear cuts" — an important part of the silvicultural preparation of an area for replanting and restocking. This process has now begun on the west side of the slope near Butte Falls, Prospect and Union Creek. There will be a bit of smoke drifting in, whenever the wind is right for the next couple of weeks unless there is a hard rain. Two weeks is the approximate length of time it will take the various districts near here to complete their burning. The Klamath District being about the last to do so, since this is a relatively dry area. In this district, the area drained by Three Mile Creek is to be cleared.

The Forest Service is assigning all its available manpower to the burning projects at present. This weekend, three Klamath District foresters are helping the Union Creek District.

VICTIM FINE

Harvey H. Hood, about 20, was described as "doing fine" Friday morning at Klamath Valley Hospital, where he was admitted during the night, after being knifed, apparently in his home town of Chiloquin. Hood received serious wounds in the abdomen. State police said they had been told by Chiloquin authorities that Hood had been knifed by Thomas Campbell, but that no complaint was on file.

MEXICO ELECTIONS

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Local union elections indicated today that letting extremists win control of the powerful Oil workers' Union here.

In two locals this week, leftists have won elections by margins as great as 13 to 1.

Union Rebels Expulsion Set

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — The stage was set today for expulsion of a rebel union group branded as "traitors" by an angry convention of the United Steelworkers of America.

Delegates Thursday roared their approval of a resolution which set in motion the machinery to cast from its ranks the dissident group which has opposed the leadership of President David J. McDonald.

The rebel bloc is headed by Donald C. Rarick, McKeesport, Pa., millworker, who polled nearly a quarter of a million votes in his unsuccessful bid to unseat McDonald last year.

Rarick, a brawny six-footer, remained defiant on the convention floor as 3,500 shouting delegates stood up, booed him lustily and waved "goodbye."

"I'm not worried," he yelled above the din, "I know the rank and file will back us up throughout the country."

The opposition faction, which operated under the title of the Dues Protest Committee, was accused in the resolution of trying to "undermine" the union and "slander" its officials.

If Housewives Quit Jobs, U.S. Economy Would Fail

WASHINGTON (AP) — If all the nation's working wives quit their jobs, the economy would collapse.

The National Manpower Council says this and adds that without this womanpower "we would not be able to perform the essential services needed."

The council's forecast is that more and more married women workers—their number about 13 million—will be called into the labor force.

The council, established by the Ford Foundation, has just published a 220-page book "Work in the Lives of Married Women." It is based on a womanpower conference of more than 80 experts held last year.

The experts said so far there is no indication of any relation between employment of mothers and juvenile delinquency or maladjustment of children. They also said that a wife works can't be blamed for the breakup of a marriage.

The experts said there's been a womanpower revolution and no wonder what is thought of mothers working "it's hard to reverse a revolution."

They cited lots of reasons why married women work besides keeping the wolf from the door: it helps buy TV sets, cars, medical care. But whatever the reason, the council said its helping attains "a generally more desirable standard of living."

They are worried, however, that society will take advantage of the benefit in women's work but "not be sufficiently sensitive to the accompanying problems of child care and development."

The council said it is evident "the ways and means of caring for the children of working mothers are inadequate." Especially in lower-income families. It said further that public interest in remedying the situation is slight.

The experts felt women with children under 6 couldn't really expect to hold down a full-time job and give proper care to their children.

They suggested some maternal support program might be needed to help the young mother who otherwise might have to go to work to keep the wolf from the door.
