STOCKS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed irregularly lower today to snap a sharp two-day comeback.

Motors were higher and numerous other issues clipped their losses in a late rally. The ticker was behind in reporting transactions at the close.

Turnover was estimated at about 4,500,000 shares for the day compared with Friday's 5,360,000, the biggest total in three years.

The market looked for a time as though it would follow through on the big upsurge of Thursday and Friday. Prices were generally higher the first hour.

Volume continued heavy until midday when prices turned mixed. Later trading subsided as prices fell.

Steels, metals, chemicals and oils gave ground. Aircrafts were irregular.

Chrysler, U.S. Rubber and General Dynamics gained major fractions.

Da Pont, up over a point, earlier was down a point or so after reporting lower earnings.

Off about a point were U.S. Steel, United Aircraft, General Electric, Anaconda, International Nickel, and Illinois Central.

Crown Cork announced that the company had bought 150,000 shares of its own common stock from a securities company at 24 1/4 over Friday's close.

Long-term U.S. Treasury bonds declined sharply in early trading but staged a partial recovery toward the final hour.

Investment quality corporates were a shade lower.

Council Reviews

tion during which they pointed out that downtown alleys were narrow and too often blocked for lengthy periods. It was getting almost impossible to make a downtown delivery. The council moved to grant privilege to delivery trucks to double park where necessary from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Monday through Friday in the area bounded by Fourth and Eleventh streets, and Klamath and Pine.

It was also emphasized by the council that abuse of the privilege by delivery men would result in it being revoked. Also, any delivery trucks that failed to comply with all other traffic and parking regulations would be cited.

First and second reading was heard by the council to reduce the area to be encompassed by the proposed off-street parking district to include Fourth to Eleventh streets and one half block east of Klamath Avenue to one-half block west of Pine.

The council also studied the recommendation of the planning commission that the area known as blocks one and three of Eldorado Addition's replat be rezoned from Zone one to Zone two residential.

It was pointed out that all the property to be rezoned was owned by one individual and that the area is already bounded by a section zoned for commercial use.

Objections were raised on behalf of residential property along Dahlia but it was pointed out the commercial strip already zoned was between the residences and the proposed rezoned area.

Purpose of the rezoning consideration was to permit the construction of approximately 30 court type apartments in the area.

While details of the construction project were still not completed, it was pointed out that it would be about a $500,000 project, and that it might be started yet this year.

The council also recommended the installation of several flood lights in the vicinity of the municipal swimming pool parking area prior to opening of swimming next spring.

Police were called to investigate a rash of petty thefts reported Monday night and early today, one spotted by a store clerk.

Robert Lee Peterson, a 35-year-old transient, was charged with stealing a $13.95 shirt from the Guss Store, 714 Main Street, Monday.

Roy Eastburn, a clerk, raced after Peterson, returned him to the store and held him for arrest. In district court Tuesday the suspect told Judge D. E. Van Vactor that somebody else had stolen his shirt from a hotel room.

The judge sentenced Peterson to 60 days in the county jail.

Louis Bath, 618 Owens Street, told police a quantity of jewelry, no value listed, was stolen from his home around the first of the month.

The missing items, he said, included several lodge pins, two strands of pearls and miscellaneous gold, silver and jeweled pins.

Police also were told Tuesday that a portable radio was stolen from a car owned by Oliver Haley of Bonanza while parked in the Elks Club lot.

Douglas Walden, a truck driver, said a quart thermos jug, valued at $11, was taken from his truck parked behind the Crater Lake Machinery Company.

Gordon Bridges said someone had attempted to enter the Snap Service Cafe at 1008 Main Street, going so far as to drill holes around a back door lock, but was unsuccessful.

Another auto-pedestrian accident occurred at the intersection of South Sixth Street and Shasta Way Monday, the same location of a similar accident Friday.

City police said a car driven by Dean Arthur Karrer, 2639 Hadcliffe Street, struck Mrs. Nellie Arnold, 60, of Merrill shortly after noon.

Mrs. Arnold was admitted to Klamath Valley Hospital where she was given X-ray examinations Monday and early Tuesday. Hospital authorities said no definite injuries had been determined, and that Mrs. Arnold was in good condition.

Karrer told officers he had stopped for a stop sign and started again, hitting Mrs. Arnold. He was cited for failing to yield the right of way to a pedestrian.

SMALL FIRES

Two fires left by reckless hunters were put out by the Klamath Forest Protective Association Monday. The association says that one fire on the Sycan River and another in the canyon back of Weig were discovered while still small.

CHICKEN HOUSE BURNS

The chicken house on property occupied by Otto Mullan, 3225 Shasta Way, went up in flames Saturday. Firemen say the blaze began as a result of children playing with a branding iron.

HAL FURMAN SR.

HAL FURMAN JR.

Services Scheduled Today For Dead KF Deer Hunters

Last rites for Hal Furman Sr., 45, took place this afternoon at O'Hair's Memorial Chapel with interment in Klamath Memorial Park following a memorial service for his son, Hal Furman Jr., 18, still missing a week after the boating tragedy that claimed the lives of his father and their companion, James Cline, 44, was included in the rites at the chapel.

Dragging operations to recover Hal Jr.'s body were abandoned Monday noon by the sheriff's office, which had recovered the father's body on Thursday, and some of the son's clothing on Friday. Cline's body, floating attached to a life jacket, had been spotted Wednesday morning.

In the hope that the young man's body will eventually be found, the sheriff's office has organized an early morning patrol of the lake's shores, which will take place daily.

The sheriff's office barge will do the patrolling along the west shore while Ray Keller of the Klamath Lumber and Box Company will patrol the east shore in a boat belonging to the company, the employer of the senior Furman. The first of these patrols, performed this morning produced no results.

Hal Furman Sr. is survived by the widow, Mazie, and daughters Claudette Kay and Sharon Mickie, all of Klamath Falls. Another daughter, Mrs. Patricia Jean Day, lives in Anderson, California. Hal Jr. was the only son.

Forces Quell Bolivia Revolt

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—A revolt by Falange Socialists broke out early today and was put down after a four-hour battle in this capital's streets, government forces said.

Reports circulated that several persons had been killed in the exchange of fire between the Falangists and government forces. Only one death was confirmed officially.

By the government's account, heavily armed rebel groups started the revolt at 4:30 a.m. They attacked the homes of high government officials and leaders of the ruling National Revolutionary Movement in two residential districts of La Paz.

A band of rebels seized Gov. Humberto Villar of La Paz Province in an attack on his home. His fate was not known immediately.

The government rushed troops and militiamen to the troubled areas and routed the rebels.

The government radio said its forces had orders to shoot on sight anyone wearing the blue beret of the Falangists. The radio also said a rebel attempt to storm the La Paz Jail was beaten off.

A tip on the move by the Falangists came Monday when the party's deputies stormed out of the Chamber of Deputies after a resolution calling for severe measures to maintain order.

Multiple Use Laws Favored

CONDON—"The basic principle involved in sound resource development is multiple use." 2nd District Congressman Al Ullman today at Condon luncheon group told Ullman stated that there is "room on our public forest and grazing land for both domestic animals and wild life."

"While I am a great believer in outdoor recreation," Ullman said, "I do not intend to sacrifice any other sound economic use such as grazing in accomplishing that purpose."

Ullman told the group that he was strongly on record before the House Interior Committee, on which he sits in Congress, in favor of the multiple use principles. "My record is clear on behalf of utilization of our river resources. I have made a consistent fight against single purpose exploitation by private or public groups."

"You will find me waging the same fight for full resource use on our public forests and ranges," Ullman continued. "A sound livestock industry is basic to the economy," the 2nd District congressman concluded.

South's Democrats Feud With National Chairman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern Democrats were feuding today with their party's national chairman—just as President Eisenhower was saying the Democrats are a hopelessly split party offering only deadlocked government.

What aroused the ire of the Southerners was a statement Sunday by Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler. He told interviewers Southern Democrats ought either to accept a strong civil rights plank in the 1960 Democratic platform or leave the party.

Several Dixie Democrats said Butler should leave the party. One called him a radical and another said he was pitching for "Northern radical votes and special minority interests."

In Wheeling, W. Va., Butler appeared to soften his stand somewhat Monday night, saying, "We're certainly not going to read anybody out of the party."

"Inevitably there will be some people who will not go along with the party platform," he added. Butler said he did not think such a split would hurt the Democrats in the 1960 presidential campaign.

Eisenhower, in a hard-hitting speech for Republican candidates in California, said the Democrats have "political schizophrenia"—a split personality.

Without referring to the Butler-Dixie row, Eisenhower said the Democrats are divided into widely separated wings—one in the South and "at the other extreme the stronger wing, dominated by political radicals."

"In Congress," he said, "they crash heading into each other on every important domestic issue. In short, our opposition can offer America only deadlocked government—government that wages war on itself."

Eisenhower spoke to a party rally in Los Angeles and his words were broadcast over a regional radio-television hookup.

The President defended his administration's foreign and domestic policies and said Democratic critics of his defense policies are "political merchants of fear and defeat."

Heading for more stumping today in San Francisco, Eisenhower was trying to heal a feud in his own party—between Sen. William F. Knowland, running for the California governorship, and Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, seeking the Senate seat. Knowland is vacating the party office.

The President talked with Knowland and Knight together in his hotel suite Monday, but there was no indication he made any progress toward ending their split.

Democratic chief Butler and Southern Democrats have been on the outs at various times over the past few years. His Sunday jab at the Dixie faction had some of the Southerners seething.

North Carolina Democratic Chairman Woodrow W. Jones said Butler "does not own the Democratic party and he does not determine who is going to stay in the party or who is going to leave the party."

Texas Party Chairman Jim Lindsey characterized Butler's statement as "the same old political appeal for Northern radical votes and special minority interests."

Calls for Butler's removal from the party came from Rep. Kenneth A. Roberts (D-Ala.) and Frank Boykin (D-Ala.).

Meanwhile, Vice President Nixon—whose campaign tactics have drawn heavy criticism from Democrats—hoped to start an Eastern swing with a stop at Wilmington, Del. Nixon returned to Washington Monday night from Colorado Springs, Colo., where he battled a cold during the weekend. Nixon campaigned on the West Coast last week.

He goes on to Baltimore tonight for what he described as a major speech on foreign policy.

Former President Truman—who makes some Republicans see red with his thrusts at the GOP—headed for a Democratic fund-raising dinner at New Castle, Pa., tonight. He spent Monday pumping for reelection of Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

Three Republican leaders today jumped on Truman for his charge character assassination.

Republican National Chairman Meade Acland said Truman and the Democrats have "unleashed a name-calling vendetta" on Nixon while refusing to discuss the issues.

In another statement, Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) accused Truman of "hitting below the belt."

State Reports New Polio Death

DETROIT (AP)—One new case of polio was reported in Detroit Monday to bring the city's total for the year to 348 with 19 deaths. Wayne County, outside Detroit, had six new cases for a total of 184 and one death.

Nearby Macomb County recorded its second polio fatality in two days. The victim was Roy Tobbe, who died less than 12 hours after his wife gave birth to their third child.
