UN May Talk Of Bomb Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — A debate on terms and timing of any general suspension of nuclear weapon tests is shaping up in the U. N. Assembly. India and the Soviet Union have introduced resolutions under which the Assembly would call on the nuclear powers to stop such tests immediately. But Britain and the United States have offered to stop tests only on Oct. 31, when they are to start talks with the Soviet Union in Geneva about an agreement for controlled suspension of the test explosions. The talks were arranged after Communist and Western scientists agreed in Geneva Aug. 21 that it was technically feasible to establish a control system that would detect violations of a ban on tests. The Soviet and Indian resolutions will be taken up first in the Assembly's Political Committee, which begins work Wednesday. Disarmament debate in the committee and in the Assembly may finish before the Geneva talks begin. Both proposals say continued testing increases the hazards of atomic radiation and the spread of nuclear weapons capable of annihilation. The Indian resolution proposes that the Assembly (1) call for immediate suspension of the testing of atomic and hydrogen weapons pending an agreement at Geneva; (2) urge the Big Three to reach such an agreement urgently and report it back so the Assembly can extend the ban to other countries; and (3) ask other countries not to start tests meanwhile. The vaguer Soviet resolution would have the Assembly (1) call upon all countries now holding nuclear tests to discontinue them immediately; (2) recommend that the nuclear powers negotiate "an appropriate agreement among themselves"; and (3) ask all countries to adhere to that agreement. A U. S. delegate experienced in disarmament negotiations said he did not expect either resolution to get much of a vote. "An overt move to have the Assembly dictate to the Geneva conference is not calculated to help the negotiations," he said.

Two Deaths Mar Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Oregon counted two hunters dead, four wounded and one apparently lost in the first week-end of buck season. A Medford teenager was the first gunshot victim. He was Frank Elmer Lane, 14, who was killed in an accident near Medford a few hours after hunting season opened Saturday. State police said that a gun held by a hunting companion, Earl Thomas Dalton, 14, also of Medford, accidentally discharged as the youths were resting in the woods. Lane was wounded in the abdomen and died shortly afterward. Police said Dalton told them that he was checking the safety catch on his rifle when it suddenly fired. Ornell Oliver Standard, 69, was the first hunter seizure victim of the season. Standard, his wife and son, Glen, were climbing a mountain while on a hunting trip south of Bonanza. Standard said he felt ill and they returned to the car. He died en route to a Klamath Falls hospital. Three hunters suffered non-fatal gunshot wounds in Southern Oregon Sunday. Leon James Richardson Jr., 36, of Klamath Falls was the most seriously hurt. He was accidentally shot in the chest by another hunter, Burt Moore of Lakeview, according to the report of Lake County Dist. Atty. Julian Hendon. Richardson was reported in critical condition. Mike Shreeve of Medford suffered a self-inflicted pistol bullet wound in the thigh while hunting near Bly. Carl Webb Jr., Lakeview, suffered a flesh wound in the right ankle when he was shot by another hunter in the Gearhart Mountain area. On Saturday, Einor Fred Mickelson, 16, of Bridal Veil, was hit in the leg by a bullet which had passed through a deer. The accident occurred in the Tillamook Burn. The missing hunter is Don Shimmer of Portland. He disappeared early Saturday while hunting with two companions in the Tillamook Burn. Bloodhounds, called in to aid the search, followed his trail to a nearby road. Searchers speculated Shimmer might have been picked up by a passing motorist. In addition to these mishaps, a youth was killed in an automobile accident just south of the Oregon-California border Saturday. He was Byron Wilson, 15, of Dorris, Calif., a student at Portland's Hill Military Academy. He was crushed when a jeep in which he was a passenger on a hunting trip overturned.

Judge Levies Prison Terms

Circuit Judge David H. Vandenberg sentenced three defendants to the state penitentiary Monday. Glen Hatch was sentenced to four years for forgery. James Herbert Hixon was sentenced to two years for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Lew Hatfield was sentenced to two years on an original charge of obtaining money by false pretenses after admitting he had violated probation. Both the defense and the state recommended probation for Hixon, but the request was denied. "I grant probation whenever I can," the judge said. "Don't see how I can in this case." Hatch, 41, of Chiloquin, was found guilty of filling in for $125 a blank check signed by rancher Ora Summers last January 26. He was found guilty by Judge Vandenberg after waiving his right to a jury trial. Hatfield, 518 Owens Street, Klamath Falls, had pleaded guilty to violating conditions of his probation, which included drinking, writing bad checks, and a subsequent arrest for drunken driving in Washington. Once before he had broken probation conditions, but had been given another chance by the judge. Hixon, 25, of 500 North Fifth Street, changed his plea from innocent to guilty in a hearing September 26. He was accused of spending a night in a motel with a 15-year-old boy whom he had met on a street and for whom he had bought beer.

Police Probe Burglaries

City police were today investigating four instances of breaking in and entering local churches, all discovered this morning. The first to be discovered was the break in at Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Eighth and High streets, where nothing was taken despite various attempts to gain access to store rooms and offertory box. In the process a window was broken, hinges were taken off a door, holes torn in two doors and an abortive attempt made to drill a hole in the floor. Also entered were the First Christian Church, Ninth and Pine streets; the First Methodist Church, Tenth and High streets; and the First Baptist Church, Eighth and Washington streets. In the First Christian Church, the intruders took $5 after breaking into a file cabinet. At the Methodist Church nothing was taken, but again a hole was torn in the church office door, while the pastor's office was jimmied open. No report was yet available on the entry of the Baptist Church. Officers are still investigating the four cases.

Knight, Engle Collide On Debating Platform

By WILLIAM F. TYRRE United Press International OCEANSIDE (UPI) — Rival candidates Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Rep. Clair Engle, both nominees for U. S. senator, opened a final month of bitter California campaigning today after meeting face to face at an editors' meeting where each scored right to work as an issue. Knight rejected fellow Republican Sen. William F. Knowland's stand on the controversial labor proposition, implying his lack of support for Knowland's candidacy to succeed him as governor. Engle, the Red Bluff Democrat, said he also was opposed to this legislation. But he added his belief "that we need laws to guarantee democracy in labor unions... and take out of the Taft-Hartley Law those provisions unfair to organized labor." The no holds barred debate was held Saturday night before some 200 Southern California United Press International Editors (SCUPE) and their guests. Knight charged that when Knowland ran for governor he (Knight) "became completely free and under no obligation to support him (Knowland) on this issue which is not a Republican party issue." "Right to work is a foreign issue in this campaign," said Knight. "By injecting a foreign issue into the campaign, Knowland forfeited any obligation for loyalty to him." "Everybody knows perfectly well an endorsement of Knowland would be construed as an endorsement of right to work, and this I am not required to do, I hope to vote for the best man for governor. I don't know how I'll vote on Knowland. But I will not endorse his campaign." Both Knight and Engle spoke strongly against Eisenhower administration proposals for "partnership" development on tax-burdens such as the Trinity River Project. They agreed that only a joint state-federal program could solve the state's water problem. Engle touched on foreign policy when he said, "Our Far East policy seems only to be that of supporting Chiang (Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek) until there is no longer any Chiang to support." The congressman said he was more concerned with "how we're going to get out of it" rather than "how we got into this fix." After both debaters outlined their positions on various issues for SCUPE, they mingled with newsmen and their wives on a friendly basis and agreed the session was a success. "It was a very frank, dignified and honest debate where the questions were fair," said Knight. "I'm sure the whole experience is on the 'plus' side for the people." Engle said it was "in the best tradition of American politics and American government." "As far as I am concerned," Engle concluded, "the debate was

Bureau Lists Voter Totals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some 101,600,000 people will be old enough to vote in the Congressional election next month, the census bureau said today. But many of them will be prevented from casting ballots because of other requirements. About 2,500,000 of them are aliens. Others are inmates of penal institutions or mental hospitals, cannot meet state residence or literacy requirements or are unable to pay a poll tax. Persons otherwise eligible have not met registration requirements. During the two years since the last national elections, the census report said, some four million young men and women have come of voting age. Kentucky and Georgia grant the franchise at 18, all other states at 21.

Hiccups Plague Father Of Six

DENVER (AP) — Pat J. Quintana is back in the hospital with another siege of hiccups. Quintana, 27, father of six children, first began to hiccup last April after eating an apple. The hiccups disappeared for two-day periods, twice, and Quintana thought he was over them recently when all traces vanished for five days.

"It puts ideas in my head, too. I'd love to have a cheese-burger."

Killer Sought In Reno Area

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — FBI agents joined Northern California law enforcement officers over the weekend in an all-out search for Roy Victor Olson, 23, a former convict and part-time poet wanted for questioning about the murder of Sacramento television announcer Ogden Miles. The search for Olson turned Saturday night to Reno where police learned that a young man answering his exact description was seen in a gambling house and bar. Authorities here said the report fitted in with other leads that Olson was seen Friday afternoon hitch-hiking east on Highway 40 near Colfax. Miles brutally stabbed body was found Saturday in a grain field near Antelope in northeastern Sacramento County. Police said both back pockets of Miles' trousers had been slit open, a possible indication that robbery was the motive. Sheriff's Capt. George Munezich signed a warrant Saturday charging Olson, an unemployed cook, with the announcer's murder. Munezich called upon FBI agents for assistance. Olson, who has written poems which his mother said were "so full of hate that I was frightened," became a prime suspect after police uncovered a blood-soaked chef's uniform and a blood smeared butcher knife about a block from his North Sacramento home.

Wood Unions Mull Merger

PORTLAND (AP) — An agreement looking to eventual merger of two large wood industry unions has been signed, the unions said Saturday. The announcement came from the International Woodworkers of America and the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Workers. The IWA said it has about 130,000 members and the other union estimated its membership at about 170,000. They work in both the United States and Canada. Both unions' executive boards unanimously approved a "two-year interim working agreement aimed at ultimate merger." A. F. Hartung, IWA president, called the pact "the first step in the IWA's declared policy of doing everything possible to bring about one union in wood and wood products." He said the agreement also is designed to establish "a relationship of cooperation, good will and trust between the two organizations as an interim agreement to accomplish organic unity through merger." The unions pledged to help each other and consult on any proposed strike action. The agreement also provides for joint organizing drives. Hartung said the IWA is the strongest in the Northwest and British Columbia, and the biggest part of the Pulp Workers' membership is in the south and the northeast. IWA headquarters is in Portland. The main office of the Pulp Workers Union is in Fort Edward, N.Y.

AF Postpones Balloon Trip

ALAMAGORDO, N.M. (UPI) — The Air Force today postponed its scheduled manned balloon flight to the edge of space until dawn Tuesday because of adverse weather conditions. The balloon, when it is launched, is expected to reach an altitude of 100,000 feet. The delay was the latest in a series of postponements for the Holloman Air Force Aero-Medical Laboratory near Alamogordo, and for Lt. Clifton M. McClure, 26, of Anderson, S. C., who has volunteered to ride the instrument-packed gondola suspended beneath the giant balloon in "Operation Manhigh" test flights have been made. But winter weather and stratospheric winds resulted in the move to New Mexico. The ascension and free flight, expected to last 24 hours, is to test a human against some of the problems to be faced in future space travel, such as cosmic radiation, meteors and loneliness.

Cars Damaged In Collision

State Police said two cars were extensively damaged at 3:45 p.m. Sunday in an accident near the Lakeview junction. Officers said the cars were driven by Peter J. Surprenant, 1834 Ward Street, and Archie P. Rotum, 1369 Summers Lane. Surprenant was treated at Klamath Valley Hospital and released. Officers said the investigation was continuing.

Star Favors Work Right

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Irene Dunne has refused to change her "wholehearted" support of California's Right-to-Work proposal. Miss Dunne received a telegram from AFL-CIO President George Meany Sunday asking her to "reconsider" her stand on the November referendum which would outlaw the union shop. The actress, who is an active Republican and has accepted an honorary post with supporters of the Right-to-Work measure, said she had "freely considered both sides of the question" before coming to a decision. She told Meany in an answer to his telegram that she had not changed her mind. She declined to comment on a statement by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt who accused her of "perhaps unwittingly allying herself with those who seek to enslave the American worker."

Call Three Units To Battle Fire

Three different fire departments answered a grass fire call Sunday afternoon between Washburn Way and the Great Northern Railway yards. Little damage was reported by the county, South Suburban and OTI departments. The county and OTI units were called at 6:06 p.m. Friday to a one-story frame building owned by H. A. McClurg at Route 3, Box 1035, Wocus. The building, a tool shed and garage, was damaged extensively. Firemen said, as were some tools and a boat in the building. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Lakeview Man Hit By Gunshot
