

Time In Service Was Good Experience

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What makes a funnyman funny? Take the case of Louis Nye, the hep comic who helps brighten the Steve Allen hours. He is one of those rare comedians who can evoke laughter with the simplest of lines or even his mere appearance on the screen.

Yet he is no life-of-the-party type. Few real comedians are. Here for a couple of Hollywood origins of the Allen show, he discussed comedy with the serious articulation of a Madison Avenue ad man such as he has portrayed on TV.

To Nye, getting laughs is a matter of serious analysis of human foibles. He began early, playing in summer stock and on radio.

More often than not, he played an intense juvenile. But the Army made him realize that comedy was his strong suit.

"I was stationed at a camp near a wild town in Missouri," he recalled. "I was in charge of the recreation hall, and I had to make the entertainment good enough to keep the young soldiers from going into town. It was a challenge and I worked hard at it. For the first time, I realized I had the ability to make people laugh."

He got more valuable experience in the Army by touring with "Winged Victory" and entertaining in hospitals. At war's end, he went back to radio and night clubs but with only mediocre success.

Fortunately, the Allen show came along and Nye was raised from merely reliable to a sure-fire laugh-getter with his Gordon Hathaway and other guises.

The question is: Where does he go from here?

"I'm under contract to the Allen show," he remarked, "but it's a strange kind of a contract. They can break it or I can break it any time. I like working with Steve and I hope to continue. I'll be happy to come out to Hollywood when Steve brings the show here next year—if they ask me."

Posters Replace Welcome Sign

HARLAN, Ky. (AP)—The "Welcome to Bloody Harlan" sign has been replaced by two more routine posters.

Republican State Rep. H. Nick Johnson erected the "Bloody Harlan" sign a few weeks ago on the theory tourists would be attracted to the area once marked by violent coal strikes during the '30s.

After civic howls Johnson painted out the word "bloody."

The city completed the sugary version by putting up a sign calling attention to Harlan's "good churches, good schools and the world's best coal."

Hanford Atomic Scientists Ask Tough Academic Slate

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — A stiffer program of science, mathematics and foreign languages beginning with the seventh-grade level is urged in a report issued this week by a group of Hanford Atomic Works scientists.

Aimed at schools in general, the 10-page report suggested an increase in science study even below the seventh grade.

It was issued by the Royal Society of Richland, an informal organization of 107 Hanford physicists and managers with training in physics.

The report calls for more effort in motivating students toward science by better counseling. And

BPW Hosts Fall Meeting

LAKEVIEW — The Lakeview Business and Professional Women's Club was host Saturday and Sunday, September 20 and 21, for the annual fall conference of the Southern Oregon District. A large group of out-of-town guests were present for the planned activities, and represented the cities of Klamath Falls, Medford, Ashland, Grants Pass, Myrtle Point, Eugene, Dallas and Corvallis.

Registration at 5:30 September 20 at Hunter's Lodge was followed by a dinner there at 6:30. The Lakeview Club president, Peggy Strieby, welcomed the visitors. The school days theme was carried out in appropriate costumes, with the prize for the most outstanding one given to Harriett Watson, district chairman, of Medford.

Elise Downing, state president, Myrtle Point, spoke on the state conference and introduced the visitors. A talk on "State Public Relations" was given by Bea Ottoway of Dallas. Two oriental scholars, Ma Tin Pa of Burma, and Soo Jae Moon of Korea, and their escort, Mrs. Frances Spring of Corvallis, were introduced. The two young women are attending Oregon State College under scholarships sponsored by the Oregon BPW Clubs.

"Career Advancement" was the topic of the talk by Mrs. Downing at the breakfast meeting Sunday morning at Van's. She also told of plans for the slate convention to be held in May at Medford. The clubs' part in the Oregon Centennial was also discussed.

The musical program consisted of vocal solos by Leola Thompson of Klamath Falls and Laura York of Medford.

Out-of-town guests included Kathleen Ward, Dolly Cox, Beulah McElhott, Isabelle Brixner, Frances Taylor, Edith Dyer, Louise Mitchell, Gene Brisco, Doris Abernathy, Velma Fenner, Alice Frons, Lillian White, Leola Thompson, all of the Klamath Falls club; Fern Trull, Gwen Parsons and Ellen Maron of Grants Pass; Elise Downing, Julia Duke, Rebecca Evans, Wilma Forrest, Mae Dawson and Zephira Pierson of Myrtle Point.

Laura York, Vida Brown, Grace Stahr, Harriett Watson, Jean Mast, Nell Faulkner, Marie Preston, Muriel Sherridge and Idella Edgar of Medford; Lucille Norton, June Smith, Lillian Hanson and Margaret Moore of Eugene; Bea Ottoway of Dallas; Frances Spring of Corvallis, and the two foreign students, Ma Tin Pa of Burma and Soo Jae Moon of Korea.

During the flood last year, organizations and individuals pitched in and donated warm clothing, hot food and services to hundreds of migrant workers who were stranded in Tulelake. The county gave over $1,000 cash as well as other necessities. The Butte Valley VFW Auxiliary clothed dozens of families and operated a soup kitchen.

Actors Appeal To Gas Station

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne State University's movie studio is located next to a service station.

Whenever the movie makers plan to shoot a film they send someone next door to ask the people in the gas station not to use their hydraulic lift. It seems that the extra electricity needed to operate the lift fouls up the current and the technicians can't run their cameras.

Russian Engineer Disapproves Of Dam

PORTLAND (AP) — Some Columbia River basin dams are too massive, too uneconomical because they use too much concrete, a Soviet Russian engineer said today.

Ignaty T. Novikov, Soviet deputy minister of power stations, said, after touring Columbia projects, Russian engineers combine the spillway and the power station. This, he said, reduced the concrete needed to a narrow center section.

on Large Dams of the World Power Conference.

"By controlling the storage the flow is even, allowing dams to produce to capacity the year around," he continued. "But for us it is easy. There are no private companies. The government does it all."

Novikov praised the engineering at the Swift Dam being built on the Lewis River in southwestern Washington by the Pacific Power & Light Co. It will be an earth filled structure with a 250,000 kilowatt capacity, but only during winter rains.

The general scheme of development of the Columbia Basin is good, Novikov said, but the lack of upriver storage facilities is bad.

"We always have as our aim to have a large storage capacity at the head of the river," he said.

Novikov said Soviet dams, because of upriver storage, can produce to capacity throughout the year.

"You have no very large storage capacity at the head of your Columbia Basin. You should do something about this," he said.

Novikov told of the giant Kuivshayev and Stalingrad dams on the Volga River, each to have a 2,300,000 kilowatt capacity when completed.

Speaking freely in Russian, he said, "We had to build very long dams with low crests because a high dam would inundate a very large area of the surrounding plain."
