High School Club Names President
CHILOQUIN — The Pep Club at Chilouquin High School has chosen Sandra Haas, junior, as president for the year with Nadine Oldaker as vice president; Nadine Christensen, secretary; and Judy Stanley, treasurer. Ruth Hagelstein is faculty adviser for the group.
The Pep Club has already begun training a special drill team of girls who will do marching between halves at home basketball games. Mrs. Marva Sanders is training the girls each Monday after school.
For the first time in several years the club will not have an eight member rally squad who spell out the letters of the school mascot, Panthers. Instead the three yell leaders will direct the rooting section during the "A" squad games, and three younger assistant leaders not yet chosen, will lead the yells for the "B" squad games.
New uniforms for the club will be chosen in the near future.

Dr. Craig Pearson, chairman of the Temperance program of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, has announced that according to statistics, "65 per cent of the adult population of the United States drink beverages containing alcohol. Four million American citizens are alcoholics. These are the reports that cause the Klamath Seventh Day Adventist Church to be concerned with this problem that faces America today.

The special offering which will be taken on the Sabbath, October 25, in Adventist Churches throughout North America, will be used to nationally advertise the facts of the growing liquor problem. Part of the fund will be used to distribute "Listen," the magazine of the American Temperance Society, among American teenagers. Seventh Day Adventists are abstainers of both alcohol and tobacco.
