

Oregon Holds Short Drill, Awaits So. Cal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Oregon, the football team that played but lost to Oklahoma, held its shortest workout of the season Monday. The Ducks met Southern California in Portland Saturday night.

Those two facts seem to tie in. Certainly, Southern California does not figure to be as tough as Oklahoma, but the Trojans were the underdog when they walloped Oregon State in the season opener.

Oregon coach Len Casanova showed his squad drills of the Oklahoma game and filmed the men strictly on offense. The Ducks came through with only one injury, that to guard Joe Schaffel. He was in uniform Monday and should play against the Trojans.

Oregon State may be at full strength Saturday at Laramie against the University of Wyoming. Trainer Bill Robertson said there were no serious hurts from Saturday's game with UCLA. Two players hurt a week earlier, Grimm Mason and Jim Stinnette, may be ready this weekend.

It will be the first game between Wyoming, which won over Denver 15-12 last week, and Oregon State.

Washington held a light drill, also, in preparation for its game with Stanford. This should be a breather, after last week's heart-breaker against Ohio State. George Fleming and Luther Carr, halfbacks who sustained knee injuries against the Buckeyes, probably will be recovered before the Stanford game.

Stanford spent its entire Monday practice session on pass plays. Coach Jack Curtice is still trying to get the semblance of an offense going. The winless Indians have scored only twice in three games. Tackles made both touchdowns.

Washington State, badly battered by California, worked on its offense for this week's battle against Idaho. Gail Cordill, state end, probably will be sidelined. He hurt his knee against Cal.

Coach Jim Sutherland, after looking at movies, decided his line wasn't as bad as the 34-14 loss to Cal might indicate. The work in the secondary was something else, however, and it is getting attention. End Don Ellingsen and center Marv Nelson were elected co-captains.

California ties into Utah this week and coach Pete Elliott shorted Oregon's drill to one hour. Guard Jim Green, who suffered a shoulder separation earlier in the season, rejoined the team, but won't be used for two weeks.

UCLA worked two hours for Saturday night's Florida game at the Coliseum. Coach George Dickerson told his squad that Florida has a well balanced squad, led by 142-pound quarterback Jimmy Dunn and anchored at tackle by Vel Heckman, a 230-pounder. An examination of the Oregon State game movies showed that Capt. Jim Steffen was the outstanding Bruin. He will start at tailback, replacing Bill Kilmer, who suffered a wrist crack.

Southern California scout Marv Goux, who watched Oklahoma invade Oregon, said he saw no weakness in the Ducks' play, that coach Casanova used two teams, one being about as good as the other. Goux said he believed the Trojans could beat Oregon, however, "if they go back to the form they showed when they beat Oregon State."

Cas Praises Oregon Club In 6-0 Loss

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Giving experts the shakes is old stuff to Len Casanova, the grey Oregon coach whose Ducks held mighty Oklahoma to a 6-0 victory last Saturday.

And get this:

"If we had more veterans on the team, the result could have gone the other way," Casanova said today while reviewing the outcome. "We missed a couple of good scoring opportunities because we weren't consistent. But we feel pretty good."

The game evoked memories of last Jan. 1 when Ohio State was pegged to mop up the Ducks in the Rose Bowl. Oregon was a 19-point underdog but only a field goal in the last period by Don Sutherland pulled the Buckeyes out on top, 10-7.

What is it that brings out the best in Casanova's teams when they are supposed to roll over and play dead?

"Pride and confidence keeps the boys going against the big ones," Cas said. "Sure, they knew that Oklahoma was top-ranked in the nation but they felt they could do a good job."

Were Casanova's players depressed by the defeat?

"They couldn't be better than they knew they had done better than any of the game's authorities thought they could," Cas said. "They did a good job against a team which has a rugged defense."

Oregon can't go to the Rose Bowl this season because of the no-repeat rule in the dying Pacific Coast Conference.

"But we still can win the PCC crown and get national recognition by playing clubs like Oklahoma and Miami, whom we face later this season," Casanova said.

Howard's Catch Saves Yank Shutout

NEW YORK (AP)—Some persons say Elston Howard is a fine outfielder, others say he is even a finer catcher. But as far as the New York Yankees are concerned today he is the finest catcher they have in their outfield.

His diving, twisting catch of Red Schendienstel's sinking line drive with Bill Bruton on first base and none out in the sixth inning of Monday's game is proof positive.

His throw doubled Bruton at first base, nipping a budding Milwaukee Braves rally that could have tied the score 1-1 as Ed Mathews, the next batter, singled.

"That double play by Howard was the turning point for me," Yankee right-hander Bob Turley said after hanging up the 7-0 victory that cut the Braves' margin to 3-2.

"That catch of his (Howard's) was a real boost to the morale of this club. It showed them we could get those other guys out, and you saw what we did when we came to bat that inning," Yankee Manager Casey Stengel said. His boys pumped around six runs off loser Lew Burdette to sew up the game.

Howard shrugged off the whole incident amid a barrage of popping flash bulbs, insistent reporters and the plaudits of his own teammates.

"Aw, listen," he said, "I'm a better catcher than I am an outfielder, but I'll tell you this, if they want me to play in the outfield, then I'm a better outfielder than I am catcher."

"Look, I'm no stranger in that outfield," Howard parried a questioner who wondered which position he preferred. "Before this year I was always out there."

In three previous World Series, Howard played the outfield twice, and last year was a first baseman.

During the regular season, Stengel had him in the outfield, and catching, as Howard compiled a net .314 season's average, with 11 home runs and 66 runs batted in.

"What if you did miss the ball three straight times, Ruth? Remember, you're playing a strange course!"

Veteran Traded By Lions

DETROIT (UPI)—A coach's "dream" turned into a Texas-sized nightmare for George Wilson so he traded veteran quarterback Bobby Layne to the Pittsburgh Steelers for Earl Morrill and a high draft choice for both 1953 and 1954.

When Wilson took over as head coach of the Detroit Lions last year, he was presented with not one, but two brilliant quarterbacks—Layne of Texas and Tobin Rote of Rice.

The one-two combination gave the Lions the strongest quarterbacking in professional football. Rote's presence paid off handsomely when Layne broke his ankle in the second last game of the regular season.

Rote guided the Lions to three straight victories, including play-off and title wins.

LUSTER WEARS THIN

But the luster of having two "No. 1" men was wearing thin. Neither laid the idea of playing second fiddle. Both Layne and Rote had become accustomed to being the "big" men on their teams.

Layne had piloted Detroit to a pair of NFL titles and three divisional crowns before Rote came on the scene. Rote didn't have any title clubs at the Green Bay.

During the 1952 season, Rote went to Lion President Edwin J. Anderson with the complaint he wasn't playing enough.

Anderson admitted there was friction between the two Texans but no one knew how much.

"Both thought they should start every game," Anderson said. It was Wilson's practice to alternate the starting assignments, depending on who looked best in practice the week before a game.

CHOICES YOUNGER

"They got along fine, openly," Anderson said. "But they must have been some resentment. No one knows how wide the breach was because they never discussed it."

Wilson said he picked Rote to stay because he's two years younger than Layne who will be 33 in December. He said it was a "hard decision because I'm the one who got Bo McMillan to get Bobby and he's always been a close friend."

"I think Bobby will do a great job at Pittsburgh, he's one of the greatest," Wilson said. Layne is in his 11th season in the NFL.

The trade was met with mixed emotion for both Wilson and Anderson. It was on Layne's shoulders the Lions rose to the top. "It was a decision that just had to be made though," Wilson said.

Britain Rules As Favorite In Golf Match

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI)—Based on practice scores, Britain ruled a slight favorite over the United States today on the eve of the world amateur golf team championship.

Twenty-seven other nations also will be represented in the four-day competition starting Wednesday over the rugged old course at St. Andrews, but it still shaped up as a close match between the Yanks and those players representing the "home countries."

None of the Americans were satisfied with their practice rounds Monday. Bill Hyndman III of Philadelphia threw a putted six greens and wound up with a 79. Dr. Frank Taylor, Pomona, Calif., shot a 76 with borrowed clubs and Charley Cox, the U.S. Amateur king from Oklahoma City, Okla., admitted to "approximately 78."

Cox said, "The greens were a little soft when we first arrived but are trying out and should be in perfect shape for the matches."

Bobby Jones, the U.S. non-playing captain, wasn't too concerned about the Yanks' practice scores.

"It isn't Wednesday yet," the immortal grand slammer pointed out dryly.

Fewer Assignments More Fundamentals Stanford Boggled In Rut

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Well, what's wrong with Stanford? Coach Jack Curtice took the question like a man at Monday's weekly confab with the football writers and came up with this answer:

"We're not moving the ball enough and our inability to do so has come as the biggest surprise to me," the folksy mentor said. "We may cut down to five plays for the Washington game and concentrate more on fundamentals."

Curtice didn't seem to be kidding, for Monday afternoon's practice was highlighted by his working with the linemen. He showed them different blocking stances for running plays, Curtice usually deals in the razzle dazzle but it has laid an egg since he took over this season at Stanford. The Indians have lost all three of their games by lopsided margins.

Pete Elliott, the young California coach who knows what it is like to be a loser, halted quarterback Joe Kapp for his all around ability.

"Kapp isn't a specialist," Elliott said while recounting how the Bears upset Washington State last Saturday, 34-14. "He does everything well. He can run, he can pass and he can kick. So in my book that rates him as high as anybody when people start talking about All-America candidates."

Elliott said that Cal's defense was the biggest factor in the upset of the Cougars.

"Our interior linemen and linebackers tackled well and forced Bob Newman to pass more," Elliott said. "We intercepted three of Newman's key throws which helped change the outcome."

Pete also hailed the triumph as a "team effort" then apologized for not saying anything hotter.

"I know that's lousy for news but it's the truth," Elliott declared.

BIG LITTLE SCHOOL
San Jose State's Bob Titchenal rated Cal Poly as "a small school with one of the biggest teams on the Coast," and said that his Spartans were in for trouble if they aren't up for their game Saturday night.

"Cal Poly's line averages about 215 pounds and halfback Fred Ford is one of the best I've seen," Titchenal said.

Joe Verducci of San Francisco State said his team had a chance to beat Occidental if it could handle the Tigers' Pete Tunney.

Other quotes: "Harry James, Utah quarterback: 'We watched Newman in that televised game against Cal and don't think he could carry our Lee Grosscup's shoe laces.' We're sort of pointing for California." ... John Thompson, Washington publicist: "The Huskies outplayed Ohio State from start to finish even if they were beaten, 12-7." ... Bill Tunnell, COP drummer: "If I made any predictions, (Coach) Jack Myers would kill me." ... Dave Schulthess (Brigham Young publicist whose team meets COJ): "Even our coach was dumfounded by that 32-6 beating Colorado State handed us."

Logart Posts Victory Over Rudell Stitch

NEW YORK (AP)—Having avenged his loss to Rudell Stich, Cuba's Isaac Logart today made preparations for a fighting tour of South America.

"We'd like to get another shot at Virgil Akins (welterweight champion) but we know we won't get that for a long time," said Manager Eddie Matuz. "So we're going to keep busy and get ready just in case a title shot opens up."

Matuz said his fifth-ranked welterweight contender will meet Gerald Gray of Jamaica at Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 26.

Losers of three straight fights including an Aug. 27 decision to Stich in Louisville, Aug. 27, Logart broke the streak by scoring a unanimous decision over Stich in a non-television ten-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

Logart, 146 pounds to Stich's 143½, sealed the verdict with a blazing finish in the tenth round. He rocked his broad-shouldered opponent with a fierce barrage to both the head and body.

Stich, who earned a No. 10 ranking on his upset of Logart in August, had his winning streak snapped at eight. His record is 15-4. Logart's record now is 53-10-5.

World Series Highlights

NEW YORK (AP)—Figuring the World Series:

Bob Turley is only the second pitcher in World Series history to strike out 10 or more batters in two series games. The Yankee right-hander fanned 11 Dodgers in the sixth game of 1953 and set down 10 Braves Monday. The only other pitcher to fan 10 or more in two games was Walter Johnson.

The Yankees will be out to snap a four-game series winning streak at home by the Braves Wednesday. Milwaukee won its last two games against New York in 1952 and the first two in County Stadium this year.

In addition to tying one series record—most hits (39) and setting another most total bases (97) Yogi Berra of the Yanks also has broken the record for most times at bat in the series. He has batted 215 times. The old mark was 199 by Joe DiMaggio.

McDougal's third inning homer Monday put him in seventh place in the all-time series listings. Gil has six. Babe Ruth leads with 11, followed by Mickey Mantle 11, Lou Gehrig and Duke Snider 10 each. Joe DiMaggio 8 and Goose Goslin 7.

The Yanks are out-slugging the Braves. New York has a slugging mark of .361 with 57 total bases in 158 times at bat. Milwaukee has an average of .258 with 62 total bases in 173 trips.

By scoring six runs in the sixth inning Monday, the Yanks tied a series record. The New York Giants, in the third game of 1933, and the Boston Braves, in the fifth game of 1903, also had six runs in the sixth frame.

Rademacher Sets Possible Return

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—Still confident there's a spot in the professional ring for him, Pete Rademacher said here today he is planning another comeback.

Rademacher has had only two professional bouts after winning the Olympic heavyweight crown. He had tongues wagging when he knocked Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson down in his first bout. Patterson won the fight by a knockout. He then underwent a severe beating at the hands of Zora Foley.

Gil Gets New Ball For Blow

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Gil McDougald doesn't accuse Lew Burdette of throwing a spitter.

But just before the Yankee second baseman hit a Burdette pitch for a third inning home run in Monday's 7-0 New York victory, he asked Plate Umpire Al Barlick to inspect the ball.

Barlick looked the ball over carefully, threw it out of play and flipped another to the pitcher.

McDougald walloped Burdette's next pitch off the foul screen in left field stands for a home run.

Why did Gil ask the umpire to inspect the ball?

"The ball did something it shouldn't have done," he explained. "It dropped down like a knuckler. And I know Burdette doesn't throw a knuckler."

USGA Adopts Rule Change

NEW YORK (AP)—There will be no more of that annual middle on golf courses across the country when it comes time to qualify for the National Open.

The U. S. Golf Assn. today adopted a new plan whereby local 36-hole qualifying rounds on May 18 at 70 locations will provide a field of about 500 for sectional qualifying June 1 over the same distance.

In the past, qualifying has been done strictly on a sectional level, with upwards of 1,200 competing for 162 spots. The new plan will cut the final field to 150, including those exempt from sectional qualifying rounds.

Locations under consideration for the local rounds include four each in New York and California, and three each in Florida, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas.

The American Hockey League schedule comprises 210 games this season. The season ends March 22.

Frosh Clubs Draw Talent

EUGENE (AP)—Freshman football practice opened at the University of Oregon Monday and 58 hopefuls were on hand for the opening drill.

They included such prep stars as Gary Albright, quarterback for Milwaukee last fall, and all-stars Greg Willener of Eugene, Ricky Lamb of Hubbard, Jim Sandness of Grant of Portland, and Rick Herman and Dick Mannila of Springfield.

The Frosh will open their playing season Oct. 31 with a game in Portland with Oregon State's Rooks.

CORVALLIS (AP)—Sixty candidates turned out Monday for the opening session of freshman football practice at Oregon State College.

Among those showing up for the opening drill were: Jim Funston, tackle from Medford; Denny Pieters, tackle from Salem; Steve Picard, halfback from Seaside; Paul Goddard, halfback from Portland's Lincoln High, and Don Kasso, tailback from Berkeley, Calif.

The Rooks will play three games this season. Their opener will be Oct. 31 against Oregon's Frosh. On Nov. 7 they will play the Washington State Freshmen at Pullman, and on Nov. 19 will tangle with Oregon again at Eugene.

Gil McDougald Back On Job, Leads Yanks

By OSCAR FRALEY
MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Gangling Gil McDougald, who usually comes through when the Yankees need him most, was back on production schedule today to help give the club needed life in the World Series.

It was the angular Scotsman, who, during the past eight years, has made it possible for Casey Stengel to be a platooning genius. It was he, too, who sparked the club early the past season as it piled up a walkaway lead in the American League pennant race.

And it was McDougald, playing despite a painful groin rash, who showed the Yankees Monday how to get rid of their long-time nemesis, Lew Burdette.

Burdette had stood them on their ears four times running, three times as the Yankees lost the 1952 series to these same Braves and once again in the second game of the classic this time around. And for the first two innings Monday he had them eating out of his hand again.

Until McDougald stepped up to the plate to lead off the third inning.

Then the 30-year-old father of four whipped his bat into one of Burdette's fast ones and the ball arched high through the sunlight and struck the screen of the left field foul pole for a home run and a 1-0 Yankee lead.

It was all that pitcher Bob Turley was going to need, as it finally turned out, even though the Yankees ran up six more in the sixth with a McDougald double sending home two more runs.

"I knew I hit it solidly," the freckle-faced infielder said later. "The only question in my mind was whether it was going to curve foul."

This did McDougald, the "glue man" of the Yankee infield, come out of a harrowing slump in which he had labored through the last two months of the season.

"I was going great guns early in the year," he recalled. "I was hitting about .375 and then the bottom fell out."

It did. He wound up batting a feeble .250 for his worst season in Yankee flannels. But afield he still was the take charge guy, able to switch from third to short to second. Many think he is the best player defensively at every one of these positions in the entire league.

Notre Dame was "a little better" against Southern Methodist than against Indiana, Coach Terry Brennan said. "We will be better before the season is over, and we beat a real good team Saturday. That Duke Meredith is a good passer as there is in the country."

Ray Elliot of Illinois, disappointed by a second straight intercollegiate defeat, said "We really had two good scoring chances from the one, but we didn't score. We did a very good job the second half, but the first part of the game our line was sloppy. But we sure were improved over the first game, and that was a good break now for the end of the season."

Courtney Takes Coaching Berth

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—World record holder Tom Courtney has left the amateur track ranks to take an assistant coaching position at Harvard University.

The Olympic champion who has lowered the 800-yard standard to 1:46.5 was named to the position Wednesday. Tom ran one of the most stirring races of recent years at Melbourne in 1956 to capture the Olympic 1,000 meter crown. He also ran the fastest 1,000 meters ever turned by an American last year in Sweden.

Hoots Hear Tech Mentor

A large turnout of Owl Hoots, OTI boosters, met Monday night at the Chuck Wagon to hear Oregon Tech football coach Rex Hunsaker review last Saturday night's 31-21 win over Portland State College.

Hunsaker narrated the game films which arrived Monday, pointing out the good and bad points of his club's conference victory over the Vikings. The Tech coach showed booster members several points where his club must correct mistakes in this week's practice sessions before meeting Eastern Oregon Saturday at La Grande.

The OTI coach and athletic director also reported to the O W I Hoots that so far this year, the attendance at the two home games played by Tech has been very gratifying. Hunsaker said an all-time season record for paying attendance will be set if local sports fans continue their support.

The booster organization voted to set up a scholarship fund to raise money for a tuition scholarship to be given to a prospective OTI athlete starting with the 1959-60 school year.

Don Hobson, brother of former OTI dean and man John Hobson, was a special guest at the weekly dinner meeting.

Owl Hoot president Dick Gallagher said films of the Oregon Tech-Hamilton Air Base game played here two weeks ago will be shown at next Monday night's booster meeting. The Hamilton films were to be used last night, but members wanted to see the Portland State game and hold the star-studded Hamilton game movies until next week.

Paige Cotren, Mississippi fullback of 1956 who is now with the Los Angeles Rams, kicked 12 field goals during his collegiate career.

Wilson Back With SF 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Billy Wilson, the top pass receiver in the National Football League for the past two years, will be back at end for San Francisco Sunday when the Forty Niners play the Chicago Bears in the Windy City.

Wilson has been out of action since Aug. 31, when he suffered a shoulder separation in an exhibition game with the Chicago Cardinals.

Halfback Abe Woodson, the flashy rookie from Illinois, will also bolster the Forty Niner attack. Woodson, who has been in the Army, will join the team in Chicago.

Army Favored In Lambert Vote

NEW YORK (UPI)—Army received all but one first-place ballot today to take an early lead in the voting for the Lambert Trophy, emblem of major college supremacy in the East.

Pittsburgh, the only other team to be named first on a ballot, was second in the season's first weekly voting by coaches, sportswriters and broadcasters.

Pirates Sign Young Pitcher

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today the signing of right-handed pitcher Donald Newhart of Meshoppen, Pa., to a 1959 contract with their Clinton, Iowa, club of the Class D Midwest League.

Newhart, 19, had a 17-1 record last year with the Meshoppen sandlot team.

Woody Hayes Cries After Triumph

CHICAGO (UPI)—Even in victory, Woody Hayes couldn't find much good to say about his defending national champion Ohio State football team in his weekly appearance at the United Press coaches' "Wailing Wall" today.

"As bad as we looked, we managed to win because we kept pressure on them," he said. "Our blocking was not up to standard. It hasn't been all fall. There was nothing scintillating about that game. We didn't make as many mistakes as they did. We weren't as good as we were a week ago. We didn't get off to a good start, and we didn't have the poise to get out of trouble."

Even a loser had brighter prose than Hayes. "I'm not happy about losing to Pittsburgh," Murray Warmath of Minnesota said, "but I'm not ashamed of the way our boys played. We are going to be in the conference fight. We were in good shape at the end of the third quarter, but we let that fullback get away from us."

An unrepentant loser, Hayes said, "I'm not happy about losing to Pittsburgh," Murray Warmath of Minnesota said, "but I'm not ashamed of the way our boys played. We are going to be in the conference fight. We were in good shape at the end of the third quarter, but we let that fullback get away from us."

good blocks" on each of two long touchdown runs to trip West Virginia. "Vic Jones, Ken Hubbard and Tom Campbell got him outside on the first one and Jones, Ed Fritz and Bill Scott cleared him on the next. And once we got him outside he could go. We were somewhat flat, but I think maybe West Virginia was flatter."

Favored Michigan State had to come back to tie the Michigan and Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty had only praise for his opponent. "They're an awfully good football team," he said, "but we played a poor first half and a good second one. They gambled on defense and in the second half we adjusted to it better. They were lying in wait in the bushes for us."

Michigan's Bennie Oosterbaan praised his sophomores, John Halstead, Bub Johnson, Dick Spring and Don Deskins, for "fine performances," but added "it's hard to single anyone out unless it's Bob Plarek who quarterbacked a magnificent game. Our boys played well under difficult conditions without Stan Noskin and John Herrnstein after the first quarter.

"Margrette is a better ball chub than it was in last year's all-star season," Wisconsin Coach Milt Bruhn said. "We had trouble the first quarter, but as the game progressed we had it easier. We wore them out a little bit and depth was the difference."

Purdue was "improved some" for its game at Rice, Jack Molenkopf said, and added "we did fairly well. We had too much power for them and we were deeper, with a better second or alternate unit. Rice needs a passer real bad, but they do some things real well."

Iowa can have no pride in its tie with Air Force, Coach Forest Evaschewski said. "Our kids were awful flat," he said, "and we put on the worst exhibition of tactical defeat any team I ever coached. We should have got whipped. We could have won with a field goal in the last few minutes and that's what we were trying to do. We deserved to lose, and I regard it as a defeat. But it's a good break for the end of the season."

pretty good team, or our season could be gone."

Ara Parseghian, a winner at Northwestern for the second straight week, said the Wildcats "moved pretty well on the ground once we made adjustments for a defense they used that we didn't expect. We did a nice job on both offense and defense, and their passer had been great until we played them."

Notre Dame was "a little better" against Southern Methodist than against Indiana, Coach Terry Brennan said. "We will be better before the season is over, and we beat a real good team Saturday. That Duke Meredith is a good passer as there is in the country."

Ray Elliot of Illinois, disappointed by a second straight intercollegiate defeat, said "We really had two good scoring chances from the one, but we didn't score. We did a very good job the second half, but the first part of the game our line was sloppy. But we sure were improved over the first game, and that was a good break now for the end of the season."
