LAKEVIEW — Representatives of counties in District 2, Association of County Judges and Commissioners, met in Lakeview September 17 to discuss various topics of interest to the area.

A report was made by Forrest E. Cooper, counsel for the state association on developments, concerning the move to have the annual receipts from national forests reallocated. The group opposes any change from the present division on the basis of 75 per cent to county roads and 25 per cent to schools.

A recommendation was made to the state association that a plan be studied for the employment of a full-time executive staff, and to consider affiliation with the Bureau of Municipal Research at the University of Oregon.

A report on plans of the Legislative Judicial Interim Committee to propose wide changes in the set-up of Oregon courts before the next Legislature, was made by County Judge H. C. Fowler of Crook County. A careful study of the proposals was suggested to determine if there were any in conflict with the best interests of the counties and county courts.

The meeting was presided over by Judge H. A. Dussault, Jefferson County, chairman of the district. Secretary was F. L. Phipps of The Dalles, executive secretary of the state association.

Attending the meeting were Judge C. L. Allen and Commissioners D. L. Penhollow and T. C. Shepard, Deschutes County; Judge Charles Mack and Commissioners Jerry V. Rajanus and E. W. Gowen, Klamath County; Judge C. W. Craddock and Commissioner Lee Williams of Harney County; Judge H. C. Fowler and Commissioners Luke M. Reif and Melvin Seberg of Crook County; Judge C. H. Langseth and Commissioners C. W. Ogle and Jewell Corum of Lake County.

Safety Rally Meet Slated

GILCHRIST—To stimulate local interest in accident prevention, an industrial safety rally will be held in the Gilchrist Theater at 7 p.m., September 23. The meeting is being sponsored by the Gilchrist Lumber Company, the State Industrial Accident Commission, and other local groups.

The program will be highlighted with a short address by Commissioner L. O. Arens of the Accident Commission and an electrical demonstration by Claude Haggard, safety director of the California Oregon Power Company, Medford. Both Arens and Haggard are well known in the area for their work in safety.

Other features of the evening meeting at the theater will include free movies and coffee and doughnuts.

The program planners stated that the meeting will be one of entertainment and very beneficial, safety wise, to those wishing to attend. Workers are urged to come and bring their wives. "It doesn't cost anything to learn about safety," one committee member stated.

Demo Candidate To Be Speaker

DORRIS—Alan Cranston, Democratic candidate for the office of state controller, will be guest speaker Monday, September 22, at 8 p.m. at a meeting of the Siskiyou County Democratic Club in Weed's Senior Hall.

A former head of the California Democratic Council, a representative of the Democratic clubs throughout the state, Cranston will oppose Republican Robert C. Kirkwood, incumbent state controller, in the November 4 general election.

Judge Harry Hammond of Yreka, president of the county Democratic club, said plans for a "Dollars for Democrats" campaign in Siskiyou County September 26 through October 1 will also be laid and area captains for the drive appointed at the meeting.

Hammond said a precinct-by-precinct analysis of primary results from the June election will be completed before November by a committee of the county club.

"We also plan to extend our membership to areas in Butte and Scott valleys and along the Klamath River, which until now have had no real voice in county Democratic councils," said Hammond. "All Siskiyou County Democrats are cordially invited to attend the Weed meeting and hear one of our party's state candidates," the club president concluded.

A study conducted by Eugene Gilbert and Company, researchers, found that teen-agers consider newspapers to be "most practical" and are "used more now than a year ago."

Donors Will Supply Blood For Heart-Lung Machine

Sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the VFW Auxiliary, the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to Klamath Falls Tuesday and Wednesday will mark the first time residents of this area will be asked to supply blood for the heart-lung machine now in use at the University of Oregon Medical School in Portland. This will be a big event in the life of 7-year-old Cathy, among others. Cathy's home is in eastern Oregon, but she is now a patient in a Portland hospital. She will need 25 pints of blood exactly matched to her own type Wednesday morning.

City Council Meeting Held

MALIN — Malin City Council met September 9 with Mayor Leonard Petrik presiding. Bids were received on the new water main, connecting it to the existing Malin water system and removing and reinstalling the existing 100,000 gallon steel water storage tank. Bids were received from Richard C. McCollam, Merrill; Arthur H. Patterson Jr., Klamath Falls; Houston Construction Company, Portland; and Cascade Boiler Erectors, Inc. of Eugene, jointly with Industrial Mechanical Contractors, Seattle who submitted the successful bid of $23,322. The award was made on September 11 after due consideration by the council.

It was announced that applications for major, city recorder, treasurer and five council seats must be filed with city recorder Ival Taylor by October 3 for the November election. Any information desired about this may be obtained from Taylor or any of the council members.

A "Keep Malin Clean" campaign is now in operation with Kenneth Huffman, Paul McCulley and Dan McAuliffe serving on the committee. All Malinites are asked to check their property for debris and rubbish, and get it cleaned up.

LAST CHANCE
ROME, Italy (AP)—Sex is legal by sale for the last time in Italy today.

The country's "houses of tolerance" must close their doors tonight under the Merlin Act making prostitution illegal.

The coming operation is meant to give Cathy a chance to live the normal life denied a child born with heart defects. During the course of the surgery the new machine takes over the functions of the lungs and heart, pumping blood through Cathy's circulatory system but bypassing the heart. Paralyzing drugs injected into the heart convert it from a busy pump to a quiet, placid organ, open to surgery and repair by the team of skilled specialists who will be performing this surgery repeatedly to correct heart defects in hundreds of Oregon children. The heart can be stopped for a period as long as an hour and 15 minutes for the surgery, during which time the machine takes over its function.

Blood drawn in Klamath Falls for Cathy Tuesday will be flown to Portland the same day. There, technicians will begin the laborious cross-matching techniques to insure that it will blend compatibly with that in the small patient's body. By the end of the surgery, Cathy's blood will have merged with that supplied by the donors in Klamath Falls, and little if any of her original supply will remain in her veins.

Donors who have volunteered blood to the Red Cross previously, and whose blood type, on file at the local chapter headquarters, corresponds to Cathy's, have been asked to contribute blood again. Long before the operation is completed for Cathy, the Klamath residents who donated the blood will have returned to their usual activities, with healthy normal bodies busily rebuilding their supply of the life-giving fluid which Cathy must have.

Donors hours at the VFW Club, 515 Klamath Avenue, are from 4 to 8 p.m. Tuesday and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday. Donors are asked to call the Red Cross office, TU 4-4125 for their appointments.
