

Military Dignitaries Honored Guests At Kingsley Air Base Reception

CONGRESSMAN Al Ullman and Mrs. Ullman pose with Colonel and Mrs. Jack W. Williams.

SOCIETY

BRIG. GEN. CURTIS R. LOW, at left, explains a base operation to Mrs. Lawrence Slater and Mayor Slater, right.

LT. COL. RAYMOND A. THORNTON, executive officer at Kingsley Field, and Mrs. Thornton.

Officer's Club Is Scene Of Gala Evening Affair

A delightful event of the autumn season took place at the officer's club at Kingsley Air Force Base Friday night, September 26. The fireplace of the club was the background for the refreshment table which was centered with an artistic arrangement of autumn flowers and native grasses, flanked by tall candles.

A visiting general and a new commander at the base were the incentive for the affair. Local civic leaders were among those invited by Col. Raymond A. Thornton, executive officer, and his staff, to greet Col. and Mrs. Jack W. Williams and Brig. Gen. Curtis R. Low, commander of the 28th Air Division, who was visiting from Hamilton Air Force Base. Mrs. Williams and their four children accompanied Colonel Williams to Kingsley Field where he was recently transferred from Ladd Field, Anchorage, Alaska.

A FOURSOME caught by the camera were, left to right, OTI Director Winston D. Purvine; Lt. Col. W. R. Wilkinson, director of military personnel; Red Cross Executive Secretary Mrs. Virginia Dixon, and Mrs. Purvine.

MRS. JACK WILLIAMS, left, chats with Klamath County Judge Charles Mack and Mrs. Mack.

— Reception Photos by M.Sgt. Charles Bennett of Kingsley Field

MRS. FRANK TUCKER, center, talks with Lt. Col. Leland Raphun, director of operations, while Klamath County Chamber of Commerce Manager R. Frank Tucker, at the left, listens.

AMONG THE GUESTS enjoying the evening were, left to right, Mr. and Mrs. Dugan, Mrs. Dick Rader and Dick Rader.