WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices milled unevenly in active trading at the close today after a recovery movement canceled an early decline.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3,700,000 shares compared with 3,570,000 Tuesday.

Leading issues declined fractions to a point or so. Scattered stocks resisted.

Aircrafts, rails, coppers and oils declined. Steels, rubbers, tobaccos and building materials were mixed.

Addressograph was ahead about four points. Vertentes-Camaguey Sugar dropped more than a point. Gold mining stocks had a slight flurry. Homestake was up a point and Dome Mines a sizable fraction.

Du Pont picked up more than two points. U.S. Gypsum more than a point.

Studebaker-Packard erased a slight gain in late dealings. American Motors was fractionally higher. Raytheon was up a point.

Losses of around a point were taken by Kennecott, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse Electric and Baltimore and Ohio.

U.S. government bonds extended their rally into the third straight session.

Old Tree Fire Snuffed Out

A canny old tree fire that had been hiding its time for seven weeks finally poked its head out Tuesday—and had it promptly chopped off by the Klamath Forest Protective Association.

As soon as crews got started on the blaze, KFPFA officials began scratching their heads. The fire had been discovered when it topped the upper branches of a white fir tree on a ridge in the Spencer Creek area west of Klamath Falls, early Tuesday afternoon, and set a ground fire. Investigation showed that the original tree fire was clearly traceable to a lightning strike, but the KFPFA radio log showed that no lightning had struck in that area since August 19. The association finally concluded that this was its lightning holocaust fire of the season.

Meanwhile, a 12-man crew, drawn from the KFPFA and Weyerhaeuser Camp Four, fought, not merely to put on the blaze, but to confine it to an area of less than a quarter-acre. The quarter-acre is the limit for Class A fires, and nothing the KFPFA has dealt with this year, with the exception of the first fire of the season, has gone to Class B.

With the help of its cat and pumper, the KFPFA maintained its record, and by Wednesday morning the fire was definitely classed as "out."

The KFPFA might well keep an eye on that spot, however. It was the site of one fire earlier in the season. Other fires of the season.

Sheriff Brings In Prisoner

Deputy Sheriff Jess Bryant brought in an escaped prisoner Wednesday and soon afterward learned that a new warrant had been filed for the man.

The prisoner was Wallace Norman Foster 26, of Beatty, who escaped about June 15 from a county labor camp near Beatty.

Bryant arrested Wallace over the weekend at Plute Camp, in the eastern section of the county, and brought him into the Sprague River Justice Court.

It was from that court that Foster originally was sentenced on drunk and disorderly conduct charges. This week Foster was fined $254 and sentenced to 90 days in jail for escape.

Soon after his return to jail here, the sheriff's office was informed that Foster also was wanted in Salem on a contributing warrant.

Folk Dancing Program Set

A new program of square and folk dancing, to be presented by the B&B Square Dance Club in cooperation with the city park and recreation department, will begin Friday, October 10.

The B&B group will welcome new dancers—adults and families to their Friday sessions, held in the basement of the city library from 8 to 10:30 p.m. In addition the club will inaugurate sessions of square and folk dancing expressly for young people, to be held at the same place from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on the first and third Wednesdays of each month, beginning October 15.

J. D. Stanley and Mary Lee Stanley, as well as guests, will act as callers. Leadership and chaperonage will be provided by the officers and members of the club. The fee will be 50 cents for adults and 35 cents for children up to 14 years of age. Refreshments will be served and members will be asked to provide sandwiches and cookies.

The park and recreation department is offering this program in an attempt to meet the many demands received for this type of dancing, the announcement said.

The department itself has neither the equipment, the leadership, nor the space necessary for the program, so this cooperative arrangement with the B&B group has been set up.

Fund Raising Accomplished

The raising of funds for a refrigerator for the Jamaican Mission, British West Indies, sponsored by the Open Bible Standard Churches, and for the purchase of property for future expansion, has been accomplished by members of the Women's World Fellowship and pastors present for the fall conference of OBS churches, convening in Klamath Falls this week.

Concluding services will be held tonight in the last Klamath Temple. Near capacity attendance has been recorded during the sessions which opened Tuesday.

Ordination of five pastors, who will serve within the Pacific Coast OBS association, was included in the Wednesday night service.

Emphasis was placed on youth service during the Wednesday afternoon session, co-chaired by the Rev. Mel Hanson, Stockton, Pacific Division Director of Youth Activities and the Rev. Rollie Clark, national director of youth in the OBS churches.

Women of Klamath Temple served a noon luncheon to the attending conference representatives today. The luncheon meeting was followed by routine business and inspirational messages. The conference will conclude with the 7:30 p.m. evangelistic service with the Rev. O. L. Taylor, Vancouver, Washington.

Some 150 pastors of Oregon, California and Washington and their wives registered for the three-day conference.

Police Befriend Ex-Railroad Man

An 83-year-old man, a retired railroad worker, who said he got lost in the Southern Pacific yards, was befriended by city police Wednesday.

It is possible that police saved his life.

Officers said Frank Solak got lost in the yards while on the way to his home, 340 Commercial Street. He slipped, fell to the ground, and was nearly run over by a train.

It was Solak's presence of mind to not move that prevented a serious accident, police said.

The aged man, shaky, unsteady and nearly covered with oil, was taken home in a squad car.

POPULATION GAIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The big census clock will tick off the 175 millionth American October 16 at just about 7 a.m. PST.

SALUTED for their work on behalf of the Klamath Indian Termination Bill are Tom B. Watters, left, Management Specialist, and Sen. Richard L. Neuberger. Both men were honored Wednesday evening at a chamber of commerce dinner at the Winema.

Police Report Car Mishaps

Two rear-end accidents were reported by city police Thursday.

Officers said James Artie Warford, 20, Kingsley Field, was cited for following too closely when his car struck the rear of a car driven by Joyce Ann Johnson, 18, 1803 Siskiyou Street, who had stopped for a traffic light at Main and Eighth streets at 9:49 p.m. Wednesday.

Irvin Peyton Redfox, 25, Sprague River, said he had stopped on Main Street to avoid hitting a car pulling into a parking space when his car was struck by one operated by Keith D. Kaser, 20, Silverton. No citations were issued.

A purse, which Willemanna Taylor of Portland said contained a valuable pen but no money, was reported lost in a downtown filling station. The owner expected to be in town several days, and would claim her loss at the police station if it shows up.

Allan C. Klus, 3440 Altamont Drive, said a box of 270 shells, a sheath knife and a pistol belt were stolen from his pickup truck parked at Klamath and Fourth streets Wednesday.

Marts Slate Many Specials

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Housewives planning Sunday menus will find excellent buys in many food stores and supermarkets this week if they look for the weekend specials.

Heading the list of specially priced items are lean pork chops, sliced bacon, picnic hams, chuck and rib roast of beef, turkey and chicken.

Eggs are plentiful and moderately priced, particularly the medium and small sizes.

Many seafoods offer attractive bargains this week, notably swordfish steaks, flounder fillet and oysters.

The outstanding buy in produce is the apple. The harvesting season is in full swing in many parts of the country.

Pumpkins are another excellent buy, and they'll become even more plentiful as Halloween approaches. Bosc pears and tokay grapes are moderately priced.

Cranberries are still relatively high but they'll probably come down by Thanksgiving.

Best buys on the vegetable counter include carrots, snap beans, and beets, endive, escarole and tomatoes from local farms and gardeners. Cabbage, turnips and celery are also attractively priced.

CIGARETTE FIRE

A cigarette was blamed by the Klamath Forest Protective Association as the cause of a fire discovered in the Hildebrand area early Wednesday afternoon. The blaze was reported to the KFPFA from a nearby ranch. A crew from the ranch had the fire nearly under control by the time the KFPFA arrived on the scene. The fire which covered less than a quarter-acre, had not yet burned out Thursday morning.

CLAIM HEARINGS

R. Melin, hearings officer for the State Industrial Accident Commission, conducted routine claims hearings Thursday at the courthouse. Melin said claims heard here averaged three a month.

STATE POLICE

State police are investigating a burglary of the Klamath Pine-Trim Company mill, on Boardman Avenue, which was discovered at about 7 a.m. Thursday.

Investigating officers reported that the burglars, who were apparently several in number, broke into the main building sometime during the night from Wednesday to Thursday. A preliminary survey revealed that the intruders had pried open a candy machine, taking some of the candy and all of the money. They also stole a Willard battery and a considerable quantity of gas, which was taken from different pieces of equipment.

"This mistake could have led to ruinous results. The press of Oregon, once the blunder was realized, did an effective and accurate job in mobilizing public opinion behind a bill that would repair the damage that had been done. The public responded with promptness and with strong support."

"In addition," Neuberger continued, "we all must be grateful to President Eisenhower for signing the bill, for it took his signature to translate the bill into Public Law 731."

Neuberger told the audience that it was his hope the U.S. Forest Service would form a new National Forest out of the blocks of timber which are not sold to private industry. Under the terms of the act, private timber operators have first chance to purchase the pine forest but they must operate it under "sustained-yield procedures" administered by the Forest Service.

Timber tracts not thus disposed of will be purchased from Indians withdrawing from the tribe by the Forest Service, to become National Forest land. "If any considerable number of blocks are thus acquired by the Forest Service, I favor creation of a new National Forest with the supervisory headquarters at Klamath Falls," Neuberger said.

"This would be preferable, in my opinion, to dividing up the pine tracts among existing National Forests. In addition, I think the name of 'Klamath National Forest' should be adopted, in tribute to the Klamath Indian Reservation, which the new forest will replace."

Neuberger explained that another major conservation benefit from passage of the Klamath bill was the provision adding about 15,000 acres of reservation marshland to the area of migratory waterfowl refuges in the Klamath vicinity.

This additional acreage, he said, will improve habitat for ducks and geese in the major nesting and feeding grounds of the Pacific flyway.

"Prior to enactment of the new Klamath bill, the Indian marsh constituted the largest single unprotected waterfowl nesting area in the nation," the Oregon senator declared. "Now that it is to be placed under direction of the Fish and Wildlife Service, larger flights of waterfowl can be expected in future years."

The entire Klamath Basin watershed was affected by outcome of the legislation, Neuberger continued. He pointed out that the "wholesale timber-cutting made possible under the 1954 act would have changed the moisture-retaining characteristics of the Indian forests which form a large segment of the Basin's watershed. The sustained-yield timber management provisions of the new law have eliminated this threat to water supply, thus adding another conservation asset to the values created by approval of the bipartisan legislation," he stated.

"These vast gains for sound policies to conserve natural resources are the product of praiseworthy efforts by many
